RIVERFRONT FUND TO EXPIRE UNLESS
RE-VOTED BEFORE
JUNE 30 DEADLINE

Comptroller General Rules
Congress Must Take Affirmative Action to Keep
$6,750,000 for Jefferson Memorial Alive.

SENATORS YIELD TO HOUSE OPPOSITION

Provision for Money Eliminated From One Appropriation Bill and Observers See Difficulty in Tacking It on Another.

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—Unless Congress takes affirmative action before June 30, no Federal funds will be available for the Jefferson riverfront memorial in St. Louis, Comptroller-General Fred Brown ruled today.

Possibility of action by Congress reappropriating the $6,750,000 already allocated for the project was narrowed down when House and Senate conferees on the Department of the Interior appropriation bill agreed to reject a proposal to make the fund available after the June 30 deadline.

All day yesterday House and Senate conferees wrangled over the St. Louis amendment, with both Democrats and Republicans on the House side holding firm against reappropriation.

Finally, in the face of this insistence, Senate conferees receded and the amendment was thrown out entirely.

Comptroller's Opinion.
The Comptroller-General gave his opinion in response to a request from Representative John J. Cochran of St. Louis. Cochran said he had been asked by a Washington representative of sponsors of the memorial project to call on the Comptroller's office for a ruling.

In his letter to Cochran, Comptroller-General Brown said an opinion on the memorial fund rendered to Secretary of the Interior Ickes on Aug. 7, 1937. In that opinion former Comptroller-General J. Raymond McCall had ruled that the $6,750,000 could be spent only for commitments made prior to June 30, 1937. But Attorney-General's order to put condemnation proceedings in court issued before June 30, 1937, was held to be an obligation under which the Federal fund could be spent for acquisition of the memorial site.

St. Louis Pays Costs.
In the August, 1937, opinion, the Comptroller-General also held that no Federal funds could be used for administrative expenses after June 30, 1937. This means, of course, that all administrative costs since that date have been paid out of the $2,250,000 contributed by the City of St. Louis to match the Federal allocation.

Brown in his letter to Cochran said flatly that "no payment" could be made out of the Federal fund after June 30, 1937. Under an old statute covering the lapse of appropriations, the money for the project would revert to the general fund of the Treasury.

"The use of any portion of the memorial fund for any obligation incurred after June 30, 1937, aside from awards resulting from condemnation proceedings initiated prior to July 1, 1937, or for making payments after June 30, 1937, is an obligation even though incurred prior to July 1, 1937," would require additional legislation," Brown ruled in his letter to Cochran.

Secretary Ickes' Questions.
In the August, 1937, ruling, never before made public, the Comptroller-General sought to answer three questions put by Secretary of the Interior Ickes in a letter sent on July 29, 1937. These questions were:

"Does the acceptance of the city's contribution merge the Federal and city funds and obligate them to June 30, 1937, so they may be used indiscriminately by this department in paying any and all expenses incidental to carrying out the objectives of executive order number 2283 authorizing the memorial?"

"May the contributions be used in payment of salaries of the non-civil service personnel heretofore and hereafter appointed to duty on the memorial project?"

"May Federal funds, obligated for the memorial project, be used for legal and administrative Charles Thoeke Dies After Being Hit by .22 Bullet in St. Charles County.

A bullet fired by a farmer from a .22-caliber rifle at a sparrow this morning accidentally killed Charles Thoeke, 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Thoeke, who live on a farm near Howell, in St. Charles County.

The boy was struck in the forehead. He died at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Matthew Schiebendren, the farmer, told Deputy Sheriffs he fired a single shot, which hit a sparrow perched on his birdhouse.

The bullet was deflected and struck the boy, who was walking through an open field about 200 yards from his home.

PREVENT NUDE DANCE

Howls From 1800 Men Greet Girls, Voluminously Dressed, at Oakville Farmers' Club.

Eighteen hundred men, assembled to see a naked dance, lifted their voices in a howl of rage last night at the Oakville Farmers' Club, Telegraph and Yeager roads, when the 10 girl performers, unexpectedly weighed down by voluminous clothing, pranced out on the stage to commence a series of scrambled acrobatic acts.

The Rev. Mary H. Ellis, with the aid of Gov. Stark and the Sheriff's office, had struck again.

St. Louis County authorities received a telegram from the Governor yesterday which read: "I am informed that a benefit smoker scheduled to take place at the Oakville Farmers' Club is in reality to be an illegal and immoral performance. If above facts are true, report your actions directly to me."

Deputies in Uniform.

Accordingly, two deputy sheriffs, in uniform, were conspicuously on hand as the curtain rose. The audience, which had paid $1 each for tickets, started applauding noisily shortly before 8:30 and a few minutes later the girls reached the stage.

"Take 'em off, take 'em off!" the men started shouting. The girls, however, contrary to the best traditions, remained on the stage and continued their tumbling. They essayed various feats, headstands, nips-ups, back flips and cartwheels, all of which, according to the officers, resulted in almost complete artistic collapse. It was easy to see that the girls had not been trained for tumbling.

The 1800 men grew increasingly impatient. In about 15 minutes they started to mill around menacingly, then without further ado, went for the management.

"Ganged Around Us."
"After that it was just wild," said Deputy Sheriff Jacob Pfeiffer. "They were hollering and taking on and it looked like they were going to knock the place down. Finally, one of the managers came out and made a little speech and said the boys would all get their money back later, but that didn't seem to satisfy them. They ganged around us and wanted to know what they could do. After a little while we got them quieted down and they went home."

The Rev. Mary Ellis, by telephone this morning, explained her part in the fiasco. "A tip came on the underground grapevine last Friday," she said, "that the granddaddy of all vileness was going to take place out at the Oakville Farmers' Club. I didn't fiddle around five minutes. I got on the 'phone and called Jefferson City."

"I had my secret agents attend last night, disguised as members of the audience. Everything went pretty well. The officers showed up, and, thank Heaven, we've struck another blow for righteousness."

The Sheriff's office did not learn last night just who were the sponsors of the affair. It was still investigating today.

Woman Who Pleaded Guilty to Killing Three Discloses Secrets of Insurance-Murder Band.

ONE OF 3 SOUGHT
AS LEADERS HELD

Investigator Says Agents of Gang Got Wives to Kill Husbands and Took Part of Proceeds.

PHILADELPHIA, April 26 (AP).—Detectives rounded up 13 more men and women today in an insurance-murder poison ring investigation and held three of them on homicide charges.

While investigators questioned these new figures in the case, Police Captain James A. Kelly announced "one of the three big shots" in the ring had been arrested in New York and was held by immigration authorities. He named the man and said he would be brought here for trial.

After hours of night sessions the investigators described how the four-state ring and its customers poisoned victims to collect insurance money under the leadership of a middle-aged man who practiced witchcraft and was known as "The Rabbi." He is still free.

Indications that the plot may have taken 75 lives in the last 10 years have been found by investigators. One man has been convicted of first-degree murder, a woman has pleaded guilty to three killings and three other persons await trial on murder charges.

Woman Discloses Ring's Secrets.
New developments in the investigation came rapidly after Mrs. Carina Favato, the confessed poisoner of three men, who has pleaded guilty, disclosed some of the ring's secrets.

Arrested last night and held pending a hearing at the Jefferson City Jail, Mrs. Josephine Romaldo, 41 years old, who Assistant District Attorney Vincent P. McDevitt said confessed poisoning her husband.

Mrs. Agnes Mantlik, 36, widow of a barber the State charges was poisoned.

Emilio Micelli, 30, accused of impersonating a poison victim to obtain insurance on the other man's life.

Police detained at least 10 other persons for questioning.

Micelli, accused of being an accessory in the death of Giuseppe Di Martino, collapsed during questioning but was revived.

"It will be at least a month before even the bare outlines of this case are clear," one detective said. "We haven't even begun to think of preparing the prosecution yet."

How the Ring Operated.
Another officer gave this description of the ring's operations in Pennsylvania, Delaware, New Jersey and New York:

"When members of the ring learned of a woman they thought might be interested in collecting insurance on the life of her husband, they would send an agent to see her.

"The agent would talk around the subject. Sometimes they would make love to the wife and suggest getting rid of the husband so they might be married.

"If they succeeded, they would point out to the wife that there should be a business arrangement. The women always did the actual poisoning. The contact man would say that he could get the necessary poison from a second party. The second party—our brains—would look into the insurance angle.

"If the policy was over $1000, the ring would take a flat charge of $300 and 10 per cent of everything over the remaining $700 that would go to the wife from the first $1000.

"In instances where the wife was unwilling or afraid to go through with the poisoning, she would introduce a member of the ring to her husband and the man would invite the husband out to dine frequently. Then he would put poison in the food."

"We have found no cases so far in which husbands poisoned wives.

"The general rule was that the wives had to do their own killing." Virtually all of the known victims were originally believed to have died of pneumonia. The poison used by the ring gives similar symptoms.

Chairman Lauf Walks Out of First Meeting Amid Tumult but Majority Stays and Ballots.

By CURTIS A. BETTS
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 26.—Gov. Lloyd C. Stark's bill to clean up crime conditions in Kansas City by taking control of the Police Department from the Pendergast political machine was returned to the Judiciary Committee of the House today after a three-hour caucus of Democratic Representatives.

The bill was ordered reported favorably last night by a majority of the members of the committee who continued a meeting of the committee after the chairman, Representative H. F. Lauf of Jefferson City, a Pendergast leader, had attempted to adjourn the meeting arbitrarily to prevent a vote on the bill.

As soon as Representative J. J. Brinkman of St. Louis, who acted as chairman of the committee, after Lauf walked out, reported the bill to the House this morning, Representative William H. Lafferty of Kansas City, a Pendergast leader and caucus chairman of the House, called a caucus.

It was agreed in the caucus that Brinkman would withdraw his report, that the bill go back to the committee with directions that a meeting be held at 8 o'clock tonight to act on it.

As the situation now is, a majority of the committee is in favor of a favorable report on the bill, and it is expected it will be reported tonight without any question as to the legality of the committee proceedings.

G. O. P. Supports Stark.

Before the committee convened last night Barak T. Mattingly, Republican State Committee chairman, in a formal statement threw the support of the entire Republican organization behind Gov. Stark's measure.

"It was pledged by the Republicans in the Legislature to the Kansas City police bill.

Lauf was antagonistic toward members of the committee known to be favorable to the bill all through the public hearing last night. He refused to recognize Brinkman for a motion to go into executive session, and with a smashing blow with the gavel declared the committee adjourned.

The committee was in an uproar, with members favorable to the bill denouncing the action of Lauf, who calmly walked out of the House chamber with the bill in his pocket. Twenty-two of the 43 members then proceeded to elect Brinkman temporary chairman and moved into the House lounge for an executive session.

PREPARING SPEECH

Acts as if Facing Crowd When Dictating—Friday's Address Shorter Than Usual.

BERLIN, April 26 (AP).—The speech in answer to President Roosevelt which Adolf Hitler wants to reach as many American newspaper readers as possible will be shorter than usual.

Instructions to all Germany's workers and school children to listen to the Reichstag speech from noon until 1:30 p. m. (5 a. m. to 6:30 a. m. St. Louis time) Friday, indicated he might speak only an hour and a quarter. His speeches often last two hours.

Hitler remained in Berlin to prepare the speech. The Chancellor has two women typists who rotate among the world's best, at least as far as writing in German is concerned.

Before calling them in, Hitler usually jots down an outline of his statements. He then dictates directly to the typists. He walks up and down, acts as if facing a big crowd, and so effectively conjures an audience before his mind's eye that he once said he could foresee exactly how his listeners would react.

Racing along at terrific pace as ideas storm in upon him, he gives the typists a merry time of it. Once he has started dictating—usually after midnight—he is not likely to cease until the speech is finished. That may mean that the typists go home after daylight.

Government Expected to Win on Decision Despite Fight by Opposition—Ready for 'General Settlement' With Hitler.

LONDON, April 26 (AP).—Prime Minister Chamberlain, in a statement timed to precede Chancellor Hitler's address in Berlin Friday, announced to Parliament today that around 310,000 men between the ages of 20 and 21 years will be compelled to train annually for the British Army.

Announcing that the first contingent would train for six months, then be given a choice of entering the Territorial Army (National Guard) or the army reserve, Chamberlain said he decided on conscription "to impress the world" with Britain's determination to resist any attempt at European domination.

The Prime Minister said earlier, during questioning, that Britain was ready to discuss a "general settlement" with the German Government if satisfied it was "welcome" and "likely to have useful results."

He told questioners also that his Government was ready to participate in any world conference, although no specific invitation had been received from President Roosevelt, who appealed to Italy and Germany for a 10 to 25 year peace agreement.

WILL ORD LOTHIAN CHANGED HIS MIND ON ADOLF HITLER

New Envoy to U. S. Says He Got Off Fuehrer's Band Wagon When German Aims Outright Rights

'GODESBERG SHOWED ME I WAS WRONG'

'Extinguishment of Czechoslovakia Has Confronted World With Entirely New Problem.'

LONDON, April 26 (AP).—The Marquess of Lothian, Great Britain's new Ambassador-designate to Washington, expressed his falling off the Hitler band wagon last September after the Chamberlain-Hitler conference at Godesberg on the Rhine.

"Until then," he said, "I believed there was no possibility of lasting peace in the world on the basis of denying Germany—and especially the former German Republic—the same elementary rights that every other nation claims for itself: the right to arm if others refrain, the right to occupy the Rhineland, the right to allow the Austrian people to incorporate themselves in Germany if the majority really wished to do so.

"But Godesberg convinced me that I was wrong and that the policy of appeasement as it was generally understood had failed. (It was at Godesberg that Chancellor Hitler met Prime Minister Chamberlain and laid down the German demands. The Munich pact, and German annexation of the Czechoslovak Sudetenland followed.)

"Since Godesberg it has become quite clear that German aims outrun German rights. The extinguishing of Czechoslovakia has confronted the world with an entirely new situation."

Lord Lothian until last fall was regarded as one of Germany's outstanding British friends. He was a leading member of that group of Britons referred to by anti-Fascists as "the Cliveden set."

Explaining he was speaking as an individual and not as a representative of the British Government, Lord Lothian said in an interview that in his view conscription in Britain was essential and that it should be followed by an agreement with Russia.

"I admit," he said, "that I have no sympathy for the political philosophy of this country, but I believe peace lies in our ability to form an alliance much stronger than Germany and Italy, and then to negotiate disarmament."

Lord Lothian said he saw no reason why a bachelor could not run an embassy.

"After all," he said, "there have been a lot of bachelor Ambassadors. I have a lot of sisters who will probably come over, but they have other things to do besides acting as hostesses at the embassy."

The new envoy will take up his duties this summer in succession to Sir Ronald Lindsay, who is retiring.

Lord Lothian praised the policy of President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Cordell Hull regarding world trade. He termed it a policy of "liberalizing the economic structure of the world."

Text of Conscription Statement By Chamberlain; Nothing Else Will 'So Much Impress World'

Volunteer Procedure Antiquated and Unfair — "No One Can Pretend This Is Peace Time in Any Sense of the Term."

LONDON, April 26 (AP).—The text of the declaration in which Prime Minister Chamberlain announced to the House of Commons Britain's decision to adopt a form of conscription:

His Majesty's Government have recently given fresh consideration to the procedure applicable to measures which they might consider necessary to put the country into a complete state of preparedness for defense.

Results of their investigation show that the present procedure for mobilization of forces is antiquated in character and is quite unsuited to modern conditions, based as it is upon the hypothesis that war would only come after such a period of calm as would give time to change from peace to war footing.

Broadly speaking, under present procedure, mobilization, whether complete or partial, can only take place after the issue of a proclamation—which is different in the case of each service—declaring that state of emergency exists.

Uncertainty of Conditions. The issue of such proclamations was no doubt originally contemplated as taking place when the outbreak of war appeared imminent, but in present times war may not appear imminent and yet general conditions may be so uncertain that it is desirable to take certain precautions without publicity and shock to public confidence which would be caused by the issue of proclamations.

Accordingly, the Government have decided at once to introduce a bill entitled the Reserve and Auxiliary Forces Bill, which will simplify procedure and enable His Majesty by order in council to authorize various service departments to call up any class or description of the reserve and auxiliary forces.

The bill will be temporary in character. We hope it will be passed without any delay in order that we may be empowered to act under it at once.

I may say that every other country in Europe has the powers which we seek to obtain under this bill, and practically every one has availed itself of them at one time or other to effect partial mobilization of its forces.

The Government have given consideration also to the new liabilities which, with the approval of all quarters of the House, they have incurred in Europe within the last month and to the means they have at their disposal to discharge them effectively. Need perhaps hardly repeat that the object of the assurance we have given to certain countries as well as of conversations now proceeding with other governments is not to wage war but to prevent it.

Bearing this object in mind, we cannot but be impressed with the view shared by other Democratic countries and especially by our friends in Europe that despite the immense efforts this country has already made by way of rearmament nothing would so impress the world with the determination of this country to offer firm resistance to any attempt at general domination as its acceptance of the principle of compulsory military service, which is the universal rule on the continent.

There is obvious weakness in the voluntary system which allows one man to devote himself to pleasure while his neighbor has to devote his leisure and his holidays to training himself to be ready in war to risk his life and the future of his family for his country.

It is, I believe, generally understood and accepted that in time of war military service would be made compulsory from the outset. But hitherto it has not been thought necessary to introduce any such measures in peacetime and I myself have renewed a pledge given by my predecessor that compulsory service would not be introduced during the life of this Parliament in peacetime.

We are not at war now, but when every country is training all its resources to be ready for war, when confidence in the maintenance of peace is being undermined and everyone knows that if war were to come we might pass into it in a matter of weeks but of hours, no one can pretend that this is peace time in any sense in which the term could fairly be used.

Of Temporary Character. Under the bill which I have already described to the House, it will be necessary to call up certain territorial and non-regular air force personnel to reinforce our system of anti-aircraft defense throughout the period of uneasiness which may last for a considerable time yet, but it must be recognized that this will entail on the part of territorial and non-regular air force personnel a sacrifice greater and more prolonged than was anticipated when they enrolled, and it would be neither fair to them nor to their employers that they should be expected to shoulder such burdens for long.

Accordingly the Government have come to the conclusion that to meet these new and I hope exceptional conditions, some measure of compulsory military training has for the time being become necessary. I say for the time being because I wish to emphasize that the Government's proposals, which will be embodied in a second bill as introduced at the same time as

LONDONERS ACCEPT DEFENSE TAX RISES

Against Conscription, However, and Insist on Fighting on Own Free Will.

LONDON, April 26 (AP).—Londoners, from navies in overalls to city brokers in wing collars, were discussing what one newspaper called Sir John Simon's "Hitler budget" today, and generally agreed "it might have been worse."

With nearly $3,000,000,000 to be raised for defense this fiscal year, partly by steeper taxes on tea, sugar, tobacco and automobiles, there was comparatively little grumbling over the budget which Sir John, Chancellor of the Exchequer, announced yesterday.

But there was plenty of grumbling about conscription.

"The rich will feel the automobile tax worst," one derided solicitor said. "I have a car and I like it. It might be possible now, not at 25 shillings per horsepower."

"I like a bit in my tea, but I'll have to give that up if sugar gets higher," said the old apple woman in front of St. Martin's in-the-Fields Church.

More Pipe-Smoking Likely. A tobaccoist predicted more men would smoke pipes, pointing out that cigarettes already were high and probably would be higher.

"But they won't mind paying it if it's for their good," he said.

Concerning compulsory military service, one big navy, as the British laborer is called, remarked: "I went over in 1914, but I didn't have to be conscripted. I have a son to go now, and he won't have to be."

The idea that France and Russia wanted to be reassured of British determination if it should come to war did not seem to him to be sufficient reason for conscription.

"What right have they to tell us what to do?" he asked.

Want "Big Fellows" to Go, Too. Some Londoners felt conscription would be all right "if we are sure the big fellows will be conscripted, too."

Some war veterans said they were ready to go to war again, but "on our own terms, not because we are made to."

"We do not need any law to make us stand by," was the general opinion in the streets.

A wave of nationalism could not be felt through the city. People talked almost as if Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini were old acquaintances who had done them a bad turn.

"That Hitler, he broke his word, he did," said a grizzled cabby. "Now if he throws his weight about again, we're for it."

divisions incidental to the acquisition of land and for development plans for the project."

Comptroller's Reply. This is the Comptroller-General's reply.

"While the action of the City of St. Louis in contributing $2,250,000, and the acceptance thereof by the United States constituted a contract with the City of St. Louis to apply the contribution for the purpose for which it was contributed, said contract was not such an obligation of the amount of the allocation as to make it available after June 30, 1937, for purposes for which not otherwise obligated."

The request filed with the Attorney-General of the United States to institute condemnation proceedings would, however, obligate the allocated funds for the payment of any awards finally made as the result of the condemnation proceedings, but such obligations did not include the payment of administrative expenses incurred after June 30, 1937.

"However, as the money contributed by the City of St. Louis would be subject to the same fiscal year limitations as the Federal allotment, that portion of the fund could be used for administrative expenses after June 30, 1937, but the unexpended balance of the allocated funds is available only for payments for the lands for the acquisition of which the Attorney-General was requested to institute condemnation proceedings and for the payment of any other obligations legally incurred prior to July 1, 1937."

Re-appropriation Difficult. Veteran congressional observers predicted that it would be extremely difficult to get the $2,250,000 re-appropriated in the final deficiency bill, which is not likely to come in final passage until shortly before adjournment. They pointed out that Chairman Taylor of the House Appropriations Committee, who led the House conferees in the fight on the memorial amendment yesterday, would also lead the House conferees on the deficiency bill. Also, the conferees on the deficiency measure will in all probability include several economy advocates such as Representative Woodrum of Virginia and Senator Adams of Colorado.

House conferees were flooded with letters from employees of riverfront firms all declaring that they would lose their jobs if the project goes through and the site is cleared. There were no letters, according to the conferees, in favor of the project.

ITALY DELAYS GIVING VIEW ON CONSCRIPTION

Before British Cabinet Acted One Paper Referred to "Tea at Five."

ROME, April 26 (AP).—A united Rome-Berlin reaction to British plans for compulsory military service was foreshadowed today.

The lack of reaction in early morning papers was interpreted in the foreign colony as meaning Italian editors thought the situation too serious for comment before the Government had had a chance to indicate the line to be taken.

There were indications that Italy might wait for Reichsfuehrer Hitler to give the Axis response on Friday when he addressed the Reichstag in reply to President Roosevelt's proposal of non-aggression pledges.

A few hours before the British Cabinet decision was reported yesterday, however, the newspaper La Tribuna argued that British military might would not be feared until placed on a "serious" basis "as in Germany and Italy."

La Tribuna said "sporadic and insufficient training neither worries nor frightens anyone. Rather, it worries only the allies at whose side these amateur warriors must fight."

The bitter tone which has crept back into news of British affairs was intensified in dispatches and especially headlines which implied reluctance of the British public to accept conscription.

Il Popolo Di Roma's half-page headline said: "In atmosphere of extreme excitement, French-English seek to parry blows of Axis diplomacy. . . . Nightmare of obligatory military service weighs heavily on England."

ONE SENTENCED TO DEATH IN FRANCE FOR ESPIONAGE

Two Others Get Life Sentences After Secret Military Trial at Nancy

NANCY, France, April 26 (AP).—One Frenchman was condemned to death and two others received life sentences today in a secret military trial on charges of espionage committed during last September's European crisis.

Louis Lucien Franck, 31-year-old blacksmith, was sentenced to be executed under France's new law providing capital punishment for spying even in peacetime. He was charged with having sold military information to a foreign power.

Marcel Ducloux, 26, a laborer, and Lucien Adam, 21, a clerk who at the time of his arrest was serving with troops in France's Maginot Line facing Germany, got life sentences.

Franck was charged with being leader of the three.

Chamberlain Announces Conscription

cuse for breaking its promise not to introduce conscription in peacetime and that "the Labor movement feels it has been betrayed."

The British Trade Unions Council and the Scottish Trade Unions Council issued statements opposing conscription.

Campbell Stephen, Glasgow Laborite, asked: "Since the Prime Minister has adopted bit by bit the policy laid down by (Winston) Churchill, does he not think that in every decency he should get out of the premiership and let Churchill in?"

Chamberlain, slumped on a Treasury bench, did not answer. Stephen's colleagues shouted "Resign! Resign!"

When Chamberlain said that the first classes to be called would be those between 20 and 21 years, there were cries of "Shame! Shame!"

A semi-official spokesman said that the age limit would be somewhat elastic. It was explained that some may be allowed to train before they are 20 if it is more convenient.

The announcement brought compulsory peace time military service to Britain for the first time in modern times. This break with tradition of voluntary service was intended to be a warning to Italy and Germany and an assurance to Poland, Rumania and Greece that Britain is prepared to back guarantees of their independence by drastic measures.

Chamberlain announced that the Government had decided to introduce a bill, called the "reserve and auxiliary forces bill," which would enable him to call up any class or description of reserve and auxiliary forces. He said the new bill would be temporary in character and he hoped it would be passed without delay.

He explained that special tribunals would be set up for "conscientious objectors" to military service.

Conscientious objectors will be exempted only on the condition that they "undertake work of national importance," Chamberlain said.

Presumably he meant work in Government departments or key industries such as armament factories.

When the Prime Minister mentioned measures to deal with conscientious objectors, the Laborite J. McGovern shouted, "You have plenty of them."

Later Labor members shouted "Resign! Resign!" at Chamberlain. Appeal for Labor Support.

Chamberlain had appealed earlier to a Labor group, which came to his official residence, for parliamentary support, but the Labor and Liberal opposition was certain to oppose the measure bitterly.

A section of youth had its say when the Cambridge University Union voted 204 to 144 against conscription after four-hour debate.

The announcement that a "no war profits" bill soon would be introduced was generally interpreted as a move to satisfy Labor leaders who had pointed out to the Government this morning that if conscription were necessary it should include conscription of wealth and industry as well as manpower.

Referring to this Labor suggestion the Prime Minister declared:

GREAT BRITAIN'S BUDGET AND ARMS FUND COMPARED WITH THOSE OF THE U. S.
WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP). COMPARISON OF Britain's new budget with this country's follows:
UNITED STATES. BRITAIN.
Total Spending.
$8,985,000,000	$6,177,800,000
Defence.
$1,126,000,000	$2,948,400,000
Deficit (Borrowing).
$3,326,000,000	$1,474,200,000
Note: British estimates are for the fiscal year beginning April 1 and the United States estimates are those made by President Roosevelt for the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

that "wealth is largely conscripted already—the income tax and surtax estate duties—all are at a high level."

He said it would be necessary to call up "certain territorial and non-regular air force personnel to reinforce our system of anti-aircraft defense throughout the period of uneasiness which might last for a considerable time yet."

When Chamberlain made his statement that wealth already was largely conscripted a Laborite member shouted "Don't talk such rubbish!"

At cries of "order," the member exclaimed: "What order is there in such a silly preposterous statement?"

General Debate Tomorrow. He announced a general debate in the House of Commons tomorrow on the Government plan. He said "it is of the utmost importance that the regular and auxiliary forces should be maintained at full strength," meaning that there would be no relaxation in recruiting efforts despite conscription.

When Chamberlain made his announcement, the crowded little chamber was filled with Government cheers and Labor derision.

"I thought you brought peace in our time," yelled one member, recalling the Prime Minister's statement when he returned from Munich last October.

Chamberlain said: "These proposals have been designed on a single object—to render this country able to carry out the engagements it has entered into in the belief that in that way the peace of Europe can best be secured."

He referred to Britain's pledge to aid Poland, Greece and Rumania if their independence be threatened.

When Chamberlain, calm throughout, sat down in his seat beside the Treasury bench, Clement Attlee, leader of the Labor opposition, jumped up and said:

"This will increase the already widespread distrust in the Prime Minister."

WALKOUT OF 3500 ON FEDERAL BARGE LINES THREATENED

Crew Here Refuses to Take Boat Out After A. F. L.-CIO Council Rejects Company Proposal.

NO FORMAL ORDER GIVEN FOR STRIKE

Management Says Contract Negotiations Are Still on — Wages, Closed Shop Are Issues.

A strike of 3500 boatmen and dock workers employed by the Federal Barge Lines on the Mississippi River and its tributaries was threatened today following rejection yesterday by the General Council of Riverworkers of a company counterproposal to the workers' demands for higher wages and a closed shop.

Negotiations for a new contract, to replace one that expired April 1, have been conducted here between G. E. Taylor, general superintendent of terminals for the Federal Barge Lines, and the General Council of Riverworkers, representing the A. F. of L. International Longshoremen's Association and the CIO Inland Boatmen's Division of the National Maritime Union.

Boatmen on three towboats now tied at the company's North Market street docks have declared they would not take the boats out until the company changes its position. The Post-Dispatch was told this morning by Felix Siren, chairman of the General Council of Riverworkers. Siren explained a formal strike order had been issued, but that the boatmen were "democratic."

The towboat Kansas City, scheduled to depart at 4 a. m. today for Peoria, remained at dock when the crew failed to report.

No General Tieup. Taylor expressed surprise at the refusal of the crew to take the boat out, declaring negotiations for a new labor contract had not been broken and that he understood the present agreement had been extended to May 1. Siren said there was no general tieup of operations.

The Federal Barge Lines are operated by the Inland Waterways Corporation, a Government-owned agency. They operate on the Mississippi from New Orleans to St. Paul; on the Illinois to Chicago; on the Missouri to Kansas City, and on the Warrior River in Alabama. It is the largest common carrier on the rivers, moving about 2,500,000 tons of freight last year.

The General Council of Riverworkers demanded that the company hire boatmen and dock workers from lists furnished by the unions; that wages of boatmen be increased from $80 to $130 a month; that wages of dock workers be raised 15 to 20 cents an hour, and that new dock workers be paid the same as experienced ones. Siren said the union, after negotiations, modified the $130-a-month demand for boatmen and agreed to accept a month's vacation with pay in lieu of a reduction in hours.

Company Counter-Offer. The company counterproposal offered to recognize the unions as bargaining agents, as long as a majority of the employees belonged, but rejected the wage demands and refused to consider a closed shop. Siren said. The company sought an open shop agreement under which it would not be required to discriminate against union members, provided the unions did not discriminate against non-union employees.

In a letter to the management yesterday the unions declared the company counterproposal was "drawn up with a view to reestablishing harmony between the company and its employees, but with the clear intent of laying the basis for formation of company unions."

The letter stated that the counterproposal was "unequivocally rejected," but extended an offer "to continue our discussions despite these acts of provocation."

There was a one-day strike at the barge lines dock last month over the employment of a non-union assistant stockpiper on the storeroom barge. Operations were resumed under an agreement to include the dispute in the general negotiations.

$47,490 OF $80,000 FUND SO FAR RAISED FOR Y. W. C. A.

To Date 2626 Have Contributed; Next Report Meeting to Be Held Friday.

Contributions totaling $47,490 in the Y. W. C. A. 1939 budget campaign for $80,000 were announced at a report meeting at the organization's central branch, 1411 Locust street, yesterday. To date 2626 persons have contributed to the campaign.

Mrs. Preston G. Orwig, a member of the Y. W. C. A. board of directors, said in a talk at the meeting that the organization's campaign, observing its twenty-fifth anniversary this year and that a new camp for Negro girls would be opened.

Russell L. Dearmont is chairman of the campaign. The next report meeting will be held at noon Friday.

Conscription

Minister and sow division in the banks of the country. The departure from the voluntary principle will have strenuous opposition. Chamberlain replied: "My conscience is perfectly clear."

Will Consider Any Proposal.

Replying to a question, Chamberlain said:

"The British Government would be ready to take part in a discussion with the German Government with a view to a general settlement if they were satisfied such a discussion would be welcome and would be likely to have useful results."

He added that, "although the British Government had not received any specific invitation from President Roosevelt to participate in a world conference, we have made it clear that we warmly welcome his initiative and would be willing to participate in any conference."

Chamberlain made his statement in response to a series of questions on President Roosevelt's peace appeal to Hitler and Mussolini. He said:

"His Majesty's Government are willing to consider any proposal that may be brought forward for the better distribution of raw material, to the access of which there is practically no restriction in the British colonial empire."

Robert Sorenson, Laborite, asked:

"Does not the Government appreciate that the initiative of President Roosevelt has had a profound effect on the world? And would not the Prime Minister agree that an equally democratic initiative by this country on constructive lines might also go a long way toward stemming the drift toward world collapse at the present time?"

Chamberlain replied: "Sorenson may rest assured that if we see any useful opportunity of taking an initiative, we shall take it."

Cabinet Approval

The cabinet met this morning to work out details of the measure providing for conscription.

While the trade union delegation was at No. 10 Downing street, Robert Taylor, president of the Scottish Trades Union Congress, said any departure from the Government's pledge not to adopt conscription in peacetime imposed an obligation on the Government to call a general election.

The Secretary for War, Leslie Hore-Belisha, and the Minister of Labor, Ernest Brown, discussed the conscription bill with the trade union delegates after the cabinet session.

A large crowd crushed into Downing street to watch the Ministers arrive and depart.

Approval of the final draft followed an announcement yesterday by Sir John Simon, Chancellor of the Exchequer, of a budget of $6,177,600,000—$11,700 a minute for this fiscal year—of which nearly half will be spent for armaments.

ROOSEVELTS TO GIVE HYDE PARK PICNICS FOR ROYAL VISITORS

Princes and Princesses of Norway and Denmark to Be Week-End Guests.

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP).—President Roosevelt and Mrs. Roosevelt expect to leave for Hyde Park tonight to entertain two pairs of royal visitors this week end and the informality customary at their Hudson River home.

If the weather is good, Crown Prince Olav of Norway and his Swedish wife, Princess Martha, will be given a picnic Saturday. There will be another picnic Monday for Crown Prince Frederik of Denmark and Princess Ingrid.

Mrs. Roosevelt said she hoped the weather would permit the picnic. Last summer she served "hot dogs" and a smorgasbord to Crown Prince Louise of Sweden on the rough hilltop site where the President is building a cottage.

Plans for the royal visits, Mrs. Roosevelt said yesterday, will be largely those of Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, the President's 82-year-old mother. The house where the visitors will be entertained is her home.

The Norwegian visitors will be there on Friday and Saturday nights, leaving Sunday morning when the President goes to New York to open the World's Fair. The Danish guests will arrive Sunday evening when the President returns and will remain until after dinner on Monday.

4813 PERMITS FOR BUILDINGS COSTING $10,276,000 IN YEAR

Last Year's Figures Were 4902 and $8,309,000; Increase in Home Construction.

A total of 4813 building permits for construction costing $10,276,481 were issued in the city during the fiscal year ended April 10, as compared with 4902 permits for construction costing $8,309,148 in the preceding fiscal year, Building Commissioner Charles A. Welsh reported today.

His report showed a substantial increase in home building. In the year just ended 837 permits for dwellings costing less than $20,000 were issued for a total of $3,981,950. Only one larger home, costing $25,000, was in the list of permits. In the preceding year permits were obtained for 661 dwellings in the less-than-$20,000 class. The total cost was $2,826,850.

The year's permits were divided into 2689 for new buildings costing $8,697,103 and 1824 for alterations totaling $1,579,378. In the preceding year the division was 2722 for new buildings costing $6,141,590 and 2179 for alterations costing $2,167,558.

TAXICAB INCREASE DENIED

Request of Seven Negro Companies Rejected.

The request of seven Negro taxicab companies to add 10 cents each to their fares was denied yesterday by the Board of Public Service on the ground that the companies had not made a showing that there was any necessity for the additional fares.

The companies are: Star, Careful, Flash, Superior, De Luxe Taxi Club, Allen and Central Taxi Transportation Co. There are 115 Negro-operated cabs in the city.

SILENCED BY FEAR, WITNESS SAYS AT TRIAL OF LAMANCE

W. G. Bird, in Wheel Chair, Names Companions of Osteopath, Accused of Wife Murder.

KEYTESVILLE, Mo., April 26.—A crippled oil salesman seated in a wheel chair, told the court today at the trial of William F. LaMance, former boxer, on trial for wife murder that he withheld certain information at the osteopath's preliminary hearing last fall because he was afraid. Hunched forward in his chair and apparently nervous under the fixed stare of the defendant, William G. Bird, speaking in the absence of the jury which had been ordered from the room, answered all questions as to the reason for his fear with, "I would rather not say."

At LaMance's preliminary, Bird, a neighbor, testified he had heard a crash of glass and voices after he arrived home the night of last Aug. 9 when Mrs. LaMance last was seen alive. The State charges she was fatally beaten by her husband because she objected to his heavy drinking and his associates.

Bird testified today he was in front of the Laclede garage 100 feet from the LaMance home the night of Aug. 9.

"I heard the crash of falling glass, voices and radio music," Bird said.

Names Doctor's Companions.

Then, he said, he saw LaMance leave the house with Mr. and Mrs. Asa Cross, and drive away in an automobile.

Bird's testimony was the first that other persons besides LaMance were seen at his home that night.

At one point in his testimony this morning the court ordered a recess to allow Bird to regain his composure.

Maid Tells of Stains.

Hazel Nell, a housemaid, told of cleaning the LaMance home Aug. 8 under direction of the doctor's wife, and again on Aug. 11 when only LaMance and Irwin L'arbaugh were there.

She said she tried fish for the two men before they left for Brookfield, where the broken glass in the door was repaired.

Under cross-examination, the maid told of finding fish scales and scales in the sink and blood spots on the table top of the kitchen cabinet, the door jamb and icebox. All of the blood spots appeared to have been diluted with water, she testified.

She also testified the stain on the table top was approximately half the cabinet's length from the drawer in which the key to the fruit cellar previously was kept. She also told of seeing blood spots on the studio couch in the living-room and other minor stains.

Bird is the son of Mrs. A. S. Bird, one of two other witnesses who testified yesterday of "annoying" noises coming from the LaMance home the night of Aug. 9.

Mrs. Bird said she could distinguish the words "going home." The other witness was her daughter.

The Missouri highway patrol placed the Pershing home, now occupied by the Birds, under guard today.

Jurors Sleep in Jail.

Jurors were locked in the county jail last night because the jail was the only accommodation big enough for them in town, but LaMance—free on bond—slept in his home at Laclede.

In his opening statement Prosecutor G. D. Green charged that the 32-year-old osteopath killed Mrs. Ella LaMance with his fists, then hid her body in the fruit cellar of their home.

The defense contends Mrs. LaMance, 29 years old, poisoned herself Aug. 9 and went to the cellar to die. Her body was found Aug. 18 after LaMance returned from Colorado, where he said he went to hunt for her after he missed her. He said he thought she might have gone to visit his mother, Mrs. Lora LaMance, who has sat near him taking notes at the trial. Green charged that LaMance killed his wife when she remonstrated with him for drinking.

LaMance once fought in New York's Madison Square Garden in a Golden Gloves tournament.

While awaiting trial he coached an amateur boxing team. He also taught Sunday school in Laclede at one time.

SIX PENDERGAST FIRMS CHECKED BY GRAND JURY

Edward L. Schneider, Officer of Group of Concerns, Continues Testimony at Kansas City.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 26.—Edward L. Schneider, secretary-treasurer of six companies in which Boss T. J. Pendergast or members of his family are interested, was called back before the Federal grand jury today as the inquiry into the Boss' income from business interests continued.

Schneider, an officer of the Ready Mixed Concrete Co. and the W. A. Ross Construction Co., concerns headed by Pendergast, was a witness all day yesterday. Members of the District Attorney's staff indicated his appearance before the jury would be prolonged.

Four Other Concerns.

He told reporters today that he is also secretary-treasurer for the Centralia Cracker Co., the Midwest Paving Co., the Midwest Precast Co., paving concerns, and the P. R. Realty Co.

Either Pendergast or some member of his family has held stock in the last four concerns for at least a year, Schneider said, adding that Pendergast had been president of the Ready Mixed and Ross companies since they were organized in 1928. Schneider was formerly an officer in the Old Public Service Pulverizing Co.

The jury has also inquired into other business interests of the Democratic boss, including the T. J. Pendergast Wholesale Liquor Co., the Sanitary Service Co. and the Kansas City Concrete Pipe Co.

When Schneider, a swarthy man of 40, went before the jury this morning he had with him minute books and stock ownership records of the six concerns of which he is an officer.

Walter W. Head, president of the General American Life Insurance Co. of St. Louis, again was present outside the jury room waiting to be called as a witness but was excused until tomorrow morning.

Jury Commission Clerk Quits.

Joseph G. Damico, Clerk of the Jackson County Jury Commission, handed his resignation to the Judges of the Circuit Court yesterday afternoon.

The Judges were investigating a jury panel which listed a top-heavy percentage of city and county employees. One of the cases passed on by members of the panel was that of David E. Long, member of the County Court, accused of misuse of county funds. Long was acquitted.

Damico, as clerk of the Jury Commission, prepared the lists of prospective jurors as they were received after being drawn from the Missouri State Life Insurance Co. O'Malley asked for $200,000 for the Pendergast machine's use. Head has stated to reporters that no money was paid.

In Circuit Court, fines totaling $1200 were assessed by Judge Albert A. Ridge against operators of four night clubs, who pleaded guilty to indictments charging violation of the State liquor laws. The clubs, licenses of which have been revoked, were State Life Tavern, the Perkins, Chesterfield and Reno clubs.

NEW YORK, April 26 (AP).—Increased fluid milk sales are reported by the Milk Industry Foundation. Daily average sales in March of 6,408,712 quarts made an increase of 5.1 per cent over 6,376,053 for March, 1938, according to reports from leading distributors in 136 markets.

JEWELS STOLEN BY YOUTH HIRED TO GUARD THEM

Walter Slater Admits Taking Salesman's Cases Containing Articles Valued at $25,000.

Walter Slater, who formerly roomed in the 1800 block of South Eleventh street, admitted to police yesterday that he was the man who stole two sample cases containing jewelry valued at $25,000 from Arthur S. Feiss, St. Louis jewelry salesman, in Peoria, Ill., April 13. Slater was arrested yesterday in River Aux Vases, Mo., in Ste. Genevieve County, after police learned he had gone there to stay with an uncle.

About half the stolen jewelry was recovered at the home of his mother, in the 1800 block of South Eleventh street, and discovered both Slater and the jewelry missing when he returned a half hour later.

St. Louis police were asked to search for Slater after it was learned at the Salvation Army agency that he had registered from here. Their investigation traced him to River Aux Vases, where he was arrested by Sheriff Louis Ziegler and D. H. Loll, a Peoria detective, who went there by plane. Slater is 22 years old.

Found in Cigar Boxes.

After Slater was brought here for questioning late yesterday he directed police to the home of his mother, Mrs. Marie Byrd, where 325 rings of various types—mostly diamonds set in gold or platinum—were found in four cigar boxes wrapped in a sheet.

Mrs. Byrd also turned over to police a bank book showing she had deposited $320 on Monday. Slater said he had given her this money, and also $125 to his wife, after selling the rest of the jewelry to the proprietor of a poolroom on South Broadway.

The man was arrested and was reported by police to have signed a statement admitting he purchased the jewelry. He took police to the home of relatives and turned over to them a box wrapped in paper which he had hidden under a refrigerator, containing 521 rings, 124 chains, 32 sets of earrings and other miscellaneous pieces.

Slater was returned to Peoria today, and Mrs. Byrd and the poolroom proprietor were held here on suspicion of receiving stolen property. Police also arrested a man who, they reported, admitted acting as intermediary between Slater and the poolroom proprietor.

deviation from the regular routine of selecting and preparing a jury list, nor did any person other than those regularly constituted by law, to my knowledge, have anything to do with the selection or preparation of the jury list, nor did any person other than those discuss with me the selection or preparation of the list. Any suspicion that may attach to this office, because of any seeming irregularity of names thereon, is utterly unfounded."

Garbage Collection Inquiry.

The Federal grand jury, which indicted Pendergast and R. Emmet O'Malley, former State Superintendent of Insurance, on income tax evasion charges April 7, has further testimony to hear regarding the affairs of both men. Besides Schneider, Lester F. Jordan, vice-president and treasurer of the Sanitary Service Co., is to be examined. The company holds the city's garbage contract, and members of the Pendergast family are financially interested in it.

As to O'Malley, it is expected that President Head of the General American will be questioned about the superintendent's demands on Head and David M. Milton, New York insurance investor, son-in-law of John D. Rockefeller Jr. After O'Malley permitted General American to acquire the assets of the Missouri State Life Insurance Co., O'Malley asked for $200,000 for the Pendergast machine's use. Head has stated to reporters that no money was paid.

In Circuit Court, fines totaling $1200 were assessed by Judge Albert A. Ridge against operators of four night clubs, who pleaded guilty to indictments charging violation of the State liquor laws. The clubs, licenses of which have been revoked, were State Life Tavern, the Perkins, Chesterfield and Reno clubs.

What if your wife looked like this to you, Mister?

AND HOW—MAYBE—DO YOU LOOK TO HER?

Or to the one-and-only? Or to the customer across the desk? Trouble is, we men are old softies when it comes to clothes. Too sentimental to say "farewell" when our favorite suit has passed its heyday. Let Bond show you how to make the parting painless. With some new numbers you'll like right from the start. And 2 easy ways to "Charge It."

Our Extended Charge Account invites you to pay 1/3 on each of these dates. With our Budget Service you have the option of paying weekly or twice a month. Take your choice.

PRESS IS ADVISED TO ADVERTISE ITS SERVICE TO PUBLIC

James G. Stahlman Tells Publishers Campaign Is Badly Needed to Show Relations to People.

HE URGES MEETING CHANGING TIMES

'We Do More to Promote Others' Business and Less to Promote Own Than Any Crowd I Know.'

NEW YORK, April 26 (AP).—President James G. Stahlman of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association said today that the capacity of the press to resist "criticism, misjudgment and assault" lay in the "measure of confidence and respect which we may deserve and receive from the public and in our financial ability to provide the services required of us."

In an address before the association's annual convention, Stahlman, who is publisher of the Nashville (Tenn.) Banner, added the press must "at all times strive to render the highest type of public service."

At the same time he said, publishers must "work together unceasingly to increase the efficiency of our operations and to endeavor to win for the daily newspaper a share of advertising appropriations commensurate with its capacity to serve, to stimulate and to foster the legitimate activities of American business."

To Meet Changing Currents.

The time has come, he said, when "the newspapers of this country must bring their dollars, their influence and their enthusiasm to the task of regaining the leeway in advertising revenues lost through failure to adequately meet the changing currents of abnormal times which less favorably endowed competing media have so successfully turned to their advantage."

"The daily newspaper," he went on, "occupies a unique place in the social, political and economic life of the nation. To discharge its duties and serve the public satisfactorily it must be free and financially competent. Its freedom, which is not primarily the privilege of the publisher but the prerogative of the reader, must be safeguarded at continual cost and sacrifice against predatory interests, political and private, by whom it has been assailed from the time the printing press was invented down to the present day."

"If there is one thing that is badly needed it is a public relations campaign on the part of the newspapers of this country. We do more to promote the other fellow's business and less to promote our own than any crowd I know."

As Public Servant.

"We must not only promote the newspaper as a medium for the advertiser, but we must continue to sell it to the people as an agency of free expression and as their valued public servant. We must present a united front to the blatherers and demagogues. The press not only must assert its freedom, it must constantly defend it."

During the morning session the A. N. P. A. announced the resignation because of poor health of Lincoln B. Palmer, for 35 years its general manager, and the selection of Cranston Williams, manager of the Southern Newspaper Publishers' Association, to succeed him. Williams' office at present is in Chattanooga, Tenn.

Aside from the presidential address, the association heard the reports of six committees—on the Wage and Hour Act by W. F. Wiley of the Cincinnati Enquirer; on the newspaper boy by H. W. Stodghill of the Hearst newspapers; on the Social Security Act by A. V. Miller of the New York Herald Tribune; on co-operation of press, bar and radio by Paul Bellamy of the Cleveland Plain Dealer; on Federal laws by Wiley, and on schools of journalism by Jerome D. Barnum of the Syracuse Post-Standard.

ROBBER WHOSE ARREST JUDGE CAUSED GETS 10-YEAR TERM

C. M. Huskey Pleads Guilty; He and Companion, Also Sentenced, Admit Series of Crimes.

Charles M. Huskey, one of two men arrested for a series of robberies last December as the result of information supplied to police by Circuit Judge John W. Joynt, pleaded guilty of robbery yesterday and was sentenced to 10 years in the penitentiary by Circuit Judge Edward M. Ruddy.

Huskey and a companion, Leo Edwin Ballard, both of Maplewood Park, a suburb of East St. Louis, were arrested a short time after the robbery of a grocery store. Judge Joynt, who heard a radio broadcast of the license number of the automobile used by the robbers, saw the machine parked near his home, 4159A Flora place.

Ballard, a former convict, was sentenced to 25 years by Judge Ruddy last week. The men admitted several other robberies.

STUDENTS DESCRIBE CHAMPAIGN SHOOTING

They Were Running From Negro Hotel When One of Them Was Shot, They Say.

URBANA, Ill., April 26 (AP).—Four classmates of William Spurrier testified in Circuit Court yesterday that Mrs. Margaret Strothers' Negro hotel when one of them was shot and killed last Feb. 18.

Two doctors who examined the body expressed the opinion the fatal bullet entered the right side of the back.

Mrs. Strothers' attorneys informed Judge John H. Armstrong they would not contest the State's claim that she did the shooting. They told the jury, however, that Mrs. Strothers fired only after one of the boys hurled a beer bottle through a window of her place.

The trial began yesterday with Dr. L. M. T. Stillwell of Champaign as the first witness. Both he and Dr. John Siegling testified as to the wound.

They were followed to the stand by the first of Spurrier's companions, Edward Witt, who formerly lived in Jerseyville, Ill., but gave his present address as East Lansing, Mich.

Witt testified they went to Mrs. Strothers' place because some one told them they could get a glass of beer there after the midnight closing hour. They arrived a little after 1 a. m., he said, and before they could reach the door a woman's voice shouted what he understood to be, or mean, at any rate, "get the hell out of here."

"We started to leave," he said. "I heard some glass crash and I started to run. I heard shots which I believe came from the direction of the house."

Later testimony brought out that it was Jack Pierce of Detroit, Mich., who had thrown the beer bottle. Pierce wired from Birmingham, Ala., that he would not be able to attend the trial.

Witt's story was substantiated by Jack Meers of Joliet, Ill., Edwin O. Sullivan Jr. of Chicago and Warren Klug of Northbrook, Ill. All five students were expelled from the university.

Ashton E. Campbell, Mrs. Strothers' chief defense counsel, cross-examined each of the boys. He asked them all whether they were carrying a pistol on the night of the shooting. Each replied "No."

HEADS NEW CITY DEPARTMENT

Assistant Smoke Inspector Put in Charge of Refrigerator Inspection.

William E. Allen, chief deputy smoke inspector, was appointed engineer in charge of the Department of Plumbing, Boilers, Elevators and Refrigeration yesterday. His salary will be raised from $2400 to $4000 a year.

The job is a new one, brought about by the reorganization of an old department and the fact that the city will shortly begin inspection of refrigeration and air-cooling plants. Allen, who lives at 823 Williamson avenue, received the appointment from Mayor Dickmann.

30 BRITISH SHIPS LEAVE MALTA FOR EASTERN MEDITERRANEAN

Visits to Be Made to Ports in Egypt, Palestine, Cyprus and Greece.

VALETTA, Malta, April 26 (AP).—A British Mediterranean fleet of 30 warships sailed for its first summer cruise in the Eastern Mediterranean today. Visits will be made to ports in Egypt, Palestine, Cyprus and Greece.

The cruise was announced suddenly Monday, when considerable bustle was created by preparations to carry out the sailing orders. At that time it was said the fleet would visit no ports.

A part of the fleet already is concentrated in the Eastern Mediterranean at Port Said and Alexandria near the Suez Canal.

4 ILL OF FUMES; DOCTOR TOO

When He Recovers, He Treats the Others.

HUNTINGTON, Ind., April 26 (AP).—When Mrs. J. G. Webb was made ill by fumes from a water heater, her husband phoned his son and daughter-in-law, who live nearby. They arrived and found the Elder Webb ill, too. They telephoned Dr. J. B. Eviston.

The doctor found both pairs sick. He called a nurse. The nurse found Dr. Eviston ill, too. She opened doors and windows. Soon the doctor recovered. He treated the others. Finally he pronounced all out of danger.

PUBLIC'S QUERIES HEARD AT MEETING ON SCHOOL SURVEY

Members of Dr. Strayer's Staff Submit to Lively Questioning at Civic Gathering.

ANOTHER SESSION SCHEDULED TONIGHT

Executive Office No Place for 'Checks and Balances,' Educator Says of Reorganization.

Questions from the audience about the findings of the public school survey—which were numerous, well pointed and broad in range, at a civic meeting at the Wednesday Club last night—will be called for again at a mass meeting at Beaumont High School, 3836 Natural Bridge avenue, at 8:15 o'clock tonight.

Dr. George D. Strayer of Columbia University, director of the survey, who brought leading members of his staff here to address the gatherings, announced that questions also would be in order at meetings of the teaching corps at Roosevelt High this afternoon and a mass meeting at Roosevelt High tomorrow night. The queries must be written.

The survey staff was encouraged as to the prospect for success of their proposals by the attendance of about 350 men and women last night and the interest reflected in the approximately 60 questions sent up. Mrs. E. T. Senseney, chairman, who is head of the citizens' committee which advocated the survey, told reporters after the meeting that an effort would be made to broaden the committee and perpetuate it in the general interests of the schools, especially in connection with the survey recommendations. The meeting was under auspices of her committee, the League of Women Voters, the Wednesday Club, the College Club, the Ethical Society and the Social Planning Council.

"Checks and Balances."

Dr. Strayer called on some of his associates for help in replies and occasionally they interrupted to augment the answers. When he came to an inquiry about the checks and balances in the reorganization plan proposed, which would concentrate executive authority in a single officer, the superintendent, instead of five officers, as at present, Dr. Strayer threw down the sheaf of queries and replied vehemently:

"If there is one place checks and balances are not appropriate, it's in the actual executive service of any governmental agency. The reorganization bill pending in the Legislature leaves the power in the people, who elect the school board, and the control in the hands of the board, but the problem of administration is not a problem of checks and balances. Every time the problem of checks and balances enters, good administration goes out. Some actions may serve as a check, but they will not balance."

"If you want to accomplish the objectives we have told you about tonight, you ought to go to Jefferson City and tell the Legislature to pass that bill. You're not going to get it passed any other way."

It is the survey staff's contention that the school system cannot be brought to the desired efficiency without carrying out this reorganization.

Summary of answers.

Answers to some other questions, summarized, were:

Teachers can help bring about adoption of the survey recommendations by becoming thoroughly acquainted with them and discussing them in groups.

Besides the 3000 copies of the abridged survey report to be delivered under the plan, the Board of Education could buy as many more as are demanded.

Curriculum and teaching methods may be changed to retain children of the 14-16 year level in school and reduce delinquency. Adherence to traditional educational forms is most pronounced in the high schools.

A middle school for the seventh to eleventh grades and upper school for the twelfth to fourteenth grades would not be as desirable as the seventh-to-tenth and eleventh-to-fourteenth division proposed, because of natural breaks in child development and for administrative reasons. The staff, however, is not firmly bound to any form of division, but considers it important to provide education for the 16-20 year level.

Public library and school should co-operate.

Promotion of pupils to stay with children of their own age level and acquaintance, as urged, would not make the schools "diploma mills," but would improve their functioning.

Retirement and Tenure.

Retirement of teachers and principals at age 65 would not upset the law giving tenure of position.

Negro children have equality of educational opportunity, except that their classes are somewhat larger than those of whites, but it has been difficult to keep up with the demand for Negro school facilities because of rapid growth of Negro population; new Negro schools are under construction.

PUBLIC'S QUERIES HEARD AT MEETING ON SCHOOL SURVEY

Members of Dr. Strayer's Staff Submit to Lively Questioning at Civic Gathering.

Executive Office No Place for 'Checks and Balances,' Educator Says of Reorganization.

Questions from the audience about the findings of the public school survey—which were numerous, well pointed and broad in range, at a civic meeting at the Wednesday Club last night—will be called for again at a mass meeting at Beaumont High School, 3836 Natural Bridge avenue, at 8:15 o'clock tonight.

Dr. George D. Strayer of Columbia University, director of the survey, who brought leading members of his staff here to address the gathering, announced that questions also would be in order at meetings of the teaching corps at Roosevelt High this afternoon and a mass meeting at Roosevelt High tomorrow night. The queries must be written.

The survey staff was encouraged as to the prospect for success of their proposals by the attendance of about 250 men and women last night and the interest reflected in the approximately 60 questions sent up. Mrs. E. T. Senseney, chairman, who is head of the citizens' committee which advocated the survey, told reporters after the meeting that an effort would be made to broaden the committee and perpetuate it in the general interests of the schools, especially in connection with the survey recommendations. The meeting was under auspices of her committee, the League of Women Voters, the Wednesday Club, the College Club, the Ethical Society and the Social Planning Council.

"Checks and Balances." Dr. Strayer called on some of his associates for help in replies and occasionally they interrupted to augment the answers. When he came to an inquiry about the checks and balances in the reorganization plan proposed, which would concentrate executive authority in a single officer, the superintendent, instead of five officers, as at present, Dr. Strayer threw down the sheaf of queries and replied vehemently:

"If there is one place checks and balances are not appropriate, it's in the actual executive service of any governmental agency. The reorganization bill pending in the Legislature leaves the power in the people, who elect the school board, and the control in the hands of the board, but the problem of administration is not a problem of checks and balances. Every time the problem of checks and balances enters, good administration goes out. Some actions may serve as a check, but they will not balance."

"If you want to accomplish the objectives we have told you about tonight, you ought to go to Jefferson City and tell the Legislature to pass that bill. You're not going to get it passed any other way."

It is the survey staff's contention that the school system cannot be brought to the desired efficiency without carrying out this reorganization.

Summary of Answers. Answers to some other questions, summarized, were:

Teachers can help bring about adoption of the survey recommendations by becoming thoroughly acquainted with them and discussing them in groups.

Besides the 3000 copies of the abridged survey report to be delivered under the contract, the Board of Education could buy as many more as are demanded.

Curriculum and teaching methods may be changed to retain children of the 14-16 year level in school and reduce delinquency. Adherence to traditional educational forms is most pronounced in the high schools.

A middle school for the seventh to eleventh grades and upper school for the twelfth to fourteenth grades would not be as desirable as the seventh-to-tenth and eleventh-to-fourteenth division proposed, because of natural breaks in child development and for administrative reasons. The staff, however, is not firmly bound to any form of division, but considers it important to provide education for the 14-20 year level.

Public library and school should co-operate.

Promotion of pupils to stay with children of their own age level and maintenance, as urged, would not make the schools "diploma mills," but would improve their functioning.

Retirement and Tenure. Retirement of teachers and principals at age 65 would not upset the law giving tenure of position.

Negro children have equality of educational opportunity, except that their classes are somewhat larger than those of whites, but it has been difficult to keep up with the demand for Negro school facilities because of rapid growth of Negro population; new Negro schools are under construction.

Decrease of white elementary school population is not due to exodus to the suburbs, but to declining birth rate. Generally the families moving to the suburbs have fewer children than those staying in town.

The proposed schedule to equalize salaries of grade and high school teachers on the basis of their training and service could be adopted within two years.

The survey does make proposals for a modern mental hygiene service.

One theme stressed in the addresses by the survey staff members was the need for citizen interest and responsibility in the conduct of the schools, as part of the process of preservation of democracy. Dr. Nikolaus L. Engelhardt, associate director of the survey, declared: "In a sense, from the standpoint of social and economic conditions, St. Louis is at a crossroads. The direction it takes may depend on the support given education. If you don't unite in a common front to attack this problem, St. Louis isn't going to make gains."

The survey was discussed by the staff at a luncheon of the Downtown Lions' Club and the Co-operative Club at Hotel Statler today. It will be taken up by the same speakers at a luncheon of the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs at the same hotel tomorrow.

SPECULATORS IN PHONOGRAPH DISCS SENTENCED IN RUSSIA

Six Get Prison Terms for Buying Up Best Records Before Public Offering.

MOSCOW, April 26 (AP).—Six speculators in phonograph records were sentenced today to prison terms ranging from five to eight years.

Testimony showed they had bought the best records before the public had a chance to purchase and then resold them privately at a profit.

A "spy and wrecker" who used "poison pen" methods to stir up discontent against the Soviet Government was convicted in Baku and sentenced to death. He was Hussein Zade Mahmed, charged with having been recruited by a foreign intelligence service, and with writing hundreds of letters falsely denouncing honest workers, causing many innocent persons to be expelled from the Communist party.

Keeping School Course of Study Up to Date by Creating Department Of Curriculum Advised in Survey

Director With Staff of Aids Would Have Charge — System to Be Gradually Rather Than Suddenly Altered.

By RICHARD G. BAUMHOFF
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.
Establishment of a department of instruction and curriculum in the public schools, to keep the course of study up to date and responsive to the needs of the times, is recommended in the survey report made to the Board of Education Monday.

The department would coordinate curriculum making, in place of existing non-unified practices. It would be headed by a director, responsible to the superintendent. His staff would consist of 15 specialists in various areas of instruction and two aids in charge of other functions. This staff would comprise the Instruction and Curriculum Council, furnishing leadership in development and improvement of the curriculum. The council might be augmented by the other assistant superintendents directly in charge of schools.

Declaring that steps for improvement must be postulated on the fact that the teachers and pupils themselves are curriculum makers, the report recommends the following points of basis:

Widespread program of teacher stimulation and growth, involving varied activity in planning studies co-operatively; continuing survey of community and educational needs, making the program fit requirements of different neighborhoods; individual school and teacher experimentation; preparation of curriculum materials, constantly offering a wide variety of new things for consideration. In connection with the latter point, distribution of teachers' accounts of teaching practices and experiences with new things, of exploratory materials, guides for community surveys, bibliographies and study guides is urged.

Curriculum Laboratory.
"St. Louis," says the report, "should at the earliest opportunity establish a curriculum laboratory in the broad sense of that term. It should be in charge of a director, who would also have general charge of instructional aids and the present Educational Museum. The laboratory should be equipped with work and conference rooms and contain an excellent library of professional books and magazines, all types of curriculum materials, sample reference, library and textbooks for pupils, and samples of instructional aids.

"An adequate program of measurement and evaluation should be formulated. This work should be organized on a much broader basis than the conventional testing program. Primarily, its purpose should be the evaluation of all instructional and curriculum practices in the schools. Evaluation must be made in terms of sound educational concepts and broad purposes, rather than as a comparison of children's knowledge of isolated facts with some norm or standard. The bureau having responsibility for this aspect of curriculum development should evaluate traditional practices as well as experimental practices initiated by schools."

The report says there are various areas in which the St. Louis curriculum may be improved. It recalls the largest organized curriculum-making program here, undertaken in 1925-26, which resulted in comprehensive changes, but the report says there has been little coordination or integration of the activity since 1927.

Up to Individual School.
"Undoubtedly the most potent factor in organized curriculum development in St. Louis is the individual school," says the report. "The St. Louis system, in keeping with the best present-day practice, not only permits but encourages local initiative and a large measure of local autonomy among the schools. From the standpoint of the curriculum, this policy has possibilities for both good and bad developments. A number of individual schools have engaged in more or less extensive curriculum work of their own; several schools have done significant work in redefining the whole scope and significance of the curriculum. "While these enterprises are usually co-operative efforts of the teachers working under the principal's direction, most of them reflect quite generally the thinking and beliefs of the principal and his philosophy permeates the entire program."

Curriculum materials now in use here are summarized as follows: 1926 bulletins and certain 1930 supplements, all out of print; printed courses for nine elementary subjects; mimeographed tentative course materials for certain materials; syllabi accompanying textbooks; circular letters and bulletins issued by staff members; materials developed by individual schools. "If the whole educational program is to develop and move forward along the lines recommended in this survey report," it is continued, "an administrative agency must be provided and be primarily responsible for curriculum development in all of its broad aspects. The administrative staff of the schools clearly recognizes this need."

Director's Duties.
The director of instruction and curriculum, who would have the rank of assistant superintendent, would have general supervision of all instruction, co-ordinating it, carry out the objectives proposed for his department; direct research studies and select textbooks and instructional materials. This would involve reorganization of the central office staff on a functional basis "in conformity with best present-day administrative practice," but the proposal calls for gradual adoption rather than an immediate sweeping change. The assistant superintendents, other than the head of this department, and one proposed for direction of business affairs of the schools, would be assigned by educational fields, but their duties are not specified in the report.

At present, the superintendent has six assistants, four of whom have charge of elementary and special schools by geographical districts, while one directs high schools and one the vocational and evening schools.

Included on the staff of the proposed department would be specialists in health and physical education, family life education, art, music, science, social science and language arts, but their responsibilities would be much broader than those of many of the present subject supervisors, with the primary function of leadership, rather than inspection. There also would be specialists in guidance, education of the mentally and physically infirm, and evaluation of teaching procedures. There would be also heads of a curriculum laboratory

Republicans Pledge Their Aid To Stark in Kansas City Fight

Chairman Mattingly Says Minority in Legislature Will Take Leadership for Police Bill—to Put Democrats "on Spot."

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 26.—Barak T. Mattingly, chairman of the Republican State Committee, last night threw the support of the entire Republican State organization behind Gov. Stark's anti-crime drive and pledged the votes of the Republican members of the Legislature for the Governor's bill to take control of the Kansas City police from the Pendergast machine.

In a formal statement, Mattingly declared that the Republican party had been reluctant until now to take an official position on the police bill, not wanting to become embroiled in what he described as an inter-party struggle between Stark and Boss Tom Pendergast for control of the Democratic party in the State.

He pointed out that, despite the "shocking revelations" of police-protected crime and vice in Kansas City as developed at hearings on the bill before the House Judiciary Committee, the Democratic leadership on the committee and in the House had become divided and stymied on the bill, and that it became the duty of the Republican minority, holding the balance of power in the House, to act in the interest of good government.

Now that the Republican membership in the House becomes the only instrument available for destroying the "pernicious and predatory system" in Kansas City, the Republican party offers the people of Missouri the united support of its members in the anti-crime fight and the assurance that the minority would assume the leadership and responsibility that has fallen to it, Mattingly asserted.

"We pledge to the people of Missouri the unqualified support and co-operation of our party organization," he declared. "It shall be our duty to put the legislative members of the opposition 'on the spot' with the people back home."

"Every Democratic legislator who places party self above patriotic duty, and political skulduggery above principle, will have to face the issues at the next election. We shall publicly brand him, in his own halliwick, as a satellite of the nation's most vicious machine. We shall force him to defend on the stump his support of a regime that exploits organized vice, and even murder, to obtain fabulous slush funds for crooked elections."

"Let the Democrats remember that this machine has not only cheated Republicans," Mattingly said. "It has disfranchised every Democratic voter in rural Missouri. No Democrat can aspire, with any hope of success, to nomination by his party for State office until he has gone to Kansas City and bowed the knee and kissed the imperial hand of the overlord."

"And so, every Democrat in the Legislature from St. Louis, or from rural Missouri, who votes to save the police power of the Kansas City machine is false to his own people."

"Wherever men can read the name of Missouri has been mud-splattered with the outrages committed by this infamous machine. Its destruction is long overdue."

The Republican chairman declared that the evidence introduced at public hearings on the police bill before the Judiciary Committee had revealed in sordid detail the vice, corruption, abuse of power, fraudulent voting and degeneracy of public service with which the Pendergast organization has ruled Kansas City.

It showed in part, he said, the graft charges which the Republican party has repeatedly made during the last three State political campaigns.

Mattingly was in Jefferson City yesterday conferring with members of the House minority.

and re-education among St. Louis teachers are evident in several findings of the survey staff. One lies in the failure of principals and teachers, and even supervisory and administrative officers, to carry into effect the spirit and intent of some of the educational proposals, plans and recommendations made by the superintendent's staff and staff officers.

"There is evidence that some undesirable policies and practices of the schools in curriculum matters have been adopted and are now justified on the ground that teachers recommended or approved them. Teacher participation in the formulation of policies and plans is highly desirable, but it must be based on keen insight into the problems of education, and on the understanding of the educational needs of children and youth, a knowledge of accepted principles of learning and sound concepts of the function and purpose of education in a democratic society. There is indication that groups work at cross-purposes and in opposition to each other upon occasion."

While in various instances individual school autonomy has produced excellent results in curriculum improvement, the report says, "certain schools on the survey sampling of 645 teachers in the system, but one in six stated that he had engaged in professional study or participated in group discussions of educational problems as an aspect of curriculum work, and many indicated that this study had been carried on in summer schools unrelated to the St. Louis program."

Roosevelt Talks on Relationship Between Children and Democracy; Text of His White House Address

Local Community, Not U. S. or State Government, Focal Point in Program Toward Welfare, He Says.

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP).—

President Roosevelt told the White House children's conference today that democracy rested not on "territory, financial power, machines or armaments" but on the "deep-lying satisfaction" of its citizenship.

The President spoke in the East Room of the White House to members of the White House Conference on Children in a Democracy.

It was the fourth such conference. Secretary of Labor Perkins is chairman of the present conference and the President is honorary chairman. Mrs. Roosevelt is an honorary vice-chairman. Membership includes representatives of states and territories, physicians, economists, sociologists, educators, nutritionists and other experts; representatives of industry, labor, farm groups and professional organizations, and representatives of administrative agencies of Government.

After today's sessions, the conference will break up into subcommittees for the study of certain phases of child life. Early in 1940, members will meet here again to recommend a 10-year program for meeting children's needs.

The President's address was broadcast to the nation. The text follows:

It is, perhaps, because I happened to be born with what may be called a "relative minor" and because I have sought to cultivate that kind of thinking for nearly half a century that I think of this conference in the first instance in terms of the past.

Child welfare—to use a much misused term—did not enter into the public conscience of any nation until about 100 years ago. And we know from reading Dickens and the literature of his period that the well-being of children in those early days was principally considered from the viewpoint of schooling and of crime prevention and the ending of physical cruelty—all interwoven with the sentimentality of the good, the ultra-good, Victorians.

As time went on some interest came to be taken in every nation, but still the activities of those who sought the bettering of the younger generation of the moment viewed the problem before them as a problem somewhat apart from the relationship of the younger generation to the broader public weal.

Time's Slow Changes.
Even at the time of the first children's conference to assemble in the White House under the leadership of President Theodore Roosevelt in 1909, the conditions that surrounded child life were discussed more in terms of child life than in terms of the national community.

This was true to a very great extent in the two succeeding White House conferences, and it occurs to me that this, the fourth conference, marks a new and somewhat changed era.

It is still our task to bring to bear upon the major problems of child life all the wisdom and understanding that can be distilled from compilations of facts, from the institutions of common sense, and from professional skill. This conference, like the others, is composed of men and women having a broad range of experience and interest in matters pertaining to the welfare of children. It is our purpose to review the objectives and methods affecting the safety, well-being and happiness of the younger generation and their preparation for the responsibilities of citizenship.

Principal Objective.
But we have gone one step further. Definitely we are here with a principal objective of considering the relationship between a successful democracy and the children who form an integral part of that democracy. We no longer set them apart from democracy as if they were a segregated group. They are at one with democracy because they are dependent upon a democracy and democracy is dependent on them.

Our work will not be concluded at the end of the day—it will only have begun. During the greater part of the coming year the members of this conference, representing every state in the Union and many fields of endeavor, will be at work. We shall be testing our institutions, and our own convictions and attitudes of mind as they affect our actions as parents and as citizens, in terms of their significance to the childhood of our nation.

"Prisoners of Fate."
In an address on Pan-American day, two weeks ago, I said: "Men are not prisoners of fate, but only prisoners of their own minds. They have within themselves the power to become free at any moment." On April 15, in addressing the heads of two great states, I stated that I refused to believe that the world is, of necessity, a prisoner of destiny. "On the contrary," I said, "it is clear that the leaders of great nations have it in their power to liberate their people from the disaster that impends. It is equally clear that in their own minds and in their own hearts the peoples themselves desire that their fears be ended."

In providing for the health and education of children, for the formation of their minds and characters in ways which are in harmony with the institutions of a free society, democracy is training its future leaders. The safety of democracy therefore depends upon the widespread diffusion of opportunities for developing those qualities of mind and character which are essential to leadership in our modern age. Further, democracy is concerned not only with preparation for leadership, but also with preparation for the discharge of the duties of citizenship in the determination of general policies and the selection of those persons who are to be entrusted with special duties. Beyond this, democracy must inculcate in its children capacities for living and assure opportunities for the fulfillment of those capacities.

The success of democratic institutions is measured, not by extent of territory, financial power, machines or armaments, but by the desires, the hopes, and the deepening satisfactions of the individual men, women and children who make up its citizenship.

Bridging a Chasm.
We shall be concerned with ways in which the broad chasm between knowing and doing may be bridged over. We shall be reminding ourselves that all the lectures on nutrition will avail nothing unless there is food for a child to eat; that a law for compulsory school attendance is one thing and a chance to go to school is another. Prenatal instruction cannot assure healthy babies unless the mother has access to good medical and nursing care when the time for the baby's arrival is at hand.

We know how to budget a family's expenditures, we have undertaken to preserve home life for fatherless or motherless children through the joint effort of the Federal Government and the states. We have made great progress in the application of money and service to the promotion of maternal and child health; the restoration of crippled children to normal physical condition; the protection of neglected children and children in danger of becoming delinquent, especially in rural areas; and the elimination of child labor from industries shipping goods in interstate commerce.

Only a Beginning.
Yet, after all has been said, only beginning has been made in affording security to children. In many parts of the country we have not provided enough to meet the minimum needs of dependent children for food, shelter and clothing, and the Federal Government's contribution toward their care is less generous than its contribution to the care of the aged.

It is not enough, however, to consider what a democratic society must provide. We must look at our civilization through the eyes of children. If we can state in simple language some of the basic necessities of childhood, we shall see more clearly the issues which challenge our intelligence.

Needs of Childhood.
We make the assumption that a happy child should live in a home where he will find warmth and food and affection; that his parents will take care of him should he fall ill; that at school he will find the teachers and tools needed for an education; that when he grows up there will be a job for him and that he will some day establish his own home.

As we consider these essentials of a happy childhood our hearts are heavy with the knowledge that there are many children who cannot make these assumptions. We are concerned about the children who are without adequate shelter or food or clothing because of the poverty of their parents.

We are concerned about the children of migratory families who have no settled place of abode or normal community relationships.

We are concerned about the children of minority groups in our population who, confronted with discrimination and prejudice, must find it difficult to believe in the just ordering of life or the ability of the adults in their world to deal with life's problems.

We are concerned about the children living beyond the reach of medical service or lacking medical service because their parents cannot pay for it.

Police Bill Wins Committee Test, but Is Sent Back

Within a few minutes they had voted the bill out favorably. 22 Members Vote for Bill. Two members, Representatives Morris E. Osburn of Shelby County and Paul K. Gibson of Knox County, who entered the executive session after the committee vote, did not vote on the motion to report the bill, but it received the votes of 22 members, a majority of the committee.

Representative Edmund R. Caldwell of Ralls County, Speaker Pro Tem, who referred the bill to the committee, denounced the committee's action to report the bill while the committee was in executive session. "Lauf has broken his word to me," Caldwell said. "He promised me in the presence of Representatives Osburn and William B. Weakley of Pike County, author of the bill, that if it were referred to his committee that he would be fair in the committee and would not shoot no curves. He has not kept his word."

Lauf, after declaring the committee adjourned, told two reporters that if the committee voted to report the bill he would pay no attention to its action, and would not deliver the bill to the House. Declares Action Was Legal. The action of the committee in considering the bill after Lauf's attempted adjournment was said by Representative O. B. Whitaker of Hickory County, recognized authority on parliamentary law, to have been legal.

"So long as a majority of the committee remained," Whitaker said, "the committee was in session and could act on the bill. The chairman could not adjourn the meeting without a motion to that effect being made and adopted by a vote."

The tense situation developed after more than two hours of a public hearing, in which spokesmen for the Kansas City organization occupied two hours in opposition to the bill and Weakley a few minutes in rebuttal. Brinkman sought recognition as Weakley closed his remarks, but Lauf ignored him. Brinkman insisted on his right to put a motion, but Lauf declared the committee adjourned. "I move that we go into executive session," Brinkman shouted. "As a substitute, I move the committee adjourn," called out Representative Edgar J. Keating of Kansas City, a Pendergast representative.

"The committee is already adjourned," Lauf said, as he picked up his papers and started to leave the table. Representative Howard Elliott of University City demanded that Brinkman's motion be put, but Lauf called over his shoulder: "I don't propose to let Mattingly run this committee."

"The members of this committee are going to run it," Elliott retorted. Members favorable to the bill remained at the table, while opponents and some of the weak-kneed members who will vote for it on the floor moved away and out of the room.

How the Committee Voted. Representative Lawrence Holman of Moberly took charge of the committee and put a motion that Brinkman be elected temporary chairman. This was carried, and the executive session held. Holman first called on Representative Maurice Schechter of St. Louis, ranking member of the committee, to take the chairmanship, but Schechter, lining up with Lauf and the Pendergast faction, refused. Holman then called on Brinkman, third on the committee, and he agreed to serve.

Those in the committee voting for a favorable report on the bill were Representatives Brinkman of St. Louis, Eugene W. Cooney of Sedalia, Paul B. Desseux of Linn, Robert L. Ewing of Nevada, James R. Garrison of Warrensburg, Holman of Moberly and Daniel O'Bryan of Charleston. Democrats, and Henry R. Aubrey of Branson, William Barton of Jonesburg, D. Raymond Carter of Seymour, Hartwell G. Crain of Webster Groves, Howard Elliott of University City, Charles Farrar of Buffalo, G. Ford Hays of O'Fallon, Randall E. Kitt of Chillicothe, T. Victor Jeffries of Lebanon, C. P. Junge of Colecamp, Frank Lowry of Cape Girardeau, Joe H. Miller of Carrollton, Wayne V. Blankard of Neosho, Mrs. Gladys B. Stewart of Ava and Randolph H. Weber of Poplar Bluff, Republicans.

Other Democrats Favor Bill. Although the vote shows only seven of the 28 Democrats on the committee voting to support the Governor, while all 15 Republicans stood with him, it is recognized that the Governor's strength among the Democrats is much greater than this vote indicates. For personal reasons, some members hesitated to take issue with the chairman and hold a meeting over his head, while there are others who are certain to vote for the bill on a public roll call but who, under cover of a collateral issue, sided with the Pendergast machine.

While at other public hearings the Pendergast organization attempted to remain out of the fight publicly, last night two of its leading campaign spokesmen appeared in opposition. The Kansas City group at the hearing were led by Price Wickersham and Cliff Langsdale, lawyers who have fought for the machine in campaigns. Wickersham's son is an Assistant City Counselor in Kansas City, and both Wickersham and Langsdale made speeches in the primary campaign last fall for Judge James V. Billings of Kennett, whom Pendergast put forth as a candidate against Judge James M. Douglas of St. Louis in an attempt to control the Supreme Court.

They and other speakers urged the committee to defeat the bill, their principal argument being that, under Mayor Bryce Smith, Kansas City was assured of an honest police administration. They presented statistics which they said showed that under municipal control major crime had decreased in Kansas City and that municipal control was less costly than State control.

Wickersham praised the photographic equipment of the Kansas City department, which he said was the finest in the country, and told of the use of motion pictures and color photography in the apprehension of criminals. Police Protection Ignored. The speakers did not fail to mention that Boy Scout troops had been organized by the Police Department. They admitted that there was gambling and vice in Kansas City, but asserted that it existed in no greater degree than in other cities. They avoided mention of the evidence produced at other hearings that in Kansas City gambling and vice were commercialized to the profit of the political machine and under the direct protection of the police. None of the speakers referred to election frauds, which resulted in the conviction of more than 200 election officials and policemen in the Federal courts.

During the public hearing, Lauf repeatedly refused to permit members of the committee who were favorable to the bill to question the speakers, a regular custom at all legislative committee hearings. Lauf had allotted two hours to the opponents of the bill, announcing that no questioning would be permitted until the presentation had been completed. When that time came, the two hours had been exhausted and no questioning was then permitted.

Representative Weakley, the only speaker in rebuttal, talked briefly, merely answering some of the statements of the Kansas City speakers. Wickersham had said that the efficiency of the Kansas City Police Department had resulted in a reduction of $10 a car in automobile theft insurance, and that there had been marked reductions recently in liability insurance. Weakley replied that the automobile theft rate was twice as high in Kansas City as in St. Louis, which has State police control, and that liability rate reductions had been put into effect in St. Louis as well as in Kansas City. Discussed Mayor's Record. Weakley's principal argument was that there was no basis for a belief that Mayor Smith would clean up the city.

"I have no doubt that Mayor Smith is all that one could ask personally, financially and morally," Weakley said, "but politically his record is not so good. He has been Mayor nine years and not once has he offered the slightest objection to the disgraceful police conditions. He has had just as much power through those nine years as he has now. Things will go along all right as long as the heat is on, but if this bill is defeated conditions will be the same as they have been during the past seven years of machine control."

"The City Council can take things out of his hands any moment it wants to, and there has been no change in the membership of the Council."

Weakley said that, while gambling and vice conditions exist to some extent in nearly all cities, in St. Louis and other cities it did not have the political and official protection that it has had in Kansas City.

G. O. P. Reply to Mattingly. The Republican House members who caucused briefly today, sent a telegram to Republican Chairman Mattingly, pledging continued support of the bill and good government. The telegram, signed by the Republican caucus, was in reply to Mattingly's statement last night urging Republican support of the Governor's bill. The text of the message follows: "The Republican caucus today has considered your message of last evening and has voted to assume the responsibilities with which you have charged the party in the Legislature. We intend to use the utmost of the strength at our command in the cause of good government, honest elections, the elimination of vice and fraud."

"We point with pride to the fact that it was the Republican members of the Judiciary Committee last night that made possible the reporting out of the bill which the people of the State have demanded at the hands of this Legislature. We pledge to you and the people of Missouri that we shall continue to be the implement through which the better citizenship of Missouri may express its ideals of government and translate them into action."

BUDGET ALLOWS NO NEW NURSES AT CITY HOSPITAL

Recommendation by Visiting Medical Staff for Increase in Workers Goes Unheeded in Bill.

The city budget ordinance, submitted to the Board of Aldermen today with the approval of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, makes no provision for an increase in the nursing staff of City Hospital, which the visiting medical staff has declared to be inadequate to the needs of the institution, and to have caused "disgraceful conditions" there.

In a statement issued Jan. 26 last, the visiting staff said the shortage of nurses at the hospital was such that wards of 70 to 80 patients, many with pneumonia, had but one night nurse; that diets and special procedures were rendered impracticable; and that complications, such as bedsores, accidents and cross-infections were "so prevalent as to be disgraceful."

At that time, the hope was expressed that the 1939-40 appropriation bill might provide for an increased number of nurses. The visiting staff asked for an addition of 75 to the existing number of 122, and Dr. Ralph Thompson, Hospital Commissioner, realizing that so large an increase could not be expected, asked for 42 additional.

But the appropriation bill provides for only the present number, 122 general duty nurses, 18 head nurses and 21 others, including superintendent, assistants and inspectors.

Joseph M. Darst, Director of Public Welfare, said today that he would try to provide for some increase in the nursing staff, by transferring other items of the hospital's appropriation. However, the hospital's total appropriation is $770,456, as compared with $796,215 last year, so no great increase appears possible.

The City Plan Commission receives $10,770 in the budget measure compared with $18,488 the past year. The new figure will provide for the salary of Harland Bartholomew, part-time engineer of the commission, for only six months, and will likewise provide for only a half-year for most of the others of the commission's personnel. Baxter L. Brown, president of the Board of Public Service, said today he would attempt to arrange, in the latter part of the fiscal year, to have Bartholomew paid by the day for the work he does for the city.

City Department heads today noted that, while their revised estimates of their requirements for the year had been cut 6 per cent, there was no cut in the appropriation for salaries and expenses of the Board of Aldermen, this item remaining at the past year's figure, $77,669. William L. Mason, president of the Aldermen, said that the salaries of the Aldermen and president, totaling $53,400 a year, are fixed by the City Charter. The remainder is for clerical assistance and other expenses, including a $5000 contingent fund. Mason said the Ways and Means Committee, which has power to cut the item if it should see fit.

The budget bill, reaching a total of $28,866,541, will have its second reading tomorrow and will be referred to the Ways and Means Committee of the Aldermen. In approving the bill yesterday, the Board of Estimate and Apportionment also approved the power rate of $2.77 to $100 valuation, the same which has been in effect the past year, for city-state-school taxes.

The total budget figure, which includes bonds and interest and sinking fund, and Water Department, is $2,908,727 less than the corresponding total of the 1938-39 budget, which was $3,173,268. Because of the record deficit of $3,332,881, left at the end of 1938-39, radical cuts were made in this year's appropriations for municipal purposes.

Alderman William J. Warnick announced today that he had under consideration introducing a bill which would greatly increase the license tax on places of amusement and which, he hoped, would bring in an additional $300,000 to $400,000 in revenue. He said he had not yet worked out details of the measure. Bills to raise the amusement tax have died in every session of the board for the last three years.

Alderman E. J. Fitzsimmons said he would re-introduce a bill for a tax of 1 cent on each package of cigarettes sold. The measure died in the last session of the board.

ADMIRER ON STAND, DENIES WIDOW'S STORY

"Did Not Go Driving" With Her Husband Night He Was Killed.

NORWALK, O., April 26 (AP).—Harold Hastings, on trial for his life as the alleged murderer of Carl Schlett, today disputed Mrs. Coletta Schlett's testimony that he went driving with Schlett the night he was run down by an automobile and killed.

"I know I didn't," he testified. "I just wasn't me."

Hastings also denied Mrs. Schlett's testimony that he had been intimate with her "two or three times a month since June, 1937."

Hastings said there were only three times in all their 18 months' companionship.

Her unblinking courtroom recital of intimacies with Hastings appeared today to have won Mrs. Schlett a promise of escape from prosecution by helping the State in its effort to send him to the electric chair.

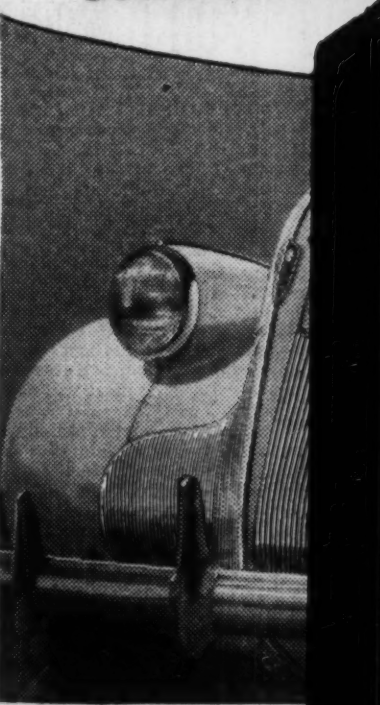

As the murder trial of Hastings, Sandusky (O.) steelworker, entered its third day, Prosecutor Rex Bracy announced he would recommend that Mrs. Schlett be freed and demand the death penalty for her admirer.

Widowed when her husband, 39 years old, was killed in a blizzard on the highway Jan. 26, Mrs. Schlett, 28, mother of a 7-year-old daughter, is accused of conspiring with Hastings to run down her husband with an automobile.

She bared to a crowded courtroom yesterday an illicit two-year romance with her neighbor and asserted she last saw her husband alive when he left their home with Hastings.

Mrs. Schlett can go free," said Bracy. "We intend to ask the Court to nolle the indictment against her when this case is over."

The request will be made whether Hastings is convicted or not, Bracy said. A three-judge court, trying the case in the absence of a jury, must approve the prosecutor's motion.

Cattle Stampede, Break Windows. WEST PLAINS, Mo., April 26.—A stampede of 100 yearling cattle from the stockyards here caused considerable damage before finally being rounded up by stockmen.

Shortly before midnight the herd made a break for the business district. They broke large plate-glass windows at the Arthur Allen store and caused considerable damage at the Masonic Temple.

PAIR FOUND SHOT TO DEATH

GARY, Ind., April 26 (AP).—Police Consider Theory of Suicide Pact.

GARY, Ind., April 26 (AP).—William J. Smith, 30 years old, and Ella Roberts, 28, were found fatally wounded last night in a rooming house flat they had occupied for the last nine days. Letters found in the flat indicated they formerly lived in Centralia, Ill. Recently Smith had been working in a Whiting (Ind.) refinery.

Smith had been shot in the back of the head, Miss Roberts in the right temple. A .32-caliber pistol was found beside the woman. Both died a few minutes after other residents heard the shots. Police considered a theory that they died in a suicide pact.

BROWNS 6, TIGERS 6 (INNINGS); CARDINALS 1, CINCINNATI 0 (5 1/2 INNINGS)

Greenberg, Rogell, Sullivan, Almada and Hoag Hit Home Runs

By James M. Gould
Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.

DETROIT, April 26.—Buck Newsum, the Browns' pitching ace, stepped out in search of his second 1939 victory this afternoon as he faced the Tigers in the third and final game of the series. Vernon Kennedy, formerly of the White Sox, was Newsum's opponent.

Because he handled Newsum so well in the season opener at Chicago, Billy Sullivan received the catching assignment. Beau Bell was out of action and Joe Grace again played left field.

"Despite a dull, overcast day, the attendance was estimated at 5000. Kolls, Rue and Geisel were the umpires.

The game: FIRST INNING—BROWNS—Almada singled. Grace filed to McCosky. McCosky singled Almada to second. Kress singled, scoring Almada and sending McCosky to third. Clift struck out. Hoag filed to Walker. ONE RUN.

TIGERS—McCosky beat out a hit to Kress. It was the eighth straight game in which the young outfielder has hit safely. Walker walked. Gehring grounded out to McCosky. Greenberg struck out. Newsum threw out Fox.

SECOND INNING—BROWNS—Berardino fouled to Tebbetts. Sullivan hit a home run into the right field stands. Newsum singled. Kennedy threw out Almada. Grace popped to Gehring. ONE RUN.

TIGERS—Newsum threw out Tebbetts. Rogell grounded out to Berardino. Christman filed to Almada.

THIRD INNING—BROWNS—McCosky singled. Kress filed to McCosky. Clift hit into a double play, Christman to Gehring to Greenberg. TIGERS—Kennedy grounded out to McCosky. McCosky was called out on strikes. Walker grounded out to Clift.

FOURTH INNING—BROWNS—Hoag filed to McCosky. Berardino popped to Gehring. Sullivan grounded out to Greenberg. Greenberg hit a home run into the center field stands, scoring behind Gehring. Fox struck out. Tebbetts popped to Berardino. Rogell hit to right for a home run. Kress threw out Christman. THREE RUNS.

FIFTH INNING—BROWNS—Newsum grounded out to Rogell. Almada tied the score with a homer to right. Grace filed to Walker. McCosky lined to McCosky. ONE RUN.

TIGERS—Kennedy struck out. Berardino threw out McCosky. Walker filed to Hoag.

SIXTH INNING—BROWNS—Rogell hit a home run. Clift filed to Walker. Hoag hit to left for the fifth home run of the game. Berardino singled. Sullivan walked. Coffman replaced Kennedy on the hill for the Tigers. Newsum filed to Fox. ONE RUN.

TIGERS—Kennedy grounded out to Berardino. Clift threw out Greenberg. Fox struck out, but had to be thrown out, Sullivan to McCosky.

SEVENTH INNING—BROWNS—Gehring threw out Almada. Grace fouled to Tebbetts. McCosky doubled. Kress singled, scoring McCosky. Clift filed to Fox. ONE RUN.

TIGERS—Tebbetts grounded out to Kress. Berardino threw out Rogell. Christman doubled. Fleming batted for Coffman and was thrown out by Newsum.

EIGHTH INNING—BROWNS—Harris pitched for the Tigers. Hoag lined to Fox. Christman threw out Berardino. Sullivan singled. Newsum bunted safely. Sullivan stopped at second. Almada singled, scoring Sullivan. Grace forced Almada, Rogell to Gehring. ONE RUN.

NINTH INNING—BROWNS—Harris pitched for the Tigers. Hoag lined to Fox. Christman threw out Berardino. Sullivan singled. Newsum bunted safely. Sullivan stopped at second. Almada singled, scoring Sullivan. Grace forced Almada, Rogell to Gehring. ONE RUN.

INDIANAPOLIS SETS ASSOCIATION PACE

COLUMBUS, O., April 26 (AP).—The four Western clubs of the American Association were back on home soil today, ready for their season's debut before the home folks after a nonstop successful 12-day sojourn in the Eastern half of the circuit.

Only one of the four Western teams managed to hold onto a first division berth during the opening period of competition on the road. Minneapolis returned home with four victories in seven games and the Louisville for third place.

Columbus was the only home team which remained in second division despite the advantage of playing in its own park. But Shotton's crew took three of seven games, a performance good enough for only seventh place. Of the other Eastern teams, Indianapolis is leading the league, Toledo is second and Louisville is in a third place deadlock with Minneapolis.

Kansas City and St. Paul won their first 1939 game with 200 per centages which left them tied for fifth place and Milwaukee's slow-starting Brewers are in the cellar with two victories in eight games.

Dr. Henry McCarthy Dies. BALTIMORE, April 26 (AP).—Dr. Henry J. McCarthy, nationally known race track veterinarian, died yesterday after a long illness. He was 71.

Wants Outdoor Record. Bob Diabene, who has won a record of 6 feet 6 inches indoors, is trying to reach the 6 feet 6 inches mark outdoors.

Hot Times at the Hot Corner

Joe Medwick, Cardinal slugger, tried to go from first to third on Terry Moore's single in the fourth inning, but found Ival Goodman's throw to Bill Werber waiting for him. It was close and the Redbirds kicked, but it did no good.

STOCKHAM GIRLS LOSE HARD GAME TO GRADS, 35-24

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
EDMONTON, Alta., April 26.—Edmonton's world champion girls, who have not lost an Underwood trophy international girls' basketball series since they won the North American title from Cleveland in 1923, now hold a record of eight straight victories over teams from St. Louis. Their most recent victim was the Stockham Legion team, which lost a stinging 35-24 decision to the Canadians before 2200 paying customers at the Arena here last night.

In 1926, the Grads won two straight from the Curlews. In 1927, they took two in a row from the Peetz five. In 1935 they defeated the Shaw-Stephens squad (now St. Louis) three straight. Last night's game was the first home game for the Grads since last October.

A field goal by Mary Rudis, two pivot shots by Bernice Frillman and a set-up under the net by Capt. Mary Decker gave the Americans an 8-0 lead in the first three minutes. Then they began to fumble and foul, and the Grads slowly but surely crept up, tied the score and went on to lead 14-8, at the end of the quarter.

At the half they had increased the margin to 22-15, and then, after three periods, the Canadians led, 30-22. In the final period the St. Louis girls, led by their star guard, Mary Rudis, on fouls.

Mrs. Frillman, who led the Legion girls in scoring with three field goals and two free throws, for eight points, ran her scoring string to 34 straight games.

The second game of the best three-out-of-five game series will be played tomorrow night.

Don't Get That Way.
YOU'D THINK THE YANKEES were already in and ready for the world series to hear the boys talk, today. And it's the same way with the Derby chatter. Johnston on the bit is the way the bookies see it, after Johnston's remarkable race in the Wood Haven Purse.

And there's some reason for both views, the Yanks having won five of the six games played

JUNIOR LEGION LEAGUE SEASON BEGINS JUNE 6

Officials of the American Legion Junior baseball competition in St. Louis announced today that the season would begin June 6, with two leagues in the field. Each circuit, limited to six clubs, will play on Tuesdays and Saturdays of each week, one at Fairgrounds Park and the other at Carondelet Park.

Present plans call for the winners of the two league titles to play for the city championship in a two-out-of-three games series in July. Efforts will be made to obtain Sportsman's Park for the contests, inasmuch as there are open dates in the major league schedules here, July 10, 11 and 12, because of the All-Star game in New York.

Boys born in 1922 or thereafter are eligible. All players must present their birth certificates.

U. Robert D. Turner, Director of Recreation, is president of the league.

FIRST INNING—REDS—Werber filed to T. Moore. Frey doubled. Goodman walked. McCormick lined to Slaughter. L. Myers threw out Lombardi.

CARDINALS—Brown filed to Berger. Guttridge grounded to McCormick. Grissom covering first. Slaughter singled. Medwick walked. Mize grounded out to McCormick.

SECOND INNING—Craft filed to T. Moore. Brown threw out Berger. W. Myers was out the same way.

CARDINALS—T. Moore filed to Goodman. Owen grounded out to W. Myers. L. Myers struck out.

THIRD INNING—REDS—Grissom was called out on strikes. Werber was hit by a pitched ball. Werber was picked off first. C. Davis to Mize. Frey walked. Goodman popped to L. Myers.

CARDINALS—C. Davis struck out. Brown doubled. Guttridge popped to W. Myers. Slaughter walked. Medwick singled but Brown was caught between third and home and retired. Goodman to Lombardi to Werber.

FOURTH INNING—REDS—McCormick lined to Brown. Lombardi filed to Slaughter. Craft popped to Brown.

CARDINALS—Mize grounded to Frey. T. Moore walked. Owen filed to Berger. L. Myers singled. T. Moore to third. C. Davis singled, scoring T. Moore. L. Myers stopping at second. Brown forced C. Davis, W. Myers to Frey. ONE RUN.

FIFTH INNING—REDS—Berger popped to L. Myers. W. Myers was called out on strikes. So was Grissom.

CARDINALS LEAVE 12 ON BASES AS REDS TAKE OPENER, 5-1

Will McKee's Reds, the baseball writers' choice for the National League pennant, are off to an excellent start in the young flag race if you saw the smooth Cincinnati machine, complete with infield, defeat the Cardinals in businesslike fashion in the series opener, you'll understand why so many observers picked the Redbirds.

Bill Werber, who added much to the Cincinnati infield when he moved over from the American League, opened the game with a shin-busting single to Lynn Myers, Lonnie Frey walked, Ival Goodman sacrificed, and Bob Weiland was fairly started Frank McCormick lined a single to left and the Reds had two runs and a ball game they finally won, 5 to 1.

Yes, those two runs were enough, thanks to the brilliant pinch-pitching of Lloyd (Whip) Moore, which brought up the great McKee's asset of knowing pitchers. Moore and Johnny Vander Meer, the double no-hit southpaw, took turns in batting practice and naturally the customers and the Cardinals thought Vander Meer was the fireballer. But McKee's saw something and picked Moore, and Moore was so good that those two first-inning runs were too bad for Weiland and the Cardinals.

The box score doesn't indicate the extent of the Reds' lead. It shows 10 Cardinals hits, and it seemed that every time you looked up the base paths were clogged with Redbird runners. But putting men on base was one thing, and driving them around was another. When men were on the bases, Moore fired that high hard one past the Redbirds with such skill that 12 St. Louis runners were left on the bases and one promising rally after another blew up in scores.

While the Reds were winning the game the Cardinals exhibited three shortouts, four pitchers and four pinch-batters, and it certainly looks like a season of many long box scores.

ST. LOUIS U. HIGH AND MCBRIDE WIN PREP LEAGUE GAMES

McBride and St. Louis U. High baseball teams gained victories in the Prep League, yesterday. McBride turned back C. B. C., 6-4, with a four-run rally in the seventh and last inning. The Junior Billkins defeated Western, 7-5.

ST. LOUIS SOFTBALL PARK OPENS SATURDAY

The St. Louis Softball Park, Ohio and Shenandoah avenues, will open its season Saturday night, it is announced by Manager Martin Loftus. The park will operate with five girls' teams and eight men's clubs.

The following teams comprise the roster: Girls — Holts, Bremeyers, Dave Hess, Tobacco Workers Union and Melbers. Men — Kuts, Phelim O'Toole, Omaha, Holts, Tobacco Workers Union, Drees Shade, Griesedick Bros. and Harvest Hat.

In the opener the Bremeyers girls will take on the Tobacco Workers in the park championships of 1938. In the men's game the Kuts Underakers yesterday with a six-hit game. He showed speed, control and good handwork in defeating the big guns of the Tigers after an indifferent start had him two runs in the hole.

His record with the San Antonio team last year showed 20 victories and at his age he certainly should improve. That may happen this year and should it occur, it would stiffen the defense and the morale of the entire club. A companion star to Buck Newsum is about all the club needs.

Curt Davis on Mount For Redbirds Against Southpaw Lee Grissom

By J. Roy Stockton
SPORTSMAN'S PARK, April 26.—Lee Grissom, who might have won the pennant for the Cincinnati Reds last year and could help them materially if able to pitch regularly this season, faced the Cardinals this afternoon in the second and final game of the series. Curt Davis, who lost to the Cubs in the opening game at home, was the St. Louis pitcher.

About 2000 cash customers and 1000 women formed the Ladies' day crowd.

FIRST INNING—REDS—Werber filed to T. Moore. Frey doubled. Goodman walked. McCormick lined to Slaughter. L. Myers threw out Lombardi.

CARDINALS—Brown filed to Berger. Guttridge grounded to McCormick. Grissom covering first. Slaughter singled. Medwick walked. Mize grounded out to McCormick.

SECOND INNING—Craft filed to T. Moore. Brown threw out Berger. W. Myers was out the same way.

CARDINALS—T. Moore filed to Goodman. Owen grounded out to W. Myers. L. Myers struck out.

THIRD INNING—REDS—Grissom was called out on strikes. Werber was hit by a pitched ball. Werber was picked off first. C. Davis to Mize. Frey walked. Goodman popped to L. Myers.

CARDINALS—C. Davis struck out. Brown doubled. Guttridge popped to W. Myers. Slaughter walked. Medwick singled but Brown was caught between third and home and retired. Goodman to Lombardi to Werber.

FOURTH INNING—REDS—McCormick lined to Brown. Lombardi filed to Slaughter. Craft popped to Brown.

CARDINALS—Mize grounded to Frey. T. Moore walked. Owen filed to Berger. L. Myers singled. T. Moore to third. C. Davis singled, scoring T. Moore. L. Myers stopping at second. Brown forced C. Davis, W. Myers to Frey. ONE RUN.

FIFTH INNING—REDS—Berger popped to L. Myers. W. Myers was called out on strikes. So was Grissom.

INDIANS LEAD QUALIFIERS IN DISTRICT MEET

14 Members of Championship Team Gain Places in Finals to Be Held at Maplewood Saturday.

University City's track athletes, winners of the Missouri State indoor title, stand a good chance of retaining the St. Louis district interscholastic track and field championship, as 14 of their number have already qualified for Saturday's finals to be held at the Maplewood High stadium.

Today finds athletes from 26 schools finishing the preliminaries in six "A" senior division events, a similar number in the "B" senior group, and five in the junior division.

Coach Henry Schenck has eight U. City qualifiers in the "A" division, and six more in the junior division. Roosevelt and Normandy, the two schools most likely to press U. City for the honors in the twelfth annual meet, placed eight and 10 men, respectively, in the finals. Seven of Normandy's qualifiers were in the junior division.

St. Charles again may capture the "B" division laurels, having placed eight qualifiers, two more than Fairview.

While the track competition was keen, records remained intact. However, in the junior high jump, Bernard Eder of University City, established a new mark of 5 feet 10 inches, three-eighths of an inch better than the standard set by Eder at Webster Groves in 1936.

He will have to win Saturday to make the record stand.

The only casualty of the program occurred when William Helms, starter, had his right hand powder burned when the gun jammed.

STAN LAUREL GETS WIFE TO DROP SUIT, THEN SUES HER Comedian Seeks Divorce From Russian Wife on Charge of Mental Cruelty.
LOS ANGELES, April 26 (AP).—Stan Laurel, comedian who recently induced his Russian wife, Illeana, to drop her $1000 a month maintenance suit, sued her for divorce yesterday.

Laurel, who once was accused by Illeana of trying to bury her alive, described himself as a devoted husband and accused her of mental cruelty. Among other things, Laurel charged that Illeana stayed away from home for two days at a time, and while away would telephone him at all hours of the night, telling him she was surrounded by admirers who insisted she get a divorce and marry them. Then she would come home in an "inebriated condition."

When she became loud and boisterous in public places and they were invited to leave, Illeana would "cast degrading remarks" at people. She moved in and out of their home on occasions "so numerous as to tax the plaintiff's memory."

The Laurels reached a property settlement when Illeana withdrew her maintenance suit.

She bid, and made, a grand slam in spades, then realized too late she could have earned more points with the same bid in no-trump.

MAYOR TO JEFFERSON CITY
Dickmann and Wayman Go in Interest of Pending Bills.
Mayor Bernard F. Dickmann and City Counselor Edgar H. Wayman went to Jefferson City today to interview St. Louis members of the Legislature about several pending matters. These include the housing bill, the measure for transfer of City Sanitarium to the state and real estate appropriations.

So far as announced before departure, Gov. Stark's Kansas City police bill, providing for State control of that city's Police Department, was not included in the Mayor's agenda.

OSTEOPATH CONVICTED OF STRANGLING WIFE
Colorado Jury Finds Dr. Atterberry Guilty of Second Degree Murder.

CANON CITY, Colo., April 26 (AP).—Dr. Raymond L. Atterberry was convicted of second degree murder yesterday on a charge of strangling his 31-year-old wife last Dec. 21.

A District Court jury, after discussing briefly the State's circumstantial evidence, deliberated only twice in one hour and 20 minutes of actual deliberation. The first ballot was 8 to 4 against a first degree murder verdict.

The osteopath married Mrs. Atterberry at Kirksville, Mo., May 31, 1937. Under the verdict he may be imprisoned for from 10 years to life.

District Judge James L. Cooper announced he would delay sentencing until he had ruled on a motion for a new trial.

District Attorney E. M. Eagleton sought to establish that Dr. Atterberry was in financial difficulty and would have received $15,000 in insurance in the event of his wife's accidental death.

The prosecution emphasized testimony by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bruce, next door neighbors, that Dr. Atterberry, after calling them to his home the night of his wife's death, told them he thought she had fractured her neck in a fall down the basement stairway.

Eagleton called Miss Mary Griffin, the doctor's office secretary, to testify that Mrs. Atterberry had accused her husband of unnatural relations with William Hoffman, 20-year-old junior college student who lived in the Atterberry home.

Both Hoffman and Miss Griffin described quarrels of the pair, two of them aroused by protests by Dr. Atterberry against her accusations regarding his supposed relations with Hoffman.

3 ADMIT KILLING WOMAN IN PLOT TO GET CHILDREN
Confessions of Husband, Two In-Laws of Victim Reported; Death Made to Appear Suicide.
WHITE CLOUD, Mich., April 26 (AP).—The Michigan State police announced today the husband, mother-in-law and a brother-in-law of 20-year-old Helen Cassidy had confessed she was killed in a plot to gain custody of her four small children.

Her body was found hanging in her farm home Feb. 26. Investigators said she was choked to death before the body was suspended to simulate suicide.

The prosecutor said he would request warrants charging first-degree murder against Mrs. Matilda Cassidy, 46, the mother-in-law; Charles Cassidy, 23, the husband, and Elton Cassidy, 28, a brother of Charles. Murphy said Elton admitted the actual killing.

The prosecutor and Sheriff said the killing was motivated by a family quarrel in which the young wife's housekeeping, religion and rearing of the four small children were criticized.

JURISDICTION ISSUE RAISED IN EAST SIDE MURDER TRIAL
State Shows C. E. Lee Jr. and Mrs. Millie Stern Were in Madison Tavern Before Her Death.
Presentation of the State's case against Charles E. Lee Jr. of Wood River, charged with murdering Mrs. Millie Stern of East St. Louis last January, was expected to end late today in Circuit Court at Edwardsville.

Testimony to refute a contention by the defense that the court does not have jurisdiction was presented yesterday. Several State's witnesses said they had seen Mrs. Stern and Lee together in a Madison tavern early on the day her body was found beside a road near Wood River.

It is the defense contention that Mrs. Stern fell from Lee's car at Salem, Ill., as the two were returning to Wood River from West Frankfort, Ill., and that she died somewhere in St. Clair County after Lee had put her back in the car and was taking her to a physician. On this basis the defense has attacked the jurisdiction of the Madison County Circuit Court.

THREE MEMBERS OF IOWA BOARD OF CONTROL REMOVED Governor Bases Action on Deplorable Conditions in Five State Institutions.
DES MOINES, Ia., April 25 (AP).—Gov. George A. Wilson removed the three members of the State Board of Control yesterday following a Senate investigating Committee's report charging immorality, intemperance and abuse of inmates at five State institutions. After hearing the committee's report, the Senate in resolution had asked the Governor to dismiss the board members. The removal order is effective May 1.

Members of the board are Harry C. White (Dem.), Vinton, chairman; Frank B. Stevens (Dem.), Garden Grove, and E. H. Felton (Rep.), Indianola.

In a statement the Governor observed there was no evidence of dishonesty or maladministration in the record but: "Deplorable conditions, which, due diligence on the part of the board would have prevented or remedied, have existed for an unreasonable length of time, in many of the State institutions."

ILLINOIS INQUIRY IN PARTY WORKERS ON STATE PAYROLL

Charge That 79 Democratic County Chairmen Are Drawing Salaries.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 26 (AP).—The Searcy payroll investigating committee today reopened its inquiry into the operation of the State prison farm at Vandalia and also agreed to find out what work is performed by 79 Democratic county chairmen accused by a Republican legislator of receiving State salaries in 1938.

Three men—two prison guards and a former farmhand hired by Warden George Ray—were summoned to appear before the committee which last week heard Ray defend himself against charges of irregularities at the penal farm.

The witnesses are Dee George and Will Henry of Cypress and Obie Bolt of Vandalia. In asking that the men be called, Senator R. Wallace Karraker (Dem.), Jonesboro, said they were "most important witnesses" but refused to disclose what testimony he expected from them.

Failure to Work Charged.

The demand for an investigation of Democratic County Committee chairmen and secretaries on State payrolls came yesterday from Representative Fred Rennie (Rep.), Buda, who listed the names of 18 who he said he was informed were "not giving their time or service to the State."

Departmental heads of the men named will be called for an explanation next week, Chairman Earl B. Searcy (Rep.), Springfield, said.

Thirty county chairmen, Rennie said, are on payrolls of the Department of Public Works and Buildings, headed by Director F. Lynden Smith, downstate campaign manager for Gov. Horner in 1936 and 1938.

Rennie's demand for an investigation came a few minutes after Senator Searcy said the committee would investigate charges that Democratic State budgets "were being padded to take care of political workers in the 1940 campaign."

Rennie listed the 18 party workers, their State jobs and their salaries as:

J. W. Siebert, Mulberry Grove, Agriculture Department inspector, $2200.

Walter L. Sherlock, Savanna, assistant highway engineer, $1000.

Thurmon Smith, Flora, public welfare investigator, $204.83.

Felix E. Wilson, Clinton, assistant highway engineer, $600.

H. L. Pate, Tuscola, public welfare investigator, $307.25.

L. A. Krabbe, Dieterich, assistant highway engineer, $2040.

Dr. U. S. Lewis, East Dubuque, district health superintendent, $1800.

C. P. O'Neal, Ozark, plant inspector for Public Works Department, $1119.35.

William G. Conrad, Aurora, secretary to Kane County Democratic Committee, treasury officer clerk, $675.

J. T. Graham, Galesburg, assistant highway engineer, $600.

R. R. Bosworth, Highland Park, labor arbitrator, $3999.96.

William B. Roberts, Salem, secretary to Marion County Democratic Committee, finance department field survey agent, $1500.

Fred M. Whitten, Decatur, Commerce Commission examiner, $750.

P. N. Whitten, Decatur, assistant highway engineer, $2025.

Of Whitten, Rennie said: "My information is that Fred M. Whitten and F. N. Whitten are the same person. If so he was on two payrolls during the year of 1938. I am unable to find that his neighbors know of any qualifications he has as a highway engineer."

H. E. Keith, East Moline, public welfare attendant, $870.89.

H. T. Kerr, Fairfield, assistant insurance examiner, $1000.

Edward F. Kelly, Minonk, Commerce Commission examiner, $3000.

John E. Nedderman, Pekin, assistant highway engineer, $1200.

FARM GROUP EXPECTS INCREASE IN BENEFITS

Senate Committee May Revive Plan, Killed in House, for $400,000,000.

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP).—Farm leaders said today that Congress would vote a $400,000,000 increase in farm benefits and that President Roosevelt would approve it.

Among these was President Edward A. O'Neal of the American Farm Bureau Federation, who has been a supporter of administration farm policies.

"Everybody is for the $250,000,000 increase for parity payments and $150,000,000 additional for crop surplus removal," O'Neal said after appearing yesterday before a Senate Appropriations Subcommittee.

Mr. Roosevelt has urged Congress to provide additional revenue if it increased farm benefits, and Secretary of Agriculture Wallace has favored restoration of processing taxes if necessary to finance payments.

"If necessary to get these increases, I believe cotton and wheat farmers would favor a processing tax," O'Neal said.

Representative Cooley (Dem.), North Carolina, of the House Agriculture Committee, said, "There is no hope for the processing tax, and nobody believes that Congress is ever going to appropriate more money, so that leaves us facing price-fixing."

The House turned down the $250,000,000 parity item and a $90,000,000 increase for surplus removal programs, but the Senate can reinsert the proposals and thus force another vote in the House.

The bill as it passed the House provides $500,000,000 for soil conservation payments on major crops and $48,000,000 for benefit payments to sugar producers.

The House Agriculture Committee refused yesterday to approve a price-fixing bill designed to assure farmers a price equal to their production costs on that part of their crops consumed domestically. The plan was pigeonholed.

Secretary Wallace said a survey demonstrated the wisdom of Government loans to needy and low-income farm families, often considered the "worst possible credit risks."

The survey, covering 232,947 families that obtained loans from the Farm Security Administration, showed they increased their aggregate net worth by $61,817,903 since obtaining loans. This was an average of $265 a family.

Including benefit payments to farmers, the Agricultural Adjustment Administration spent $458,457,777 in the nine months ending April 1. A report shows expenditures of $120,514,146 in cotton price-adjustment payments, $29,921,982 in sugar payments, and $35,634,011 in soil conservation payments for the 1937 crop season, $197,608,127 in soil conservation payments and $16,363,403 in sugar payments for the 1938 crop year.

Texas led all states in benefit payments with $58,810,894. Mississippi was second with $29,866,125.

Payments in Missouri totaled $11,100,275, in Illinois $15,136,716.

Two Escaped Convicts Caught.

MUSKOGEE, Ok., April 26 (AP).—Two men who admitted having escaped last week from the Missouri prison farm were arrested here last night. They were identified as Everett Bailey, from McDonald County, and Marcus Evans, from Randolph County.

PART THREE
DUE TUESDAY ON REORGANIZATION

President Also Discloses Third One Will Be Sent in When He Has Received Data.

UNDECIDED ON MEN FOR NEW OFFICES

Says Plan Just Submitted Will Result Eventually in Saving in Personnel and Material.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—Although the various bureaus and agencies marked for transfer and reorganization by President Roosevelt's message to Congress yesterday will keep their identities and principal officers for the time being, the reorganization plans eventually will effect savings in personnel, materials and rents, the President declared at his press conference late yesterday.

Two more messages on reorganization are scheduled, one for next Tuesday, the President said. He could not tell whether the next message would be on inter-departmental or intra-departmental transfers, because complete reports on each have not yet reached him. He will leave tonight or tomorrow night for Hyde Park and expects to have at least one message ready on his return next week.

The President declined to comment on the possible heads of the three new agencies for Security, Works and Loans, saying he had given no thought to such places. Asked to comment on the report that Chairman Jesse Jones would head the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the President repeated he had no idea who would be named for any of the places. In answer to another question, he said these officials would have the function of coordinators. He was emphatic that they would not have Cabinet rank.

Congress to Fix Salaries.

He also declined to elaborate on how he expected to save between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000 annually on the changes proposed yesterday, explaining that it would take too long to give a complete picture of the situation and that an incomplete picture would be unfair.

The President agreed with Senator Byrnes (Dem.), South Carolina, that he could not fix the salary of the new agency heads at $12,000, since this is a prerogative of Congress. He said he had put down the proposed $12,000 salaries just as he made budget estimates to Congress, which sometimes changed the White House recommendations.

He disagreed, however, with the view accredited to Representative John J. Cochran (Dem.), of St. Louis, that the nomination to head the new agencies did not require confirmation by the Senate.

Prompted by his press secretary, Stephen Early, he recalled that all appointments carrying more than $5000 a year must have senatorial confirmation. When a correspondent asked for an anti-New Deal newspaper would not create many more jobs—the reporter said he had heard $75,000—the President immediately noted that it would create fewer jobs.

This, he said with a laugh, was an "Irish way" of putting the situation. What he meant, he added, was that no new jobs would be created, and eventually fewer people would be running the Government agencies than now.

Saving of Executive's Time.

Asked to comment on the passage in his message in which he said he would use one of the administrative assistants provided for in the reorganization law as a liaison officer on personnel, the President said that at the present time he had to consult the Civil Service, the department concerned and the Budget Bureau whenever he wanted to make an appointment. Under the proposed system he continued, he will talk with one person, his administrative assistant, who would attend to the preliminaries.

He denied that he might delay one of the two forthcoming messages in order to let Congress adjourn early. Under the reorganization bill, his proposed changes automatically become effective after 60 days unless both houses veto the plan. Thus, if he sends a message to Congress next week, it cannot become effective until after July 1.

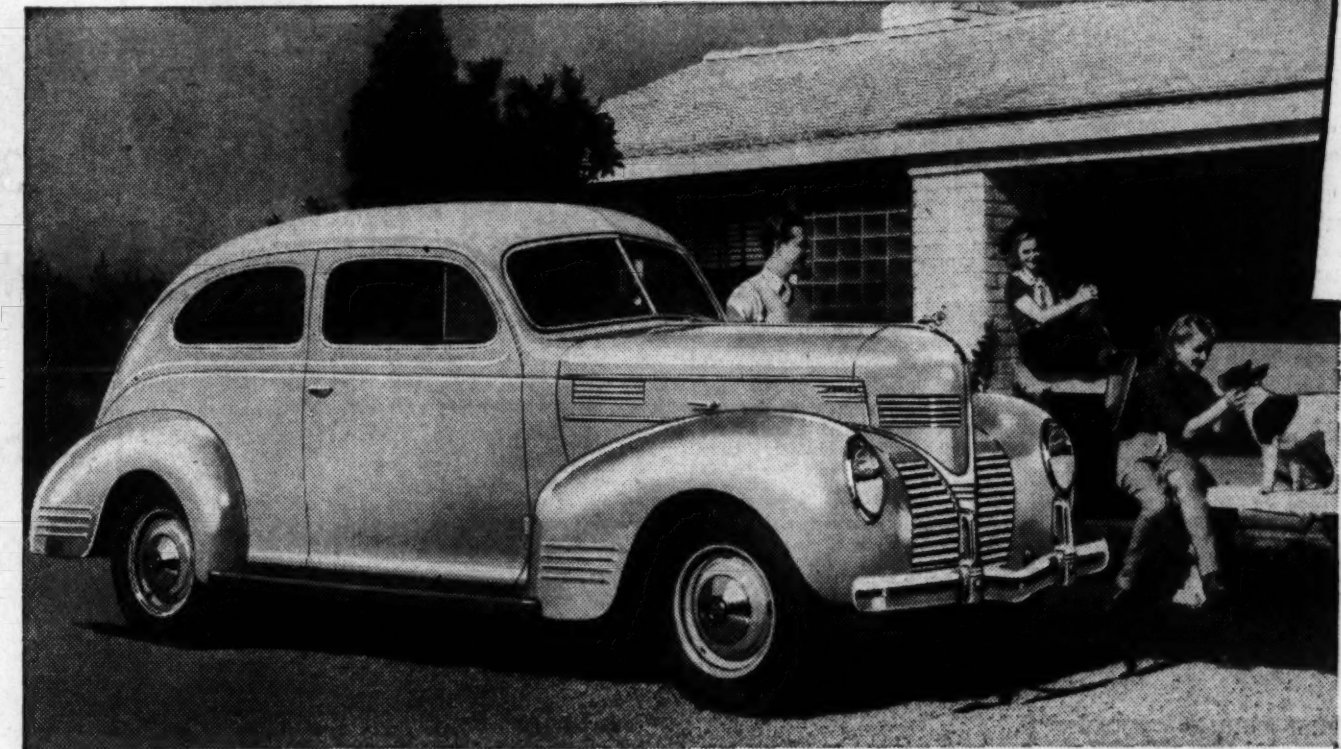

The President explained he would send the messages to Congress as fast as they were completed, and if Congress wants to go home before the 60-day period elapses he would send similar messages to the session beginning in January.

Another Plan Reported Shelved.

Asked if the investigation units of the Treasury Department would be included in one of the forthcoming

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

The name and address of the author must accompany every contribution but on request will not be published. Letters not exceeding 200 words will receive preference.

England Woes the Great Bear.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE POST-DISPATCH:
I DEED amusing are England's frantic efforts to obtain the support of Russia in the future world conflict. Stated in smiling rather than grimly at these efforts and paying no attention whatever to them. He made no secret of his disappointment with Chamberlain's abject surrender at Munich.

If England had honorably maintained its duties as international umpire at Munich, it would very likely be able to obtain Russia's support now, when she needs it the most. Instead, she showed herself to be an umpire without the courage of her convictions, and now, when Hitler and Mussolini start throwing poppettes at their Munich confederate, Russia is going to shrug its shoulders with typical Moscovite disinterest.

Maybe if the rest of the world were as busy with internal programs for national development as the U. S. S. R., there wouldn't be any time or need to go hunting on the domain of others.

LUCIUS BOOB.

On the Strayer Report.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE POST-DISPATCH:
IT was with more than ordinary interest that I read the abstract of the Strayer Committee's report on the St. Louis public schools. The general spirit and intent of this portion of the report would indicate that the committee is motivated by a measure of commendable zeal to meet the rapid transitions of modern life. That the head of the survey still dreams of his Victorian past, however, is made manifest by the questionable insertion of the recommendation that the teachers should be saddled with a master's degree.

SINCERITAS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE POST-DISPATCH:
IN view of recent developments, I am a little concerned about the attitude of our State officials toward the Pendergast machine. Especially am I concerned about Dwight Brown, our Secretary of State, because it was only last summer that Mr. Brown went over the State making speeches for Judge Billings, and in these speeches he extolled the high virtues of Boss Pendergast. Well, do I recall the fact that, after Mr. Brown told all about the nobler virtues of this esteemed gentleman, he climaxed his speech by calling our attention to the fact that Pendergast was a praying man. After taking recent developments into consideration, I would think that Mr. Brown if he speaks the word praying with an "a" or an "e."

CITIZEN.

Why Was Mr. Lehmann Fired?

TO THE EDITOR OF THE POST-DISPATCH:
WITHOUT taking sides in the Kirkwood High School controversy, centered around the dismissal of Eugene S. Lehmann, the almighty secrecy that surrounds the issues involved is only too typical of the mystery in which the machinations of our boards of education are enveloped.

When we consider that nearly all of us have a deep and direct interest in our educational institutions and that we pay a large part of our tax dollar to support these institutions, it is apparent that we are entitled to adequate explanations of policies which so directly affect us.

It would seem that in this case the students and parents of Kirkwood are entitled to know the reason that Mr. Lehmann, widely popular and with an enviable record for progressivism in education, has been dismissed. Failure of the Kirkwood Board of Education to bring this matter into the light of day will only lead to the widespread belief that its motives in this dismissal will not bear public scrutiny.

NICODEMUS.

Impugn President's Good Faith.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE POST-DISPATCH:
PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT has three problems to solve, namely:
1. Ten million unemployed.
2. Business recession.
3. Keeping the Democrats in in 1940.
A way would solve all three problems. Can this be the reason that the President is taking such an interest in European affairs?
I. S.

A Question.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE POST-DISPATCH:
THANK you for publishing the names of the Representatives and Senators of the various districts of Missouri.
Is it a fair question to ask how soon we may expect Tom Pendergast and O'Malley to shake hands with Al Capone near San Francisco?
GALLUS.

Origin of Rumanian Insecurity.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE POST-DISPATCH:
ONE wonders if the attack of jittery which newspaper headlines tell us the Rumanians are enduring was induced altogether by recent events.

Is it not probable that Rumania has not felt secure in Europe since the post-war settlements when she took territory belonging to Russia, Hungary and Bulgaria? The land of King Carol knows quite certainly that those countries hope to recover their lost possessions.

OWEN GALBRAITH.

A START ON REORGANIZATION.

President Roosevelt has wasted no time in moving to make effective use of his new power to reorganize Federal agencies, granted less than a month ago by Congress after 45 years of efforts by successive executives to bring about this obvious reform.

The plan submitted yesterday by the President is merely the first in a series. It covers only part of the larger bureaus and agencies. It is restricted by the congressional exemption of numerous agencies, and further by the provision that the President may regroup bureaus, but may not abolish any or transfer its functions.

Nevertheless, so complex and bewildering has the maze of Federal agencies become, that even within these limitations Mr. Roosevelt has been able to map a plan that will mean substantial economies and will improve governmental efficiency.

It is only sensible, for example, to co-ordinate in one body the various offices having to do with public works or with Federal loans. Any private business would have done it long ago. But Federal agencies developed in helter-skelter fashion, many under the pressure of emergency. Jobs and executive prerogatives among them were protected by political pressure. Any effort to make shifts and curtailments for the sake of efficiency and economy met savage resistance in Congress and among the agencies themselves.

Mr. Roosevelt has embraced, with modifications, the plan offered in a pending bill by Senator Byrnes for co-ordination of agencies dealing with security and relief. He proposes two major agencies instead of one. In the first, he places the Social Security Board, CCC, NYA, Employment Service and Office of Education. In the second, he groups the PWA, WPA, USHA, Bureau of Public Roads and the public buildings branches of the Treasury and National Park Service. This plan is the first step toward bringing order into the agencies which bear a heavy share of the task of meeting the country's relief needs.

Also of great importance are the steps toward strengthening the executive office, and it is here that some opposition may be encountered, particularly toward the proposal for removing the Budget Bureau from the Treasury. This, however, is in line with the recommendation of a careful study recently made by the Brookings Institution. The Budget Bureau, as enlarged under its recent director, Daniel W. Bell, is being broadened into a permanent reorganization body, to study Federal agencies and recommend regroupings and changes in appropriations.

Mr. Roosevelt in his plan has taken account of the political dynamite involved. It had been reported that the RFC and other lending agencies would be placed in the Department of Commerce, thus bringing Jesse Jones into collision with Harry Hopkins, and setting off an intra-party conflict. The President avoids this by proposing an independent Federal loan agency, including the RFC, HOLC, FHA, Electric Home and Farm Authority, Export-Import Bank and several others.

A saving of $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 annually from all these shifts is estimated by the President. Of greater importance, however, is the new orderliness and efficiency they will bring to the agencies concerned. The delays incident to the bureaucratic maze are, as Mr. Roosevelt says in his message, an actual danger to democracy's welfare. What he proposes is in accordance with the need for being "constantly alert to the importance of keeping the tools of American democracy up to date."

All the democracies have been handicapped by delay and indecisiveness, at which the dictators have taken every opportunity to sneer. There is no reason why our Republic's tools cannot be so rearranged that they may be readily at hand whenever wanted. It is for this reason that the President says: "These measures have had only one supreme purpose—to make democracy work." Within the limitations set, he has mapped a good beginning toward his goal.

A PERSISTENT POLITICAL SPOILSMAN.

Although the Missouri Conservation Commission was created just two years ago through one of the most overwhelming majorities ever given a constitutional amendment in this State, certain persistent political spoilsmen are still trying to return conservation to partisan administration. Foremost among them is Miller County's Representative Fred Spearman, who hopelessly introduced a resolution for a repealer before he warmed up his chair in the Sixtieth General Assembly. He vows he will get his resolution off the informal calendar this week.

Apparently he really is not so sure of himself, for he attempted last Friday to advance it on the floor of a comparatively empty House. He might as well give up, for no amount of sniping, knifing and strafing is going to return conservation to the hands of the spoilsmen. All that Mr. Spearman is doing is to show that he has a most voracious appetite for political plums and a foolish disregard for the declared will of the 879,000 voters who put the State Conservation Commission across in 1936.

A TOUCHING EXAMPLE OF TRUTHFULNESS.

President J. F. Fogarty of the North American Co., parent corporation of the Union Electric Co. of Missouri, has issued a statement to the effect that North American has no occasion to question the character of the management of the local utility or the validity of its accounts.

This statement raises the interesting point of just how much it takes to raise a question in the minds of Mr. Fogarty and his fellow officers. It must be considered, of course, that these gentlemen are not of an especially inquiring turn of mind. Were it otherwise, some question marks had inevitably popped up last June when Union Electric threw out Vice-President Oscar F. Funk, who for 20 years had been the company's chief accounting officer. Mr. Funk graced on the nerves of some of his superiors because of his mulish refusal to approve the huge expense accounts of some of the company's lobbyist-officials.

Nor has Mr. Fogarty's trusting disposition been ruffled by revelations of the use of Union Electric funds to subsidize a newspaper at St. Charles for its services in fighting a move there for publicly-owned electric generators, or by a former legislator's story of how a group of three men, including an officer of Union Electric, offered him a campaign fund of $2000 if he would run for the State Senate, or by various other allegations of improper conduct on the part of Union Electric's management.

Some of the things Union Electric has done are responsible for a suit filed, under the State Corrupt Practices Act, to revoke its privilege of doing business in Missouri. Mr. Fogarty evidently does not take this suit very seriously. To him, it is worth only a couple of tuts. And if he gives any thought at all to the searching SEC investigation which is being made into the company's activities, no doubt he lights a Murad.

What a comfort it must be for Union Electric to enjoy such beautiful confidence at its holding company's headquarters!

A VICTORY FOR THE POLICE BILL.

Gov. Stark's Kansas City police bill has passed its first legislative test of strength, and has been reported favorably by the House Judiciary Committee. This was accomplished when the embattled advocates of the bill scotched a shabby attempt at parliamentary trickery by the committee chairman, H. P. Lauf, Pendergast lieutenant and a leader in the fight against the Governor's cleanup campaign.

Lauf, after promising to give the bill fair treatment if it came to his committee, was antagonistic toward its legislative advocates throughout last night's hearing, and then had the insufferable audacity to order an arbitrary adjournment in an effort to prevent action. Such tactics have worked many times in throttling constructive measures before the Legislature. It is a stimulating spectacle to see members of a committee refusing to submit to this rough-shod strategy, and taking summary action to forestall another murder in committee.

Every added exposure of Pendergast corruption has strengthened the forces working for the bill. Similarly, the attempt by Lauf, a fee-grabber in the notorious insurance compromise, to kill it by dictatorial methods may be expected to win more converts to the Governor's measure. The opposition is desperate. The House is aroused, with a solid majority clearly determined not to tar itself with the Pendergast brush by opposing the bill.

The House committee's revolt, joined by members of both parties, should be a warning signal to the Senate, where the measure is expected to encounter its major opposition. The public is on the alert, and votes against the bill will prove to be political suicide for more than one legislator.

COCHRAN VS. COLEMAN.

Congressman Cochran is trying to phrase the law to forbid the FHA from guaranteeing watered real estate projects, such as Manhasset and Lucas-Hunt villages. Miles Coleman, Deputy FHA Administrator, defends watered valuations and, for the moment at least, has persuaded the Senate to accept his point of view. It remains to be seen whether the FHA will continue to perform like the 1920-29 peddlers of those first-mortgage real estate "gold" bonds, now good only for wall paper, or whether Congress will compel the FHA bureaucrats to throw proper safeguards around the taxpayers' money.

TOMMY ATKINS, CONSCRIPT.

Conscription is a hateful word to English ears, but the word has been officially pronounced. Prime Minister Chamberlain today announced the Cabinet's decision to call all men aged 20 and 21 to the colors for six months.

This epochal decision is a farewell to the past, a departure from cherished tradition, a reversal of Prime Minister Chamberlain's avowed resolution, and a grim communication to the world.

The message is addressed to the enemies and to the friends of peace. To Hitler and Mussolini it is an admonition to renounce their warring designs and programs of conquest already inaugurated. To the nations of Europe, fearful of sudden violence from bristling, threatening neighbors, it is assurance that England will be equipped to render the assistance she has promised.

Historically the policy must be rated a peacetime conscription, but in the light of trembling circumstances it might, perhaps, be termed the end-of-the-peacetime conscription.

Thoughtful reaction, generally, will, it may be ventured, regretfully approve. The Europe known to Tommy Atkins, Volunteer, is gone. It is a conscript continent of which England is now a part, with the two great Powers of Germany and Italy committed arrogantly by their masters to the pagan gospel of might and the barbarous doctrine of seizure by force. In the troubled days and wakeful nights imposed upon the European calendar by two extraordinary men of professed bad will, a treasured English heritage has had to be forfeited.

There may have been something of rhetorical flourish in the proud legend that an Englishman's home is his castle, but, whether or no, it is now acknowledged that the malevolent genius of Hitler has crossed that threshold which not even the King of England might pass.

The press reports explain that the Chamberlain Government's action was so timed as to influence Herr Hitler's answer to President Roosevelt's proposed peace pledge. The awaited speech will soon be heard. Challenging or conciliatory, England has registered her purpose to be prepared for whatever exaction events may demand.

HOW ABOUT THAT TRIUMPHAL ENTRY?

Twenty-four hours after Mussolini ran his military steam roller over Albania, the Italian press announced that he would fly to Tirana, capital of the Kingdom, and proclaim his victory in a day or two. It's been almost three weeks now, and still Italy's Premier has not followed out the original plan of a triumphal entry in the Julius Caesar manner. The disappointment in Tirana must be terrific.

REPRESENTATIVE JOHNSON'S PERSUASIVE CASE.

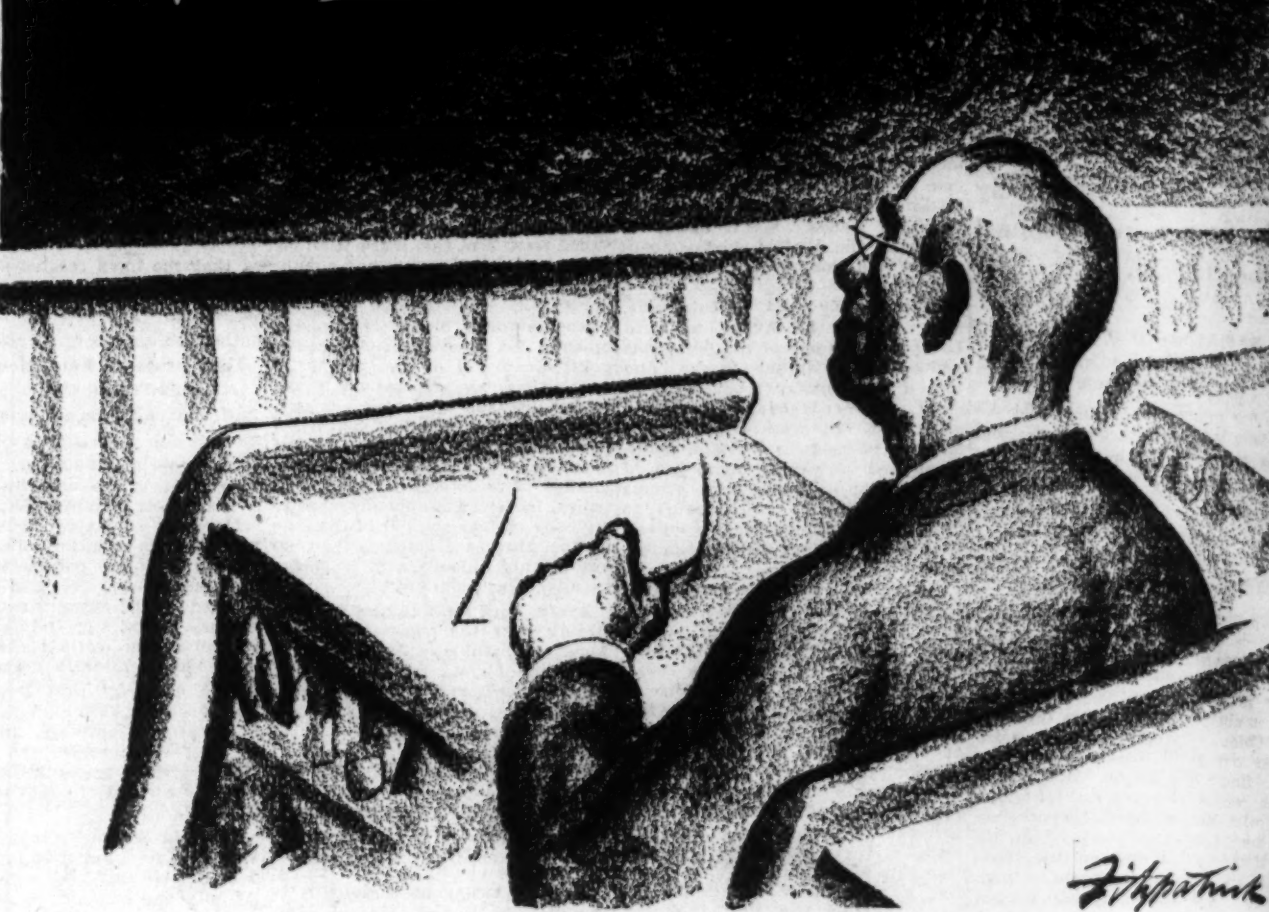

Illinois must take measures to make its low-grade coal smokeless or face a continuing loss of markets. This is the gist of a report made by a subcommittee of the Illinois Legislature urging passage of a $300,000 appropriation. The money would be used in a two-year program of research to perfect commercial production of smokeless fuels from Illinois bituminous.

Representative Cal Johnson of Belleville, chairman of the subcommittee, made a persuasive case to sustain his point of view. He showed that Illinois fields furnished less than 30 per cent of the coal shipped into the Chicago district in 1937. The competition of high-grade Eastern and anthracite coal, as well as other smokeless fuels, is responsible for a reduction in Illinois coal consumption in that district of more than 12,000,000 tons since 1923. Mr. Johnson cited other facts, including the new movement in St. Louis for clean fuel.

Because of the interdependence of trade between St. Louis and Illinois, it is highly desirable that St. Louis remain a customer for Illinois coal. The city, however, must rid itself of the curse of smoke. It was in this spirit that Mayor Dickmann and Smoke Commissioner Tucker, at the outset of the legislative session and again yesterday at a meeting of the House Appropriations Committee, urged passage of the $300,000 appropriation. The subcommittee's excellent report is a promising step in that direction.

PROBLEM FOR THE GROWN-UPS.

The Fading City Boss

Pendergast prosecution shows things are never so dark in a boss-ridden city as to justify civic despair; when regeneration from within is impossible, help may come from state or Federal sources; Kansas City's experience is a lesson in the necessity for vigilance.

By W. Carr in the Christian Science Monitor.

JOLTS that have recently come thudding against the regime of Boss Pendergast in Kansas City signalize anew the vitality of the American political organization. Our system of self-government can on occasion call up rusty old resources and invent brand-new ones to war on the political corruption of the spoils machine.

Though its Boss is not yet out, here are some of the reassuring things that Kansas City today to a nation and a world dubious at times of democracy in big American cities:

1. There is always hope, because there is always the possibility of help. No matter if a city falls completely into the control of a Boss, becomes a center of crime and seems unable to throw off misrule, still it may find succor—from the outside.

Either the state or the Federal Government, or both as now in Kansas City, may jump in to prosecute and to purge. The ouster of Tammany Hall in New York City began that way, through appointment of Judge Samuel Seabury, the investigator, and was made to dovetail with the action of the State courts.

2. The power of Federal and state authorities against corruption or crime within a city may be pushed until made devastating to the local political ring.

A state Legislature can take away control of its police from a city, as Gov. Stark proposes doing with Kansas City, and can restrict a city and cripple a political machine to a surprising degree, if the state wants to go that far. The Federal Government can investigate for violations of other Federal laws than the income tax, as it is now doing in Kansas City.

3. The income tax indictment, which the Federal Government has just used against the Kansas City Boss in charging tax evasion, has proved, when rightly directed, one of the most masterful aids to good government ever discovered.

First tried less than 10 years ago against Chicago gangsters, the experiment sent Al Capone and other gangsters to prison, and has since been turned against a number of politicians.

4. The old-time Big Boss of the type of Thomas J. Pendergast is dwindling off. Today only an outstanding handful remains. The other principal ones left include Hague in Jersey City, Crump in Memphis and the Kelly-Nash combination in Chicago. A huge amount of bad politics persists, but the traditional Boss is declining.

5. Removal of one of the principal handicaps of the city-manager movement is involved in the fate of Boss Pendergast. City managership in Kansas City furnishes the classic bad example of the new system which has brought better administration to hundreds of American communities.

The city manager plan was installed in Kansas City as a victory of civic effort for improvement in the local government. It came in 1913 after a long struggle with the voters of a new charter authorizing a City Manager. But when the City Council took up the election of the City Manager, the choice was captured by the political machine. The manager then became the Boss's right-hand man. Instead of getting rid of politics, the new type of city government was made to dovetail with the old.

6. The relapse of Kansas City into an intensification of spoils politics, just when it thought it was progressing, emphasizes that a community has to protect its gains after it wins them. In city politics, that means that the citizens who want good government must have some political organization, either a sympathetic regular party or a new local party of their own making, as in Cincinnati, where the municipal party works with the Democratic party.

The key to government is votes and the key to votes is organization.

Finally, it is characteristic of the American democracy that when a political machine becomes too notorious, even its own party nationally may be willing to clean house. Republicans have prosecuted Pendergast, and now President Roosevelt and Gov. Stark of Missouri, both Democrats, have combined against a man important to the Democratic party, because it was the powerful Democratic machine of Kansas City.

Whispering Campaigns: A Vicious Technique

From Editor & Publisher.

SNIDE slanders have long been a technique of political campaigners. Charges and innuendoes that could not bear the weight of print are whispered behind cupped hands in the corridors of power, around bright tables and across store counters. And while the political medicine men set enough store by this despicable practice to keep it up year after year, we have never been convinced that it swung an election.

To see evidence that it is being adopted, in any measure, by reputable business is heart-breaking. It betokens an almost complete bankruptcy of intelligence and enterprise. To our mind, it is a definite confession that the victim of the whisperers has so good a product that inferiors cannot compete by legitimate methods.

In any recent months, we have heard of a manufacturer of reputation in the industry of a major tobacco firm. The busy whisperers also started rumors of race discrimination against the same manufacturer.

A big department store in New York came under the whispering barrage with charges that it was firing its regular help to take on German refugees. A major brewery is now combating whispers that its beer is chemically aged, with potentially dangerous results for drinkers. It goes without saying that none of these charges is true.

The political sniping against that Man in Washington also goes on. Last week we were handed a card, bordered in 12-point black, with the legend, "Give me an order or I'll vote for him again." If that is an order sales or political argument, we confess our complete ignorance of both business and politics.

If whispering, the purveyance of vile slanders, is a legitimate weapon in the armory of either democracy or capitalistic business, everything we have learned in a quarter-century is wrong. No whiskered Red ever devised any bomb more potentially destructive of our institutions than these libels.

A Bookful of Roosevelts

Books in the News

BACK in 1614 a young Dutch adventurer known as "Kleynje," or "Little Fellow," because of his great size, left a party of fur traders on the Hudson River and went off into the country of the unfriendly Indians. Ransomed two years later, he told a strange story of life among the savages.

Just who this "Little Fellow" was has not been definitely established, but he is supposed to have come from the village of Rose-Field in Holland, and family tradition is strong enough to cause Hall Roosevelt (brother of Eleanor Roosevelt and nephew of President Theodore) to list him as the original American Roosevelt in his book, "Odyssey of an American Family" (Harper & Brothers, New York).

In collaboration with Samuel Duff McCoy, the writer has used family letters, with a few touches of fictional adornment, as the basis for his account of the travels and adventures of 21 Roosevelt relatives. The book concludes with an account of a visit to members of the International Brigade in Spain last year by the author's son, Daniel Stewart Roosevelt, who was killed last week in an airplane crash in Mexico.

The most interesting chapter concerns Nicholas Roosevelt, credited with having invented the side-wheel paddles used by Robert Fulton. This Roosevelt built the New Orleans, and in 1811 made the first steamboat trip from Pittsburgh to New Orleans, stopping occasionally to demonstrate to skeptics that his craft could paddle upstream as well as drift down.

Then there was Cousin Frederick Augustus Delano, who crossed the Atlantic on the steamer in 1838 and won $20 by guessing at what hour the ship would reach port. Inspired by this success to further prophecies, he predicted that "steam navigation must entirely supersede sailing packets."

However, 70 years later, we find the author and his fifth cousin, Franklin Delano Roosevelt, afloat in the latter's two-masted schooner, on a trip whose chief incident came when the craft was left on a mud bank by a receding tide off Nova Scotia.

The author apologizes for omitting the adventures of some 40 members of the clan. And apologies are in order, for he has written not a line about the most tireless rovet of them all, Eleanor Roosevelt. C. R. H.

TO distill and interpret the thoughts of the great philosophers from their often bulky and sometimes obscure volumes is the object of the Living Thoughts Library, newly launched by Longmans, Green & Co., New York. The first four volumes show the method done without over-simplification or distortion. The method is to present an interpretative essay on each writer by a modern authority, followed by pertinent selections from the philosopher's works. In the volumes now available, Schopenhauer is presented by Thomas Mann, Thoreau by Theodore Dreiser, Montaigne by Andre Gide and Tolstoy by Stefan Zweig. F. G.

TRAVEL information as up to date as the two world's fairs is contained in Helen Eva Yates' book, "The World Is Your Oyster; or, the Art of Traveling Smartly" (Henry Holt & Co., New York). Miss Yates rounds up all kinds of information with her enthusiastic suggestions. Her book contains references to other current literature that may be valuable to travelers, she tells how to buy, how to approach customs inspectors where to eat, where to fish and even includes her favorite cocktail and curry recipes. The Neutrality E

IN trying to decide what to do about the Neutrality Act the members of the Senate committee have an extraordinarily difficult problem. Senator Borah pointed out the difficulty last week when he asked whether it was not impossible for the committee to come "to any agreement which would be accepted as a neutral position." When he asked that question, Mr. Borah came closer to the heart of the real question than has any one else who has taken part in the debate.

Mr. Borah gave as his reason for the difficulty that "we," meaning American public opinion, "have practically passed upon who is an aggressor." Undoubtedly that is great cause why it would now be difficult to have almost anything the Congress enact "accepted as a neutral position."

But the fundamental difficulty would exist if American public opinion were completely detached and morally indifferent on the issue in Europe and Asia. The essential difficulty confronting the committee is that it is compelled to legislate on neutrality at a time when a war is already being fought in Asia and at a time when all of Europe is in a state of warlike mobilization.

This means that Congress is compelled to change the rules of the game while the game is being played. Whatever it does or fails to do, the result will not be universally accepted as neutral. Senator Byrd's law has placed Congress in a quandary where Congress is compelled to take a position. Almost any position it takes will immediately and vitally affect the course of events all over the world and will be construed throughout the world by every nation as an act of American national policy.

Take the simplest case. Suppose Congress does nothing. Then on May 1, when Section 2 expires, we shall have an embargo on munitions to belligerents, an embargo that is not being applied to Japan and China. Suppose that war breaks out in Europe. We shall then find ourselves supplying Japan, which is a partner of the axis, with munitions while we refuse them to Great Britain, France, and, if they are attacked, to Switzerland and the Netherlands. We shall be supplying munitions to the Asiatic partner of the axis while we are withholding them from the nations that were attacked.

Suppose, then, that Congress re-enacts the whole of the existing law. In that event Congress will have reaffirmed so positively its insistence on the present act that the President would be morally bound to impose an embargo against Japan. The effect on Japan would be serious.

The sudden change of policy in the midst of her war with China would be unneutral, and would give Japan the strongest kind of provocation to make a military alliance with Germany and Italy and to strike, while the British are preoccupied in the Mediterranean, at the Dutch East Indies and the adjacent regions.

If Japan is pushed into the arms of Germany, the axis will not only have gained a powerful ally but, what is worse, the axis will have a strong inducement to go to war now in Europe. For by going to war, the axis can shut off the military supplies that are now coming from this country to England, France and the Netherlands.

Suppose, then, that Congress goes further, enacts the Nye-Clark-Borah mandatory embargo. Where does that leave us? It surely means an immediate kind of provocation to Japan, followed almost surely by a Japanese military alliance with the axis, creating a situation in which there are the strongest inducements to a triple attack on Great Britain, France, and the Netherlands. For, having been deprived of American supplies, the Japanese, who are already at war,

IRAN PRINCE AND BRIDE

ESCORTED TO MARBLE HOME

Ending of 41-Day Marriage Celebration Marked by Fireworks Display at Tehran Palace.

TEHERAN, Iran, April 26 (AP).—A blaze of fireworks in the grounds of the Golestan, or "Garden of Flowers," of the Imperial Palace today signaled the end of the 41-day wedding celebrations of Crown Prince Mohamed Riza Pahlavi of Iran and Princess Fawzia of Egypt.

Shortly after midnight the Shah of Iran and his Empress escorted their 20-year-old son and his 17-year-old bride to the marble home built for them a few hundred yards from the Imperial Palace.

The procession passed through streets decorated with Iranian and Egyptian colors and guarded by military units. The royal pair rode through arches made of flowers.

The marriage ceremonies began March 15 in Cairo, Egypt, when the marriage contract was signed in the presence of Egypt's young King, Farouk, brother of the bride.

The Neutrality Entanglement

IN trying to decide what to do about the neutrality act, the members of the Senate committee have an extraordinarily difficult problem. Senator Borah, who introduced the bill, is not only the author of the bill, but he is also the author of the difficulty. When he asked whether it was possible for the committee to come to an agreement which would be accepted as a neutral position, Mr. Borah came closer to the heart of the real question than has any one else who has taken part in the debate.

Mr. Borah gave as his reason for the difficulty that "the meaning of the word 'neutrality' is a matter of public opinion, and has been practically passed upon by the American people." Undoubtedly that is a great cause why it would not be possible to have almost anything the Congress enacts "accepted as a neutral position."

But the fundamental difficulty is that the American public opinion is not completely detached and morally indifferent on the issue in Europe and Asia. The essential difficulty confronting the committee is that it is compelled to take a position on a matter which is already being fought in Asia and at a time when all of Europe is in a state of warlike mobilization.

This means that Congress is compelled to change the policy of the country while the game is being played. Whatever it does or fails to do, the result will not be universally accepted as neutral. Senator Nye's law has placed Congress in a quandary where Congress is compelled to take a position. Almost any position it takes will immediately and vitally affect the course of events all over the world and will be construed throughout the world by every nation as an act of American national policy.

Take the simplest case. Suppose Congress does nothing. Then on May 1, when Section 2 expires, we shall have an embargo on munitions to belligerents, an embargo that is not being applied to Japan and China. Suppose that we break out in Europe. We shall then find ourselves supplying Japan, which is a partner of the axis, with munitions while we refuse them to Great Britain, France, and the Netherlands. We shall be supplying munitions to the Atlantic partner of the axis while we are withholding them from the nations that were attacked.

Suppose, then, that Congress repeals the whole of the existing law. In that event Congress will have reaffirmed so positively its insistence on the present act that the President would be morally bound to impose an embargo against Japan. The effect on Japan would be enormous.

The sudden change of policy in the midst of her war with China would be unneither 1, and would give Japan the strongest kind of provocation to make a military alliance with Germany and Italy and to strike at the British in the Mediterranean, at the Dutch East Indies and the adjacent regions.

If Japan is pushed into the arms of Germany, the axis will not only be gained a powerful ally but, what is worse, the British will be placed in a position where they are forced to choose between a strong inducement to go to war now in Europe. For by going to war the axis can shut off the military supplies that are now moving from this country to England, France and the Netherlands.

Suppose, then, that Congress goes further, enacts the Nye-Clark-Borah mandatory embargo. Where does that leave us? It also means an immediate embargo against Japan, followed almost surely by a Japanese military alliance with the axis, and the British will be placed in the strongest inducement to a triple attack on Great Britain and France. For, having been deprived of American supplies, the Japanese, who are already at war, will have to move. The axis will have acquired a willing, even an urgent ally, and at the same time it will be able to cut off the supply of munitions to the European democracies.

We are, no matter what we do, in a position where no one will regard the action of Congress as neutral, where every one will see that it favors one nation at the expense of another. We need not have been entangled ourselves by Mr. Nye's legislation if the committee had disengaged themselves by a repeal of the legislation and take our stand once more on the principles of international law.

This is much the safest course, the most easily defensible, the most consistent with the sentiments and the interest of the American people. If we return to international law, we do not have to intervene in the Far East by changing our policy in the middle of the war.

We do not have to challenge Japan at a time when Japan is inevitably in a desperate mood. We shall be able to take the neutral position which is that Japan and China may buy supplies here in accordance with Articles VII and VIII of the Hague Convention of 1907 "On the Rights and Duties of Neutral Powers."

We shall not be entangled in the extremely dangerous consequences that would result from applying an embargo in the middle of a war. We shall remove from Japan the provocation and the inducement to sign a military alliance with the axis and to precipitate a world war.

In regard to Germany and Italy, we shall be taking a position which is legally and morally unassailable. On the other hand, we shall take away from them the hideous inducement to start a war in order to deprive their opponents of supplies that they can obtain only as long as there is no war.

The act of repeal, on the other hand, would not only remove the inducement to strike quick which we now offer to the axis, but it would be profoundly deterrent because it would be construed as making it possible for the coalition to resist successfully.

Above all, repeal would protect the United States against finding itself in a horrible dilemma, once war broke out between the axis and the nations that engaged the overwhelming sympathy of the nation.

The argument now being conducted before the committees of Congress is emotional enough, in the midst of war itself. In the midst of war, we refused to amend the act, a great majority of the people would be horrified at the idea that they were helping aggression to succeed. And, if acting on our sentiments and what many would regard as our vital interests, we then amended the act, we should for all practical purposes have intervened in the war.

The safest course, I repeat, is to repeal the act and return to the elementary principle of international law. This is the only solution that can still be adopted which is legally neutral and can, therefore, be defended; it is the only solution which can enable us to escape the worst of all the entanglements of a neutral in the entanglements of hanging his policy after war breaks out.

UNITING CONFERENCE OF METHODISM OPENS

Leaders Meet Under Threat of Injunction to Prevent Merger of 3 Churches.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 26 (AP).—Led by the white-and-moon-robed seminary singers from the Boston University School of Theology, 960 Bishops and delegates of the three branches of Methodism marched today to a joint worship service opening the uniting conference from which they hope to emerge as members of one church.

As the delegates from the Methodist Episcopal Church, the Methodist Episcopal Church South and the Methodist Protestant Church gathered in Kansas City's Municipal Auditorium, no mention was made of an injunction threat which hung over their efforts to bring their 8,000,000 members under one organization.

Majorities Approved Merger. C. A. Spence of Atlanta, attorney for the Laymen's Organization for Preservation of the Southern Methodist Church, has threatened to seek court action against phases of the union movement. Leaders here, however, pointed out that unification already had been approved by sizeable majorities of all three branches.

A white-lighted cross flanked by flowers and flags of the United States and Great Britain occupied the center of the auditorium platform to which filed the singers and later the Bishops of the North and South Episcopal churches. The Methodist Protestant Church has no Bishops.

Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes of Washington, representing the Northern branch of the church, cited the historic call to worship. Bishop Hughes, Bishop John M. Moore of Dallas, representing the Southern church, and Dr. James H. Straughn of Baltimore, president of the general conference of the Methodist Protestant Church, will preside at the opening business session.

Message From the Bishops. The 61 Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal and Methodist Episcopal South churches and the president of the Protestant Methodist Church presented an episcopal address for delivery by Bishop Moore.

"Methodism," the address said, "proclaims to the world today, with great joy, the culmination of one of the most outstanding and far-reaching union movements which the church of Christ has ever witnessed."

Regarding the effect the union will have on local churches, the Bishops said: "Union of the three denominations puts all local churches under the same family, but it does not require any local mergers. These are left entirely to the will, judgment and action of the memberships of the local churches involved."

The address warned against too-hasty sale of church properties in effecting local mergers.

"When local unions are made, the congregations should keep in mind the ministers who are serving them and what many would regard as their interests should be regarded and protected and their families should have care when mergers are being planned," it said.

For United Body Everywhere. "As far as may be wise and possible, governmental provisions will be set up for making Methodism a united body in all parts of the world. Thus fulfilling Wesley's goal of 'the world is my parish.'"

The Bishops pointed out, however, that autonomous churches and central conferences "could go so far as to destroy elemental and fundamental relationships with the sustaining life of the mother church, and that would be deeply regretted by all."

Funds will be supplied only when and where the life of the church is interested.

The delegates must iron out such problems as the financing of missions, creation of a unified youth movement and co-ordination of educational functions.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

Engaged

MISS HELEN HUNTER, DAUGHTER OF Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Lee Hunter, 7342 Westmoreland drive, whose engagement to John Joseph Powers was announced Saturday. The wedding will take place this summer. Mr. Powers is the son of Mrs. Edward J. Powers, 4905 Lindell boulevard.

On their return they will occupy an apartment at 7924 Delmar boulevard.

Mr. Bixby's aunt, Mrs. Harold M. Bixby, a former St. Louisan now living in Bronxville, N. Y., who came to St. Louis for the wedding, will leave the end of the week for her home. She is with her mother, Mrs. Francis C. Case, 4904 Pershing avenue, and her daughters, Miss Frances and Miss Elizabeth, who spent the winter here.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth L. Green Jr., 4 Wydown terrace, returned to St. Louis Monday after a spring trip to Bermuda. They were away three weeks.

More than 50 guests were entertained at luncheon yesterday at the St. Louis Woman's Club by Mrs. W. L. Head of the Park Plaza. The party was in honor of Mrs. Charles W. Mead of Omaha, Neb., who came to St. Louis for the spring grand opera season and has been Mrs. Head's guest.

The decorative scheme for the luncheon table was white, yellow and purple. In the center, a dragon and yellow tulips and pansies were combined with iris in a succession of centerpieces. The table was lighted by yellow candles.

Mrs. Head and Mrs. Mead will leave today for the Head country place near St. Joseph, Mo. Mrs. Mead will continue to Omaha after a few days, while Mrs. Head will remain a month. In June she plans to go to New York, and may travel in Europe this summer, returning to St. Louis in September.

The majority of out-of-town guests who came for the wedding Saturday of Miss Harriet Daumont Turner and Howard Douglas Campbell II of York, Pa., returned Sunday to their homes. Mrs. Cornelia Pearson of Chestnut Hill, Pa., matron of honor at the wedding, who was the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth M. Davis, 37 Brentmoor park, returned home Monday. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Patterson Turner Jr., of York, brothers of the bride, returned to their home in York, Pa., after a brief stay in St. Louis.

Mrs. Campbell is the daughter of Mrs. Theodore White, 5228 Washington boulevard, and of Robert Patterson Turner of York.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hoxie Bixby Jr. will arrive today in Honolulu on their wedding trip, and will be guests until May 5 at the Moana Hotel. Since their marriage April 15 they have been in Los Angeles. David Erskine Driscoll of Forest Hills, Long Island, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Driscoll of New York.

The wedding took place Wednesday, April 12, at 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon at the Church of the Transfiguration (The Little Church Around the Corner), in New York. The bride was attended by Miss Barbara Rich of Minneapolis. Jerry Danzig of New York was best man.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Driscoll left by plane for White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. They will be at home next week in New York. Mrs. Driscoll is a graduate of Mary Institute of the O'Connell School at Philadelphia, and of Ward Belmont College, Nashville, Tenn. She is a sister of Mrs. Purdom C. Thomas, 6227 Loran avenue, formerly of Webster Groves.

Mr. Driscoll attended preparatory school in New York and was graduated from the University of Minnesota. He is a member of Delta Upsilon fraternity.

Two St. Louis girls attending Wellesley College, have received honors within the past few days. Miss Frances Clausen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Clausen, 225 Blackhawk place, Webster Groves, and a member of the sophomore class, has been elected chairman of the speakers committee of the Forum, college debating society.

Miss Mildred Jane Paton, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. English, 3666 Flora place, was guest of honor on Monday night at a dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Clark B. Kerr, 59 Summit avenue, Webster Groves.

Tonight Miss Nancy Rutledge and her brother, Leighton Rutledge, 6108 Washington boulevard, will be host and hostess at another dinner. Miss Rutledge will be Miss Paton's only attendant at her marriage next Wednesday to William L. Waymeyer Jr.

The wedding will take place at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the chapel of Tyler Place Presbyterian Church. A supper for members of the families will be given afterward at the Missouri Athletic Association. Andrew Wood will be best man for Mr. Waymeyer. Mr. English will give Miss Paton in marriage.

The Loretto Players of Webster College and the Spanish Club of the school will give a supper tonight at 7 o'clock in Social Hall at 414 College for their own members, faculty directors and advisers.

Miss Natalie Allison of the junior class, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Roy Allison, 7325 Colgate avenue, is in charge of arrangements.

U. OF ILLINOIS NEWMAN MEDAL GOES TO DEWEY

New York Prosecutor to Accept Award in Speech at Champaign May 2.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., April 26 (AP).—Thomas E. Dewey, District Attorney of New York County, New York, was selected yesterday to receive the Cardinal Newman award for 1938 for his "distinguished services" in the war on crime.

The nomination was announced by Dr. John A. O'Brien, director of the Newman Foundation at the University of Illinois, which each year confers the honor on "an individual who has made an outstanding contribution to the enrichment of American life in the fields of science, literature, art or statesmanship."

Dewey will receive the gold medal on May 2.

Dewey, in acknowledging the award, will deliver an address on "Safeguarding Civilization."

Previous recipients of the award include Thomas E. Mann, 1937, for literary achievements; Dr. Alexis Carrel, 1936, contributions to medical science; Senator Gerald P. Nye, 1935, for investigation of munition industries; Dr. Robert A. Millikan, 1934, contributions to physical science; Senator George Norris, 1933, public service; Secretary of State Frank Kellogg, 1932, contributions to world peace.

BISHOP ALTHOFF ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION AT BELLEVILLE

Archbishop Glennon Conducts Mass Opening Second Day of Program.

Pontifical high mass was said this morning at St. Peter's Cathedral in Belleville by Archbishop John J. Glennon in opening the second day of the program celebrating the twenty-fifth anniversary of the consecration of Bishop Henry Althoff and the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the Belleville diocese. Archbishop Glennon preached when Bishop Althoff was consecrated.

Archbishop Glennon declared assertions of Communistic agitators that the Catholic clergy was silent when the poor suffered most were "false." He said the economic collapse was brought about "by wars which were not of our causing, by the rapacity of wealth, which is not by our inspiration."

The mass was preceded by a parade from the Bishop Althoff's residence in Belleville. Last night more than 2000 persons attended a civic reception at Turner Hall in honor of the 50 Bishops and Archbishops attending the two-day celebration. The speakers included Bishop William D. O'Brien of Chicago, Lieutenant Governor John Stille of Illinois, State Senator Louis Menges, Mayor George Remann of Belleville and Joseph B. McGlynn, master of the Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus.

A banquet was held at noon in honor of Bishop Althoff at the Belleville Elks' Club. Principal speakers were Bishop J. H. Schlarman of Peoria and Bishop James A. Griffin of Springfield. Toasts were offered by the visiting Bishops and a response was given by Bishop Althoff.

ROYAL VISIT'S DETAILS CAREFULLY GUARDED

Mrs. Roosevelt Silenced When Asked to Tell Some of Them.

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP).—Britain's Scotland Yard and the United States Secret Service silenced Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt when she started to tell reporters yesterday about living quarters that will be provided for King George VI and Queen Elizabeth during their June visit to the White House.

When her secretaries reminded her that there were restrictions, Mrs. Roosevelt cut off a review of tentative plans. She said she would be unable to carry out a previous agreement to show newspaper women the royal suite.

She explained that Scotland Yard and the Secret Service had rules on the care of visiting dignitaries, adding that she would have to find out what they considered dangerous to give out.

She said she could not confirm tentative plans that the King and Queen would have the pink room and Lincoln study on the east side of the second floor because "they" might change the plan. By "they," she explained, she meant the State Department and the people over there (apparently the English officials responsible for the King's safety).

No Change in Original Plans for Visit of King and Queen. LONDON, April 26 (AP).—Nothing short of a declaration of war will make "the slightest difference" in plans for the North American trip of King George and Queen Elizabeth, Buckingham Palace sources said today.

Palace officials said there had been no change in original plans for the departure May 6 for Canada and the United States aboard the battle cruiser Repulse.

Other informed sources, however, said Prime Minister Chamberlain would tell the House of Commons of alternative arrangements in case the Repulse was sent off Spain.

Conservative Robert Boothby has served notice he will ask the Prime Minister if the Government are "satisfied that the Repulse can safely leave European waters" while the German fleet is holding spring war games off Spain.

A section of the London press, while favoring the trip, has insistently suggested that it be made aboard a passenger vessel.

It is argued that the battle cruiser should be free for possible emergency duty on this side of the Atlantic, particularly because her sister ship, the Renown, is laid up for repairs, and the battle cruiser Hood, the world's largest commissioned warship, is being overhauled at Portsmouth.

The 32,000-ton Repulse is armed with six 15-inch and 20 four-inch guns.

A plan was reliably reported under serious consideration under which the rulers would use the 21,833-ton Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Australia. The vessel now is at Southampton and presumably could be made ready to undertake the voyage on May 6.

U. OF ILLINOIS NEWMAN MEDAL GOES TO DEWEY

New York Prosecutor to Accept Award in Speech at Champaign May 2.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., April 26 (AP).—Thomas E. Dewey, District Attorney of New York County, New York, was selected yesterday to receive the Cardinal Newman award for 1938 for his "distinguished services" in the war on crime.

The nomination was announced by Dr. John A. O'Brien, director of the Newman Foundation at the University of Illinois, which each year confers the honor on "an individual who has made an outstanding contribution to the enrichment of American life in the fields of science, literature, art or statesmanship."

Dewey will receive the gold medal on May 2.

Dewey, in acknowledging the award, will deliver an address on "Safeguarding Civilization."

Previous recipients of the award include Thomas E. Mann, 1937, for literary achievements; Dr. Alexis Carrel, 1936, contributions to medical science; Senator Gerald P. Nye, 1935, for investigation of munition industries; Dr. Robert A. Millikan, 1934, contributions to physical science; Senator George Norris, 1933, public service; Secretary of State Frank Kellogg, 1932, contributions to world peace.

BISHOP ALTHOFF ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION AT BELLEVILLE

Archbishop Glennon Conducts Mass Opening Second Day of Program.

Pontifical high mass was said this morning at St. Peter's Cathedral in Belleville by Archbishop John J. Glennon in opening the second day of the program celebrating the twenty-fifth anniversary of the consecration of Bishop Henry Althoff and the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the Belleville diocese. Archbishop Glennon preached when Bishop Althoff was consecrated.

Archbishop Glennon declared assertions of Communistic agitators that the Catholic clergy was silent when the poor suffered most were "false." He said the economic collapse was brought about "by wars which were not of our causing, by the rapacity of wealth, which is not by our inspiration."

The mass was preceded by a parade from the Bishop Althoff's residence in Belleville. Last night more than 2000 persons attended a civic reception at Turner Hall in honor of the 50 Bishops and Archbishops attending the two-day celebration. The speakers included Bishop William D. O'Brien of Chicago, Lieutenant Governor John Stille of Illinois, State Senator Louis Menges, Mayor George Remann of Belleville and Joseph B. McGlynn, master of the Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus.

A banquet was held at noon in honor of Bishop Althoff at the Belleville Elks' Club. Principal speakers were Bishop J. H. Schlarman of Peoria and Bishop James A. Griffin of Springfield. Toasts were offered by the visiting Bishops and a response was given by Bishop Althoff.

Bookful of Roosevelts

Books in the News

IN 1814 a young Dutch adventurer named "Kleynantje," or "Little Fellow," of his great size, left a party of fur traders in the Hudson River and went off country of the unfriendly Indians. And two years later, he told a strange tale among the savages.

Who this "Little Fellow" was has definitely established, but he is said to have come from the village of d in Holland, and family tradition enough to cause Hall Roosevelt of Eleanor Roosevelt and nephew (Theodore) to list him as the American Roosevelt in his book, "An American Family" (Harper Bros., New York).

Collaboration with Samuel Duff McElwaine was used family letters, with each of fictional adornment, as the basis of the travels and adventures of 21 Roosevelt relatives. The book with an account of a visit to the International Brigade in Spain by the author's son, Daniel Stewart, who was killed last week in a crash in Mexico.

Most interesting chapter concerns Roosevelt, credited with having the side-wheel paddles used by Alton. This Roosevelt built the New and in 1811 made the first steamboat from Pittsburgh to New Orleans, and occasionally to demonstrate to the world that his craft could paddle upstream a drift down.

There was Cousin Frederick Augustus, who crossed the Atlantic on an liner in 1838 and won $50 by guessing at hour the ship would reach port. By this success to further proper prediction that "steam navigation really supersede sailing packets."

Mr. 70 years later, we find the author's fifth cousin, Franklin Delano Roosevelt, in the latter's two-masted schooner-trip whose chief incident came craft was left on a mud bank by a tide off Nova Scotia.

Author apologizes for omitting the adventures of some 40 members of the clan, followed by pertinent references to the other current literature that the philosopher's works. In the now available, Schopenhauer is pre-Thomson Mann, Thoreau by Theodor, Montaigne by Andre Gide and Stefan Zweig.

JAPANESE PLANES INTENSIFY RAIDS ON SOUTH COAST

Foochow Among Bombed Cities—Wenchow, Gateway for Foreign Trade, Also Attacked.

WARSHIPS SHELL WU RIVER FORTS

Defenders Say They Have Stalled Invaders' Drive on Ichang and Inflicted 5000 Casualties.

SHANGHAI, April 26 (AP).—Japanese aircraft subjected the China coast, south of Shanghai, to intensified bombings today, including a raid on Foochow in which 25 bombs were estimated to have killed 40 persons and injured 100. Further north, the airmen attacked Wenchow, in southeastern Chekiang province, a gateway for Chinese foreign trade, which the Japanese for some reason had not attempted to blockade.

Besides being bombed from the air, Chinese forts at the mouth of the Wu River, on which Wenchow is situated, were shelled by Japanese warships. Commerce was cut off. Near Amoy, Chinese guerrillas were reported to have killed 200 Japanese on Quemoy Island. Following up the April 18 occupation of Kuling, a mountain resort just south of the Yangtze River port of Kiukiang, Japanese forces reported killing 900 Chinese and capturing 300 in occupation of the surrounding Lushan Mountains. Chinese continued to report pressure against Japanese along the Tientsin-Pukow railway in the vicinity of its junction with the Lungkai railway. Suchow, the junction city, was said to be under attack.

Along the Han River west of Hankow, the projected westward advance of the Japanese toward Ichang was said to be stalemated. Chinese said they had held the invaders back from a crossing of the Han and had killed or wounded an estimated 5000.

INQUEST VERDICT ACCUSES MAN IN AUTO FATALITY

Charges Criminal Carelessness Against Earl Whitley After C. F. Gamble Is Killed. A verdict of criminal carelessness, naming Earl Whitley, 3351 Belt avenue, was returned by a Coroner's jury today in the death of Charles F. Gamble, 330 Russell avenue, killed early yesterday in an automobile collision at Broadway and Washington avenue.

Two witnesses testified that Whitley, driving east on Washington, did not observe a stop sign at the intersection. Gamble, who entered the crossing from the south, was not required to make a stop. Whitley on advice of counsel, did not testify, but denied to a Post-Dispatch reporter that he had failed to stop and said he was driving slowly. He originally was booked by police as Earl Whitney.

been staging intermittent raids, reported attacks yesterday on Japanese in northwestern Kiangsi province. Chinese flyers said they machine-gunned troops with considerable success.

Mass Killing of Chinese Aiding Japanese at Kaifeng Is Denied.

KAIFENG, China, April 26 (AP).—Gen. Hu Yu-kun, chairman of a Japanese sponsored Chinese pacification commission, said today that all members of the body were safe despite reports of a recent mass assassination.

Gen. Hu, in fact, was one of the six members of the seven-man commission reported in Peking April 12 to have been killed in a revolt timed to coincide with Chinese attacks on this capital of Honan province. He said he had "recently visited Suchow for a few days." It was believed here that the whole commission went to Suchow, 175 miles east of Kaifeng, during the threatened Chinese coup.

The Japanese commander here, Lieutenant-General Washizu, said territory east of the new course of the Yellow River, near Kaifeng, had been cleared of Chinese fighters. He acknowledged the Chinese had crossed the river and, starting the night of April 11, had "halfheartedly attacked" the Kaifeng environs and fired trench mortars at the airfield and railway station, south of Kaifeng.

Foreign missions, including American organizations, are feeding 7000 Chinese refugees here.

PROPAGANDA FOR NEXT WAR UNDER WAY, DECLARES NYE

Says English Think Way to Involve U. S., Is to Arrive Japanese Against British.

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP).—Senator Nye (Rep.), North Dakota, told the Senate yesterday that "minds in Great Britain are sure that the one sure, easy way to involve the United States on the side of Britain in another war is to have the Japanese arrayed against Britain."

Nye said the British desire to take advantage of "alleged prejudice" against the Japanese in this country.

"Propaganda for the next war is already under way," he declared. He expressed concern over what he said was a "feeling of inevitability" in this country concerning United States participation in a European war. Inquiry should be made, he said, into the source of this feeling.

"Is it being planted, by chance?" he asked. "Is it inspired? The greatest danger to our peace is propaganda."

He asserted there was no reason why the United States could not keep out of a European war if it was prepared to resist propaganda.

LINDBERGH AT INDIANAPOLIS ON PLANE INSPECTION TRIP

Expected to Visit Factory and Experimental Station; Left Buffalo This Morning.

INDIANAPOLIS, April 26 (AP).—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, inspecting aviation resources for the U. S. army, landed at Stout Field (Indiana National Guard airport) at 12:30 p. m. today. Lindbergh left the field immediately for an unannounced destination.

It has been reported he plans to inspect the plant of the Allison Engineering Co., airplane motor manufacturer, and an experimental station at municipal airport here. He left the Buffalo (N. Y.) airport this morning.

LIECHTENSTEIN NAZI LEADER SEIZED, ACCUSED OF TREASON

Theodore Schaefer Attempted Putsch March 24 but Was Rout- ed, Authorities Say.

VADUZ, Liechtenstein, April 26 (AP).—The leader of Nazis in the principality of Liechtenstein, Theodore Schaefer, has been taken into custody on a charge of treason as a result of an attempted revolt last month, authorities confirmed today. Schaefer is alleged to have attempted to lead a putsch on the night of March 24. He and his followers, it was charged, occupied bridge over the Rhine separating Liechtenstein and Switzerland at Schaan, and attempted also to take over public buildings. The citizens of Schaan, however, ordered a hearing on the application of the Nazis in a hand-to-hand encounter. Schaefer's arrest followed.

(Liechtenstein, with an area of 65 square miles and a population of 10,000, lies between Germany and Switzerland. It is in the Swiss customs system.)

HAMILTON-BROWN CO. SEEKS $600,000 WORKING CAPITAL

Trustees Ask to Issue Certificates; Court Sets Hearing for May 8.

Trustees of the Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co. applied to United States District Judge George H. Moore today for authority to issue trustees' certificates of $600,000 to obtain working capital. The court ordered a hearing on the application of the Nazis in a hand-to-hand encounter. Schaefer's arrest followed.

The trustees said there was little cash on hand.

Money from accounts, which ordinarily could be used for operations as it was received, has to be turned over to the Commercial Factors Corporation of New York under a contract made by the firm last January, it was explained. The contract, providing for a mortgage on the company's finished products, was signed to obtain advances of more than $1,300,000 in raw materials, it was stated.

It was announced today that the regional office of the National Labor Relations Board here is seeking a ruling from Washington as to whether it can continue with a hearing against the company on a charge of unfair labor practices; the hearing should be dropped at its plant in Poplar Bluff, Mo., cause of the reorganization of attorneys for the company contend.

U. S. MEDIATOR TAKES HOLD OF COAL PARLEY

Deadlock Continues Unbroken; Dr. John R. Steelman in Charge.

NEW YORK, April 26 (AP).—The wage and hour negotiations in the soft coal industry remained deadlocked today despite the first day's efforts of the Federal Government's mediator to effect an agreement and return 338,000 miners to work.

Dr. John R. Steelman, chief of the Labor Department's conciliation service, took charge of the negotiations as the chairman of the Bituminous Coal Commission estimated at Washington that the supply of soft coal would reach the critical stage in two weeks. The suspension of operations in 10 per cent of the industry became effective April 3 following expiration of the old labor contract, and consumption is gradually catching up with production in other regions as the reserve supply dwindles. A complete stoppage may follow on May 4 if the deadlock is not broken. Steelman was designated by Secretary of Labor Perkins to attempt to settle the dispute which now hinges on the miners' demands for elimination of the penalty clause against illegal strikes.

34 Missing in Mine Explosion. TOKYO, April 26 (AP).—Domel, Japanese news agency, reported today that one person was known to be dead and 34 missing after an explosion in the large open coal mines at Fushun, Manchoukuo.

in Charge.

NEW YORK, April 26 (AP).—The wage and hour negotiations in the soft coal industry remained deadlocked today despite the first day's efforts of the Federal Government's mediator to effect an agreement and return 338,000 miners to work.

Dr. John R. Steelman, chief of the Labor Department's conciliation service, took charge of the negotiations as the chairman of the Bituminous Coal Commission estimated at Washington that the supply of soft coal would reach the critical stage in two weeks. The suspension of operations in 10 per cent of the industry became effective April 3 following expiration of the old labor contract, and consumption is gradually catching up with production in other regions as the reserve supply dwindles. A complete stoppage may follow on May 4 if the deadlock is not broken. Steelman was designated by Secretary of Labor Perkins to attempt to settle the dispute which now hinges on the miners' demands for elimination of the penalty clause against illegal strikes.

34 Missing in Mine Explosion.
TOKYO, April 26 (AP).—Domet, Japanese news agency, reported today that one person was known to be dead and 34 missing after an explosion in the large open coal mines at Fushun, Manchoukuo.

AMERICAN DOCTOR ATTACKED BY NAZI GUARDS IN VIENNA

Physician Convicted of Violating Currency Laws Tells of Beating.

VIENNA, April 26 (AP).—Dr. Oscar Lavine, a physician of Mount Rainier, Md., who was sentenced to prison and fined last December on a charge of violating German currency laws, reported to the United States Consulate-General today that he had been attacked by a group of S. A. (Nazi guard) men. Dr. Lavine said the brown-uniformed guards entered the cafe of the Stadt Theater Monday night during blackout exercises in air raid defense. He said the guards told all Jews to leave the cafe and then beat them in the darkened streets. He said he received slight injuries before getting away. The consulate asked him to make a written report to be forwarded to Washington. Dr. Lavine was sentenced to six months' imprisonment and fined 60,000 marks ($24,000). These penalties were reduced, on appeal, to four months' imprisonment and a fine of 40,000 marks ($16,000). He now is seeking full clemency. Pending the decision he is at liberty but may not leave Vienna.

SECOND MESSAGE DUE TUESDAY ON REORGANIZATION

ing messages, the President said this would come in the intra-departmental report. There have been rumors that this plan has been shelved for the time being. The temperature was high in Washington, particularly in the President's offices, where more than 150 reporters were crowded in, and the conference was one of the shortest on record. At the close the President said it was a "good guess" that he would appoint former Representative David J. Lewis of Maryland to the position vacated by Dr. William L. Leiserson on the National Labor Relations Board. Mr. Roosevelt said he had always wanted to put his friend, Davy Lewis on the Mediation Board, but just hadn't had time to speak to him about it. Lewis was the unsuccessful candidate of the White House for the Senate last fall against Senator Millard Tydings in the Maryland Democratic primary. He is a former member of the Federal Tariff Commission and has been interested in labor problems throughout his career.

He called at the White House today and announced later: "I just came down to tell the President that 'Barkis is willing'."

The President said he had no comment to make on proposed changes in the Wagner Labor Relations Act, and, as at previous press conferences, said that not a thing had been done about tax revision.

New York Republican Moves Rejection of Plan No. 1.
WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP).—Representative Taber (Rep.), New York, took the first step today toward blocking President Roosevelt's Government reorganization plan No. 1, submitted yesterday.

The New Yorker, ranking Republican member of the House Reorganization Committee, offered a resolution stating merely that Congress disapproves the plan.

The President's first proposals for Government reorganization met widespread approval in Congress, although a few members objected to specific changes.

ILLINOIS NEEDS MORE SOCIAL SECURITY FUNDS, DURKIN SAYS
State Job Insurance Director Tells Congressmen System Is in Danger.

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP).—Illinois Congressmen were told that their State's unemployment compensation program was "seriously threatened with collapse even before it starts," for lack of Federal funds, in a letter received Monday from Martin P. Durkin, director of the State Division of Unemployment Compensation.

The State needs $606,000 in Federal funds at once in order to purchase office equipment and engage employees in time to begin paying unemployment benefits July 1, Durkin stated, adding that Federal payments had been $606,000 short of the State's need and that the Social Security Board had told him Congress would have to appropriate additional funds before the State could get all it sought.

Upon inquiry, Representative Dirksen (Rep.), Illinois, was told by the Social Security Board that Illinois would be in line for the additional funds requested if Congress approved a $13,000,000 item in the second deficiency appropriation bill to make up shortages in Illinois and other states.

PASSENGER IN AUTO THAT HIT POLE DIES

Arthur Keller Succumbs to Skull Fracture Suffered in Accident Saturday.

Arthur Keller, 9218 Alabama avenue, died at City Hospital today of a skull fracture suffered early Saturday when an automobile in which he was riding crashed into a telephone pole at the northeast corner of Broadway and Dakota street. He was a brewery worker, 34 years old.

The driver, Emmett Nicholson, 315 Lenhardt avenue, Lemay, is in serious condition at the hospital with a skull fracture. Another passenger, August Kramer, 4718 Dahlia avenue, suffered a laceration on the right leg. Two other men were not injured.

Kramer told police that Nicholson apparently lost control of the automobile when he swerved sharply to avoid a parked car. The automobile, going south in Broadway, skidded across the street, over the curb and into the pole.

Keller and Nicholson were riding in the front seat of the automobile, a sedan. The three men in the back seat were thrown through the top.

ANNOUNCES

A NEW ST. LOUIS PLANT

For its World-Famous Beverages!

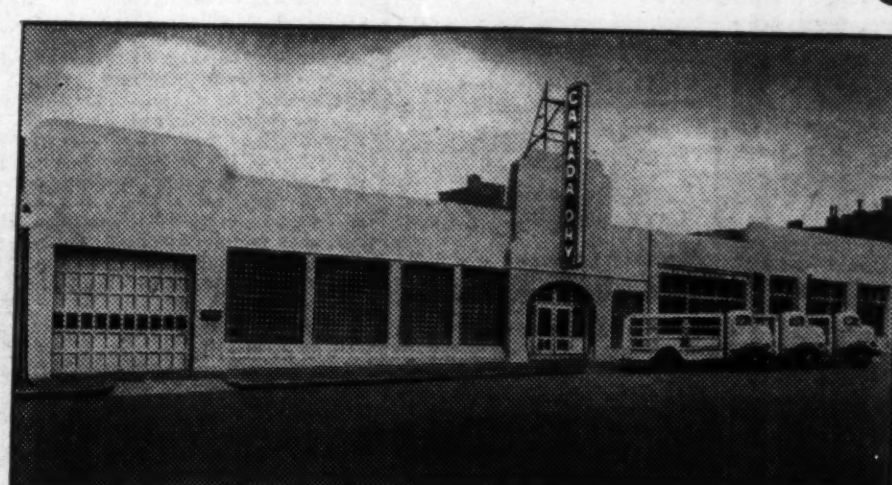

St. Louis, world-famous as a city of homes, has become a home to Canada Dry's world-famous line of beverages. For now, in an ultra modern plant, at 3029 Olive Street, Canada Dry Bottling Company, of St. Louis, begins the manufacture and distribution of Canada Dry products for the city and immediate vicinity.

In this newly licensed plant will be found the same methods that have made Canada Dry a favorite with discerning people of fifty countries. Here will be produced the same distinguished product that was developed by the famous chemist, John McLaughlin, back in 1906, when he gave the world "The Champagne of Ginger Ales."

The Canada Dry secret process, as millions of palates know, brings out the full, piquant flavor, aroma and bouquet, of the finest ginger root... selected by Canada Dry's own expert on the island of Jamaica. That's why the Canada Dry Ginger Ale made here, as in other important cities throughout the world, is a quick pick-up... a refreshing, soothing bracer... an aid to well being. That is why it's gingervating!

Treat the whole family to Canada Dry beverages—and be sure to keep an ample supply in your refrigerator for those occasions when friends drop in. Canada Dry is on sale at all neighborhood stores, in hotels, clubs and restaurants.

Glen G. Cady Again Asks Divorce.
CHICAGO, April 26 (AP).—Glen G. Cady, high school bookkeeping teacher, filed his second suit for divorce Monday. After Cady's wife, Mary Catherine, had filed suit last year for separate maintenance, charging him with "lovely accident love-making" and cruelty, he filed a cross bill for divorce. Judge John Prydzinski dismissed both actions for want of equity. The 35-year-old school teacher charged his wife with desertion in the suit yesterday. They were married at Flora, Ill., in 1935.

LEGION POST SUES TO GET REALTY TAX EXEMPTION

Purpose Is to Obtain Definition of Status Under Declaratory Judgment Law.
The Jackson Johnson Jr. Post of the American Legion filed suit in Circuit Court yesterday to establish its meeting quarters at 618 North Newstead avenue as exempt from property taxes. The post recently acquired the property.
George W. Curran, attorney for the organization, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter that a ruling by the Attorney-General about two years ago excluded property of a Legion post, which had been chartered for charitable purposes, from all real estate taxes. The suit, he said, was to obtain a permanent definition of the tax status under the declaratory judgment law.
The post was chartered several years ago as a corporation for charitable purposes by a pro forma decree in Circuit Court. Defendants in the suit include the Assessor, Collector and Attorney-General.

ROOSEVELT POINTS TO RED CROSS AID GIVEN NEIGHBORS

tion of the nation, with specific powers and responsibilities, the Red Cross operates with independence and impartiality. It is not a government agency, and it is not a charity; it is a humanitarian organization, and it is the only one of its kind in the world.
"When there is disaster every agency of the United States Government is directed to co-operate with the Red Cross. Government resources and man power play an important part in aiding and restoring physical damage in communities struck by calamities. But they can never replace the humanitarian handling of the problems of the individual which is the work of the Red Cross."
"I am especially proud of the improvement that has come during the past few years under our late Chairman Admiral Grayson and our new chairman, Mr. Norman Davis. I refer particularly to the co-ordination and co-operation which has been worked out in times of disaster between the many agencies of the United States Government and the American Red Cross today."
"In floods, in fires and in hurricanes, the system of pooling our resources has been brought to a very high state of efficiency."
"In time of local or regional disaster, all human agencies—those of the Federal Government, of state governments and of county and municipal governments—know exactly what to do. They are organized for instantaneous action. And, as you know, that action proceeds smoothly and without duplication of effort under the general direction of the American Red Cross itself."

RUSSIAN'S NON-STOP FLIGHT TO NEW YORK FAIR DELAYED

Storms Over Finland Postpone Takeoff, But He Still Hopes to Arrive for Opening.
MOSCOW, April 26 (AP).—Vladimir Kokkinaki, Russian distance flyer, still hopes to reach New York in time for the opening of the World's Fair despite postponement of his start today because of bad weather.
Storms over Finland forced a delay in his takeoff for the non-stop flight by way of Finland and Labrador. He had planned to start at 4 a. m. (7 p. m. St. Louis time Tuesday).
He estimated a maximum of 25 hours would be required for the trip and he would still have time to reach New York before Sunday if weather does not force repeated postponements.

HULL DECLARES NO NATION CAN DOMINATE WORLD

But Says There Are Ample Known Resources So All Can Enjoy High Level of Prosperity.
SELF-SUFFICIENCY THEORY FALLACIOUS
Asserts Conditions Arise in Which Peace-Loving Countries Prefer Armed Defense to Subjection.
WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP).—Secretary of State Hull, speaking three days before Adolf Hitler's scheduled reply to President Roosevelt's appeal for peace, declared last night there was "not room on this earth" for a nation or group of nations that would enslave all the others.
He addressed the seventy-fifth anniversary dinner of the American Red Cross. Some observers interpreted his remarks as a warning and an appeal to Chancellor Hitler. The State Department sent the major parts of his speech to all American diplomats in Europe and South America.
"There is ample room on this earth for the two billion human beings who inhabit it," Hull said. "There are ample known resources of materials and skill to enable all nations to enjoy a high level of economic prosperity and to face a future of continued plenty."
"But there has never been, and there is not today, room on this earth for a political organization of mankind under which a single nation or a group of nations will enslave and dominate all the others."
Hull said that there was no controversy between nations arising not be settled "with far greater benefits to all concerned by the peaceful processes of friendly adjustment than by resort to armed force."
"Terrible as are the realities and consequences of war," he added, "sooner or later conditions arise in which peaceful and peace-loving nations prefer armed defense to subjection and slavery."
Hull said that economic self-sufficiency was a fallacy whose price was "a disastrous decline in the level of satisfaction of a people's wants."
"The material and spiritual resources of the entire world are available to all nations through mutually beneficial trade and through all those innumerable peaceful and friendly international relationships in every phase of human activity whose capacity to enrich the lives of individuals and of nations has already been convincingly demonstrated."
No Nation Barred.
"No nation is excluded from participation in the benefits of these precious means of betterment and advancement of mankind, except as it deliberately excludes itself—either by short-sighted attempts at national isolation or the even more short-sighted policy of armed aggression."
Any nation following either course, he said, inflicts an "incalculable injury upon its own people and upon the world as a whole."
Hull refused to accept the thesis that war is inevitable.
"I, for one," he said, "cannot believe that any nation today has irrevocably entered upon a road from which there is no turning, save in the direction of a new widespread war."
He urged preparedness in arms for this country and expressed hope for a "negotiated peace before rather than after the senseless arbitrament of war."
He added that this Government was willing to make an "appropriate contribution to such a peace," but if war should come, "we are equally prepared to defend successfully our national interests and our cherished institutions."
Economic Activity Diverted.
Hull declared the world was already paying for the war that had not yet been fought.
"Economic activity," he asserted, "is increasingly diverted from production designed to maintain and improve the material standard of life to the creation of instruments of destruction."
"Spiritual activity is more and more turned away from enlightenment and intellectual progress to artificial cultivation of hatreds and animosities. Confidence in the future is shattered. Creative thought and enterprise, the freedom of the individual, become chained to the chariot of brute force."
The role of the Red Cross in war, Hull said, is increasing in importance because "the line of demarcation between the combatant and the non-combatant is being rapidly obliterated."
Delegates to the Red Cross convention heard plans for relief work in the event of floods or hurricanes. Robert E. Bondy, national director of disaster relief, told of a system of community preparedness committees extending from the upper Ohio valley to New Orleans.
Each committee, Bondy said, had chartered the territory to be covered by the Red Cross chapter in emergency and had ascertained what

WYNCEL URBAN CASE DROPPED
Four Indictments Dismissed; Witness Won't Testify.
Four indictments charging Wynzel Urban, former Cuckoo gangster, with burglary and larceny were dismissed yesterday by State's Attorney R. W. Griffith at Edwardsville. He said the State's chief witness, Nelson Eveland, convicted at the Illinois State Penitentiary at Joliet, who implicated Urban in two safe burglaries, refused to testify against him. Eveland pleaded guilty of burglary and received an indeterminate sentence of one year to life.

Efficiency of Joint Efforts.
"Furthermore, after the emergency of human suffering is over, for other Government agencies step in with the system of the Red Cross to carry on the work of rehabilitation—physical work and financial aid."
"I hope the people of the nation realize the splendid efficiency of these joint efforts. There is no lost motion, there is no waste of emergency or relief funds—and I believe that no country in the world has reached the standards which the United States has achieved in this respect in the past few years."
"The strength of our splendid organization is in its appeal to the tenderest sympathies of all our people. It embraces in its membership all races and creeds and knows no politics. There is nothing narrow or sectional about it. All of our people find unity in one great objective: the relief of human suffering."

HOPE FOR THE FUTURE
"Happily, too, the Red Cross appeals both to adults and to our young people. Through the Junior Red Cross, nine million boys and girls are being brought up in the tradition of service to others. The foundation being laid for these boys and girls in the Junior Red Cross, which has for its motto, 'I serve,' may well be an important factor in the future welfare of our nation."
"In its 58 years existence the American Red Cross has also been exceptionally generous and active in extending a helping hand to our distressed neighbors. Within the past 12 months not only have our resources of money and our resources of volunteers been strained to the utmost in meeting disaster relief needs, such as in the New England hurricane, where great loss of life and property was suffered, but in generous contributions to distressed civilians in China, in Spain, in aiding the refugees in France, and in Chile where earthquakes took an appalling toll of life and left thousands of injured to be cared for."

HOPE FOR THE FUTURE
"The spirit of the Red Cross does not wane. In a world disturbed by war and fear of war, the unselfish devotion of the Red Cross to the welfare of others stands out in striking contrast to inhuman acts which have shocked our conscience."
"The task before us is enormous. Our work, by reason of its very nature, never is done. Our work never can be done while human misery exists."
"We shall not fail because we know all America is with us."

ALTERING MAKEUP OF NLRB UNDER CONSIDERATION

Administration Discusses Plan to Add Two Members in Effort to Appease Congressional Critics.

NEW APPOINTEE CALLED IMPARTIAL

Leiserson Approved by Both CIO and A. F. L.—Large Groups Demand Vote on Change in Law.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—Appointment yesterday of William S. Leiserson to be a member of the National Labor Relations Board may be only the beginning of an administration move to alter the character of the board in order to appease hostile critics and particularly Southern Democrats, who have been vociferously opposed to the present board membership, the Post-Dispatch has learned.

The administration has under consideration, it is learned, a plan to increase the board from three members to five. Two more members would be named who would have, like Leiserson, the approval of both the Congress of Industrial Organizations and the American Federation of Labor.

There would then be a majority of three who would be regarded by both factions in the bitter labor warfare as impartial. Presumably if other men could be found with Leiserson's long background of professional experience in labor mediation, then employers, too, would accept the board's decision as impartial.

President Dislikes Big Boards.
One factor that makes it uncertain whether this move will be gone through with is President Roosevelt's dislike of large boards. In discussing reorganization plans with House and Senate advisers he has on numerous occasions stressed his belief that one man acting as an administrator is far more effective than a board. He has reproached members of Congress with setting up commissions such as that on Federal Communications, which has seven members.

Leiserson was named to replace Donald Wakefield Smith, whose term expired last August. Smith has been filling a recess appointment and the original plan, as was told in the Post-Dispatch recently, was to permit him to serve until the present Congress adjourned and then to appoint his successor, it having been recognized from the beginning that confirmation of Smith was impossible. Increasing hostility toward the board in Congress brought more immediate action.

Many Demand Change in Law.
There are at least 60 Senators, according to an administration leader on Capitol Hill, who have determined to listen to no talk of adjournment until they have had an opportunity to vote on amendments to the Wagner Act. The majority in the House who want action is said to be just as large. This would seem to be a major obstacle in the way of getting Congress out of Washington at an early date. And to get Congress—an uncertain, balky, stubborn Congress—out of the way is just now an administration ambition.

Increasing the Labor Board to five members would not, of course, appease the most rabid critics, but it is believed it would go a long way toward bringing recalcitrant Southerners into line. Congressmen such as Robert Ramspeck of Georgia have indicated that they would be satisfied with some such plan. An effort will be made to have regional representation on the board with a member appointed from the South, who would express the Southern point of view. Such a plan, in the belief of administration advisers might put an end to demands for an investigation of the board as has been proposed by Representative J. Arthur Anderson of St. Louis County in a resolution before the House.

On May 4, the House Committee on Labor will begin hearings on a series of amendments to the Wagner Act. These include the A. F. of L. and the Burke amendments which a Senate committee is now considering as well as a series of amendments on agricultural labor. Meanwhile Senate hearings are continuing with the strong possibility that they will run at least two to three weeks longer since neither the A. F. of L. nor the National Association of Manufacturers has been heard on their respective proposals to amend the act and curtail the powers of the board. Leiserson, 56 years old, now chairman of the National Mediation Board under the Railway Labor Act, came to this country in 1890 from his native Estonia, and has spent 30 years in the field of labor relations.

His past speeches give some indication of his views. "The main spring of improved labor relations," he said in one speech, "is not individual regeneration but public enlightenment." Discussing strikes, he said once that the employers, not the strikers, were to blame for industrial warfare over unionism and collective bargaining if employers made it necessary for men to strike. "When, however, the legal protections are available," he added, "and working people do not avail themselves of peaceful legal means, but resort to strikes, then it is they, not the employers or the public, who must bear the guilt of bringing on unnecessary industrial warfare."

Views on Sit-Down Strikes.
In a speech April 8, 1937, Leiserson discussed sit-down strikes and speculated on the possibility that some such strikes might in the future be considered legal while others would be outlawed. "That the sit-down strike is now illegal is hardly open to question," he said.

"Only such strikes are legal," he added, "whose purposes the courts recognize as legitimate—in other words, the objectives of the strikes, the merits of the differences between employers and employees that are the causes of the disputes, determine whether the strike action is lawful or not."

In the course of his speech Leiserson spoke of a sit-down strike waged for reasons "that would make an ordinary strike perfectly legal" and asked if it was more unreasonable for the strikers to remain at their places of work than close down the plant by a walk-out.

"If it is assumed that strikes, picketing and boycotts are proper and legal methods of settling differences between employers and employees—there is not something to be said," he asked again, "for the sit-down as a more orderly and sensible method, less likely to provoke violence and to cause injury to persons and property?"

Drive to Unionize Aircraft Men.
TOLEDO, O., April 26 (AP).—The executive board of the CIO United Automobile Workers voted yesterday to start a campaign to unionize aircraft workers. President Roland J. Thomas said the action followed reports that the army and navy are seeking to promote employment of 60,000 additional aircraft workers in the next few months.

FRANCE IN QUANDARY OVER ALEXANDRETTA

Willing Turkey Should Annex It but Must Reckon With Syria.

PARIS, April 26 (AP).—Premier Edouard Daladier held an unexpected conference with the ranking military and diplomatic chiefs today on France's position in the Near East.

The talks at the War Ministry were understood to be concerned particularly with France's strained relations with the mandate of Syria and the means of handing over the Republic of Hatay (Alexandretta) to Turkey without making those relations worse.

Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet was to confer with Gabriel Puaux, French High Commissioner in Syria, but Daladier himself decided to preside at the conference and, because of the military implications of any move in the Near East at present, called in Gen. Maurice Gustave Gamelin, chief of the general staff of national defense.

Sources close to the Foreign Office indicated that the only difficulty in the way of letting Turkey annex Hatay was the problem of compensating Syria for loss of the little republic which only a year ago as the Sanjak of Alexandretta was just a Syrian province.

Annexation of Hatay is understood already to be agreed upon between France and Turkey and is considered by diplomatic circles to be part of Turkey's price for joining the French-British collective security bloc. Hatay's administration already is dominantly Turkish, although some units of French troops are stationed there as a symbol of joint French-Turkish supervision.

French efforts to expand the French-British front extended to Rumania also. Bonnet planned to see the Turkish ambassador at a Turkish embassy reception tonight and then to go to the railway station to welcome the Rumanian Foreign Minister, Grigore Gafencu, who will arrive from London.

ARKANSAS FARMER, SHOT BY 17-YEAR-OLD SON, DIES

Boy Quoted as Saying Father Threatened Stepmother and Himself With Knife. SEARCY, Ark., April 26 (AP).—James P. Weeks, 54-year-old farmer, died early today from gunshot wounds which Sheriff J. A. Neaville Jr. said were inflicted by his son, Jesse Lee Weeks, 17.

Neaville, who arrested the youth last night on an open charge soon after the shooting at the family home, quoted the boy as saying he fired twice at his father with a shotgun after the older man threatened his stepmother and other members of the family, and advanced on him with an open knife.

ILLINOIS HOUSE REJECTS DRIVERS' LICENSE FUND

Proposed Measure Allowed $80,000 for Enforcement—Senate Extends Sales Tax. SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 26 (AP).—Representative Benjamin S. Adamowski, Democratic floor leader in the Illinois House, joined Republican opponents of an administration appropriation bill yesterday and helped defeat a proposal to set aside $80,000 to enforce the drivers' license bill. Two other Democrats voted against the appropriation.

The vote was 100 to 33 in favor of the appropriation, but it required 102 votes for passage with an emergency clause. The fund would have gone to the State Highway Department to pay the cost of examining drivers.

The measure extending the sales tax from July 1, 1939, to July 1, 1941, passed the Senate, 31 to 5. It was sent to the House. Two House bills were passed by the Senate and sent to the Governor. They were the measure putting Peoria, St. Clair and Madison counties under the jury commission act and the bill validating referendums approving a tuberculosis sanitarium tax.

The House Appropriations Committee approved the $32,789,000 request of educational groups for State aid to schools for the next two years.

FEDERAL HOME LOAN BANK LOANS ON APARTMENTS URGED

J. H. Fahey, Chairman of Board, Before House Committee Advocates Amendment to Act. WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP).—John H. Fahey, chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, urged a congressional committee today to amend the Home Loan Bank Act to permit Federal loans to be made on apartment house mortgages.

Testifying before the House Banking Committee on several administration approved amendments to the Home Loan Bank Act, Fahey said there was "No good reason why the act should continue to handicap savings banks if they need advances to meet any temporary difficulties."

He said many savings banks were holding mortgages on multi-family units which they could not offer as collateral advances.

TEACHING SAILORS TO SHOOT

Britain Training Merchant Marine Seamen in Gunnery. LONDON, April 26 (AP).—The Government disclosed today that seamen on British merchant ships were being trained in gunnery practice in eight British ports. Geoffrey H. Shakespeare, Admiralty Undersecretary, replying to a question in the House of Commons, said courses were inaugurated last month and that about 3000 men would have received the training within 12 months.

MISSOURI RIVER FERRY BOAT SINKS

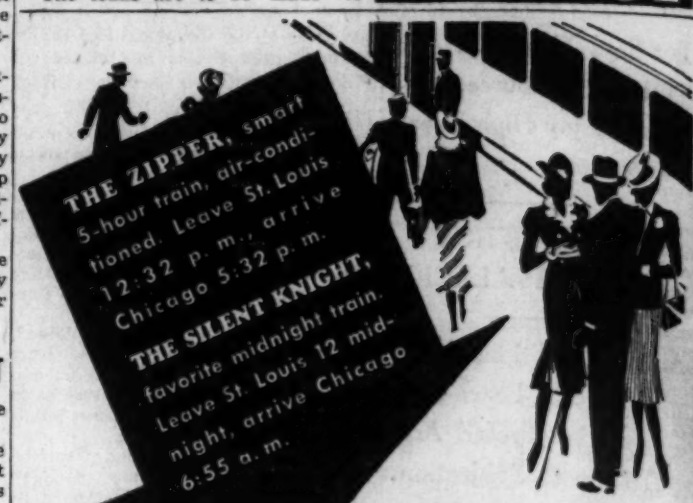

WHITE CLOUD, Kan., April 25 (AP).—The H. & R. ferry boat sank near the Missouri river at the Missouri River at 3:30 o'clock yesterday morning. The boat lies in 20 feet of water but may be salvaged. The pilot and two passengers escaped. A motor car slid into the water as the boat sank.

CROP CONTROL IN ARGENTINA

Government Authorizes Loans to Reduce Wheat Land. BUENOS AIRES, April 26 (AP).—The Government, following a policy of modified crop control, authorized loans totaling $6,000,000 pesos (about $1,500,000) today to encourage the withdrawal of wheat lands from cultivation. The loans are to be made to farmers who undertake to turn land in certain zones into pasture.

EX-POSTAL TRUCK DRIVER GETS YEAR FOR THEFTS FROM MAIL

Charles Clark, Ironton, Pleads Guilty in U. S. Court; Made Restitution. Charles Clark, former mail truck driver at Ironton, Mo., pleaded guilty today to an indictment charging 12 thefts from the mail and was sentenced to one year in a penitentiary by United States District Judge George H. Moore.

Clark was arrested after a series of complaints, most of them from the Baptist Home at Ironton, that letters containing money had not been delivered. Postoffice inspectors mailed $7 in currency, in five letters, to the Baptist Home and arrested Clark when they were misused from a pouch at the postoffice. The currency was found in his pocket.

Clark, after admitting thefts of about $200, made restitution to the department. When he asked Judge Moore today whether he could make application for probation, the Court replied: "Yes, but you may not get it."

WALLACE SAYS ROOSEVELT FOLLOWS WASHINGTON POLICY

No President More Successful in Adhering to It, Secretary Declares.

NEW YORK, April 26 (AP).—Secretary of Agriculture Wallace told representatives of 48 foreign governments last night that no President ever had followed Washington's foreign policy more successfully than President Roosevelt.

"Washington foreshadowed the continuing desire of the American people to be in the world and yet not completely of it," said Wallace, speaking at a dinner for commissioners general of foreign countries participating in the World's Fair.

Quoting Washington as urging neutrality for the United States with defense adequate to preserve that neutrality, Wallace remarked, "No President has more successfully followed the policy of Washington—the good neighbor policy—than has President Roosevelt."

A. A. Berle Jr., Assistant Secretary of State, speaking at the dinner of Secretary Hall, said, "Only the other day in Rome a world's fair in 1942 was set out as gauge for the peace of the world. We hope that perhaps there might be other world's fairs after that and that we may look forward to that continuity of peace and happiness which is the goal of us all."

35 PERSONS INDICTED ON GAMBLING CHARGES

16 Accused as Bookmakers—19 as Operators of Gaming Devices.

Thirty-five routine gambling indictments were voted yesterday by the grand jury, which charged 16 men said by police to be bookmakers with custodianship of bets and 19 merchants with setting up gaming devices—slot machines or pin-ball games.

Punishment for being custodian of a bet ranges from a fine of $500 to five years in prison. That for setting up a gaming device is imprisonment from six months to five years.

Names and business addresses of those charged with taking bets were given as follows: Marvin Hyde, 4260W Finney avenue; John L. Reinhardt and William Thorpe, 4388 Olive street; Edward M. Spotted, 4061 Olive; Maurice Lewis, 507 North Vandewater avenue; Joseph F. Moore, 2012 South Third Street; Mason Williams, 5612 South Grand boulevard; Ernest Goldstein, 612 Chestnut street; Edward Murphy and Lester Houston, 3627 Florissant avenue; William D. Kamp, 110 North Eighth street; Ben Cantor, 1712 Franklin avenue; William J. McCormack and Joseph J. Warner, 708 North Twelfth boulevard; Leslie Brophy, 310 North Jefferson avenue; Eddie Rovicks, 415 North Eighth.

The gaming device charges were based on police visits to nine restaurants, three drug stores, two taverns, two bowling alleys, a hotel, a confectionery and a cigar store. One indictment was against a woman.

Those charged with setting up the devices in restaurants and the addresses were listed as follows: Russell Jacques, 3405 Olive street; Melvin Simes, 3540 Gravoia avenue; Edward Denton, 102 North Sixth street; Julie Hartman, 1630 St. Charles street; Fred A. Campbell, 2409 North Broadway; William Bryan, 617 South Broadway; Travis Starr, 1212 Olive; Ernie Poston, 1618 Market street; Lee R. Huckle, 1309 North Grand boulevard.

The three charged with setting up gaming devices in drug stores and addresses of the stores: Robert T. Hill, 6830 Michigan avenue; Morris Mosheim, 6156 Pershing avenue; Robert G. Krewinghaus, 4067 Shaw boulevard.

Other indictments on the same charge were against Minnie Sansone, bowling alley, 934 North Broadway; Clifford de Wees, bowling alley, Grand boulevard and St. Louis avenue; Otis R. Canterbury, 6310 North Broadway; Clarence A. Sharum, tavern, 7820 North Broadway; Joseph Palmisano, hotel, 803 Chestnut street; William Klopfer, confectionery, 5650 Gravoia; Louis Tutinski, cigar store, 506 Pine street.

Her fiancé, Will Gurski, was sentenced for four months for anti-Nazi activities.

MISSOURI HOUSE PASSES ANOTHER SALES TAX BILL

Purpose Is to Meet Constitutional Points Left in Doubt by Earlier Measure.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 26 (AP).—A bill extending the 2 percent sales tax to Dec. 31, 1941, and broadening the enforcement powers of the State Auditor was passed by the House and sent to the Senate yesterday.

It was the second sales levy measure to go through the House this session. The first merely extended the tax for another two years, but the Attorney-General's office said this was not sufficient to establish constitutionality.

The first measure already has been considered by a Senate committee, which altered it to meet the Attorney-General's objections.

The bill passed yesterday would exempt sales of water and give the Auditor authority to employ additional counsel and investigators.

Other provisions are designed to put itinerant merchants and peddlers under the law and give the Auditor authority to employ additional counsel and investigators.

FUGITIVE ARKANSAS CASHIER SURRENDERS AT TORONTO

K. C. Key Indicted in 1938 on Charge of Embezzling $17,500 From Fayetteville Bank.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 26 (AP).—The Federal Bureau of Investigation today announced that Kerr Carl Key, fugitive former cashier of the First National Bank at Fayetteville, Ark., surrendered yesterday to the United States Consul at Toronto, Canada, and was taken in charge at Lewiston, N. Y., by FBI agents.

Key was reported to have been removed to Buffalo, N. Y., for arraignment on a fugitive warrant returnable at Fort Smith.

FBI records showed that Key, one-time Sunday School superintendent and active in Fayetteville civic affairs, disappeared from home June 1, 1929. A Federal indictment returned at Fort Smith Jan. 15, 1930, charged him with embezzling $17,500 from the Fayetteville bank.

Police said Carter's wife, Lillie, was unable to tell them what the fight was about. They are looking for Carter's assailant.

LEGAL OBSTACLE TO EFFORT TO BAR BERGDOLL FROM U. S.

Question Raised as to Whether Bill Constitutes Penalty Enacted After Crime.

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP).—Efforts of the House Military Committee to deny Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, World War draft dodger, readmission to the United States encountered legal obstacles today.

Some committee members expressed doubt as to the constitutionality of the bill by Representative Harness (Rep.), Indiana, which would prohibit the re-entry of any person convicted of army desertion during wartime who fled to escape punishment.

A subcommittee was appointed to redraft the measure. The principal question was whether the proposed legislation constituted a penalty imposed after the crime was committed.

STARK SENDS SENATE 40 APPOINTMENTS

Kansas City Election Board in List Submitted for Confirmation.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 26 (AP).—Gov. Stark unexpectedly sent 40 of his recess appointments, including those of members of the Kansas City Election Board, to the Senate for confirmation today.

POSTAL TRUCK DRIVER GETS YEAR FOR THEFTS FROM MAIL

Charles Clark, Ironton, Pleads Guilty in U. S. Court; Made Restitution.

Charles Clark, former mail truck driver at Ironton, Mo., pleaded guilty today to an indictment charging 12 thefts from the mail and was sentenced to one year in a penitentiary by United States District Judge George H. Moore.

Clark was arrested after a series of complaints, most of them from the Baptist Home at Ironton, that letters containing money had not been delivered. Postoffice inspectors mailed $7 in currency, in five letters, to the Baptist Home and arrested Clark when they were seized from a pouch at the postoffice. The currency was found in his pocket.

Clark, after admitting thefts of about $200, made restitution to the department. When he asked Judge Moore today whether he could make application for probation, the Court replied: "Yes, but you may not get it."

WALLACE SAYS ROOSEVELT FOLLOWS WASHINGTON POLICY

No President More Successful in Adhering to It, Secretary Declares.

NEW YORK, April 26 (AP).—Secretary of Agriculture Wallace told representatives of 48 foreign governments last night that no President ever had followed Washington's foreign policy more successfully than President Roosevelt.

"Washington foreshadowed the continuing desire of the American people to be in the world and yet not completely of it," said Wallace, speaking at a dinner for commissioners general of foreign countries participating in the World's Fair.

Quoting Washington as urging neutrality for the United States with defense adequate to preserve that neutrality, Wallace remarked, "No President has more successfully followed the policy of Washington—the good neighbor policy—than has President Roosevelt."

A. A. Berle Jr., Assistant Secretary of State, speaking at the dinner of Secretary Hall, said, "Only the other day in Rome a world's fair in 1942 was set out as gauge for the peace of the world. We hope that perhaps there might be other world's fairs after that and that we may look forward to that continuity of peace and happiness which is the goal of us all."

35 PERSONS INDICTED ON GAMBLING CHARGES

16 Accused as Bookmakers—19 as Operators of Gaming Devices.

Thirty-five routine gambling indictments were voted yesterday by the grand jury, which charged 16 men said by police to be bookmakers with custodianship of bets and 19 merchants with setting up gaming devices—slot machines or pin-ball games.

Punishment for being custodian of a bet ranges from a fine of $500 to five years in prison. That for setting up a gaming device is imprisonment from six months to five years.

Names and business addresses of those charged with taking bets were given as follows: Marvin Hyde, 4260W Finney avenue; John L. Reinhardt and William Thorpe, 4388 Olive street; Edward M. Spotted, 4061 Olive; Maurice Lewis, 507 North Vandewater avenue; Joseph F. Moore, 2012 South Third Street; Mason Williams, 5612 South Grand boulevard; Ernest Goldstein, 612 Chestnut street; Edward Murphy and Lester Houston, 3627 Florissant avenue; William D. Kamp, 110 North Eighth street; Ben Cantor, 1712 Franklin avenue; William J. McCormack and Joseph J. Warner, 708 North Twelfth boulevard; Leslie Brophy, 310 North Jefferson avenue; Eddie Rovicks, 415 North Eighth.

The gaming device charges were based on police visits to nine restaurants, three drug stores, two taverns, two bowling alleys, a hotel, a confectionery and a cigar store. One indictment was against a woman.

Those charged with setting up the devices in restaurants and the addresses were listed as follows: Russell Jacques, 3405 Olive street; Melvin Simes, 3540 Gravoia avenue; Edward Denton, 102 North Sixth street; Julie Hartman, 1630 St. Charles street; Fred A. Campbell, 2409 North Broadway; William Bryan, 617 South Broadway; Travis Starr, 1212 Olive; Ernie Poston, 1618 Market street; Lee R. Huckle, 1309 North Grand boulevard.

The three charged with setting up gaming devices in drug stores and addresses of the stores: Robert T. Hill, 6830 Michigan avenue; Morris Mosheim, 6156 Pershing avenue; Robert G. Krewinghaus, 4067 Shaw boulevard.

Other indictments on the same charge were against Minnie Sansone, bowling alley, 934 North Broadway; Clifford de Wees, bowling alley, Grand boulevard and St. Louis avenue; Otis R. Canterbury, 6310 North Broadway; Clarence A. Sharum, tavern, 7820 North Broadway; Joseph Palmisano, hotel, 803 Chestnut street; William Klopfer, confectionery, 5650 Gravoia; Louis Tutinski, cigar store, 506 Pine street.

WOMAN JAILED IN DANZIG FOR SLANDER ON HITLER

Polish Citizen Gets Two Months; Three Weeks for One Who Cried 'Hell Moscow.'

DANZIG, April 26 (AP).—The Danzig Emergency Court sentenced Felixa Lawikowska, a Polish citizen, to two months' imprisonment for slandering Chancellor Hitler. Afterward she is to be expelled as an undesirable alien.

Shouting "Hell, Moscow," cost a 29-year-old Polish servant girl named Langowska three weeks in jail.

MISSOURI HOUSE PASSES ANOTHER SALES TAX BILL

Purpose Is to Meet Constitutional Points Left in Doubt by Earlier Measure.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 26 (AP).—A bill extending the 2 percent sales tax to Dec. 31, 1941, and broadening the enforcement powers of the State Auditor was passed by the House and sent to the Senate yesterday.

It was the second sales levy measure to go through the House this session. The first merely extended the tax for another two years, but the Attorney-General's office said this was not sufficient to establish constitutionality.

The first measure already has been considered by a Senate committee, which altered it to meet the Attorney-General's objections.

The bill passed yesterday would exempt sales of water and give the Auditor authority to employ additional counsel and investigators.

Other provisions are designed to put itinerant merchants and peddlers under the law and give the Auditor authority to employ additional counsel and investigators.

MIXED STOCK PRICE LIST FIRMS LATE SESSION

Rise in Copper Shares and Sharp Upturn in Eastman Kodak After Steels Lead Lower Trend — Trade More Active on Rally.

NEW YORK, April 26 (AP).—
A wide upturn in Eastman Kodak and a rise in copper shares set the stock market stage today for a mild rally.

Most shares regained losses of an early sell-off and some climbed to new gains of a point or more.
Eastman Kodak, conspicuous for its wide fluctuations recently, ran up about 6 points from the day's lowest price.

Trading was more active on the rally, but many speculators preferred to stay on the sidelines until Chancellor Hitler's speech Friday.
Transactions totaled 584,280 shares.
Generally stocks continued in the narrow path marked out last week.

U. S. Government bonds, still inclined to advance, illustrated the buying effect of a huge surplus of funds on better-grade bonds.
A further rise in world sugar prices and a mark-up in the domestic price of copper diverted more attention to commodities.

A point or more higher at the top of the rally in copper shares were American Smelting, Phelps
Dodge, Kennecott and Anaconda.
Steel fractions moved more than a point were General Motors, Chrysler, International Harvester, du Pont, Union Carbide and Caterpillar Tractor.

American Can and Dow Chemical were among the soft spots.
In the curb, modest gains were recorded for Electric Bond and Share, Dayton Rubber, Niagara Hudson, Aluminum of America was off 3/4 of a point.

At mid-afternoon the British pound was down 1/4 of a cent at $4.68. French francs were unchanged at 2.46 1/2.

The Eastman Kodak, recently on the decline, scoring the moderate buying orders revealed a strong position.
Brokers assumed the rebound probably was due to short-covering and buying in anticipation of the expiration tomorrow of rights to subscribe to additional shares of stock offered by the company a few weeks ago. While these extra shares were being absorbed, brokers noted, Eastman had been under pressure.

News of the Day.
Leading stocks were grouped at the start in apparent disappointment in financial circles over United States Steel's first quarter earnings report, showing a sharp fall in profit compared with the final period of 1938 despite heavier shipment costs and higher wages attributed to lower prices without readjustment of labor and other costs.

Copper shares found better support as a leading producer lifted the domestic price of the metal to 10 1/2 cents a pound.

The British budget and plans of various nations for accumulation of war stores helped direct attention to commodities. Sugar and raw silk, especially, have been influenced by events in Europe and the Orient and war preparations.

However, traders seemed unwilling to do much in the markets until they hear what Fuehrer Hitler has to say Friday in reply to President Roosevelt's peace message. England's move for conscription and heavier arms was seemed to have little immediate influence in Wall Street trading. The London market was said to have taken the tax proposals favorably.

Overnight developments.
The weekly review of the steel industry by "Iron Age" found that the shutdown of coal mines, while thus far a small influence, "was having a more marked effect on the steel situation."

The review said a dozen or so blast furnaces have been blown out or banked, some to conserve coal and coke, "others because of dwindling demand for steel products."

The survey said steel production might go slightly lower during May under the influence of declining demand and the restrictions on output dictated by coal economy.

The weekly review of electric power production by the Edison Electric Institute sounded a more optimistic note. Output was up more than seasonally expected to total 13.3 per cent over the preceding week and 12.7 per cent over the comparable week last year. The central industrial region contributed the largest year-to-year gain, 15.9 per cent.

Royal Visitors

By INEZ ROBB

WASHINGTON, April 26.

TO the social loop-holes, lads, the Red Coats are coming. During their last invasion, in the war of 1812, the Red Coats burned this capital down literally. Their impending visit is burning it up socially.

QUEEN ELIZABETH

The coming visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth of Great Britain in June has Washington society already exhausted from social wire pulling. Capital dignitaries, dowagers and debutantes are now engaged in better balancing, tight wire and juggling acts than those in Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey.

And all because Washington Society of all shades and degrees has a hankering and a determination to be included in that select little group of guests who are asked to break bread or toss off a cup of tea with British royalty during its two-day visit here.

It can hardly hope to be invited to that private—almost family—luncheon which the President and Mrs. Roosevelt will give at the White House on Thursday, June 8, for their majesties a few hours after the royal arrival in Washington.

BUT WHILE there's life, there's hope, and Washington big-wigs are pinning their social ambitions on three functions: the garden party for their majesties at the British Embassy on Thursday afternoon, the State dinner and reception at the White House on Thursday night, and the State dinner at the British Embassy on Friday night.

Shrewd social appraisers are convinced that their best bet is with the British Embassy. There is a feeling in the capital that the guests invited to the State dinner at the White House and even those bidden to the reception which follows will be so sternly determined by protocol that there isn't much hope for anyone outside strictly official circles.

The stately White House dining room, with its handsome walnut paneling, will seat no more than 100 guests, even in a royal pinch. It is anticipated that those who gather round the White House table on this triumphant social occasion will be entirely determined by protocol, or official position in Government—not social circles. This is a city hardened to the fact that ceremony at table is determined by what Senator, not what fork, comes first.

BUSY-BODIES feel that the State Department itself will have far more to do with the guest list for the State dinner and reception than the President and Mrs. Roosevelt. The department is expected to go over the list with a fine-toothed comb. Consequently, even Washington's flinty-eyed "cave dwellers," who comprise the oldest, most austere and aristocratic social strata here, can expect to sit home and twiddle their thumbs the night the White House is involved in the greatest social function in its history.

In view of this, experienced social campaigners feel that they are wise in buttering up the British Embassy staff, particularly the wives of Embassy attaches, and the cave dwellers have every right to expect that Lady Lindsay, wife of the British Ambassador and a cave dweller herself, will not forget them.

Just Wishing :- By Elsie Robinson

ALWAYS there is a wish going on inside you. No matter who you are, or what you are doing, always there is a wish going on inside you—turning, twisting, reaching out blindly toward something greater, something more free and proud and powerful than your present life. It is not a definite wish. You can't put it into words. You feel rather than think it, and sometimes that feeling is deeply overlaid with the rush of your outside life. But always the wish goes on inside you, night and day—like a wild song. But the song never sweetens into a sustaining harmony.

So your life comes to nothing, in spite of your continual wishing for greater things. Outwardly you are busy. You work furiously at many jobs. You boast that "there isn't a lazy bone in your body." You take chances; spare no effort to make good; yet your life comes to nothing. Your life comes to nothing because 75 per cent of its energy and initiative is wasted.

THAT WISH which is always going on inside you is the most important part of your life. All your outward assets and activities which seem so important are trivial in comparison with that inner urgency. Your strong body, with its muscles and organs—your physical health—your mental preparedness—your education—your social position—your job—all these things, which seem so valuable to you, are trivial beside that secret wonder and restlessness which possesses you.

That impulse, which spends itself fruitlessly in so many directions—in day dreams, in self-pity, in a tumult of imaginary rebellions and triumphs—is actually the mainspring of your life. It is your most valuable asset, your fiercest force. With it you could accomplish miracles if you would use it as a force.

But you don't! Chances are, you never even thought of it as a force. All your life a wish has been going on inside you, but you have thought it "just one of those things." You have never considered it seriously, never tried to control or direct it, never tried to shape it into any definite purpose or power.

THAT INNER urgency can be concentrated, controlled, trained, directed, just as your muscles can be controlled and directed. When you are still a baby you learn how to reach, how to clutch with your hands without fumbling or stumbling, without lost motion. By exactly the same use of will power you can train yourself how to reach, how to clutch, with your mind. You can train your wishes just as you can train your hands.

Every human being who has ever amounted to anything, has had to do it. No man or woman ever achieved any sort of success by outward efforts, outward contacts. They achieve success by harnessing that wish which was going on inside them—by putting that wish to work. So wish for something—instead of just wishing!

Do Not Permit Child to Play Alone in House

The More Youngsters Present, the Greater Are Possibilities for Trouble.

By Angelo Patri

"MOTHER, this Saturday is my day for having the meeting of the sewing club. I don't want to take them to grandmother's. I'd rather have them here, in our house. Can't I, mother?"

"No, you cannot. If it were safe for you to have the run of the house I would have given you the key long ago, and saved your grandmother the care of you. You know that I will be working all day and that Saturday is my long day. I couldn't have you and a lot of girls here alone. Grandmother said you could have them there. That ought to satisfy you."

"I don't want to go to grandmother's. We can't have any fun. What is it you want to do that Gran would not allow? Don't you see that you are saying that you cannot be trusted? Your grandmother gives you more freedom than their mothers give your friends. And that isn't enough. No. You hold your meeting at grandmother's."

"All the other girls have their homes for meetings. I'm the only one that can't."

"Nobody is sorer than I am for that, and you know it. Child, don't you see you are not the only one concerned here? How about the 10 or 12 little girls? Suppose they met with an accident here, what could I say to their mothers? What could you say?"

"You are childish, which is exactly the reason you cannot have the freedom of the house without an older person in charge."

"If grandmother came here, could I?"

"Would you ask Gran, with all she has to do, to come here when you could just as well go there? Who would attend to grandmother, and Aunt Emily?"

"They could wait until she got back."

"I didn't think you could be as selfish as that. Sick old people, and they can wait for attention until your party is over?"

"She needn't stay all the time. She can go back early."

"You're impossible. Once for all, you cannot have the key to the house until you are responsible and prove it to me and your grandmother."

"That's the only answer to this situation. The possibilities for trouble for the child left alone in a house for any length of time are hair-raising. They increase by the square of the number of playmates. It simply can't be done."

And how about the older children who want keys so they may come and go without disturbing the family. They are to have their keys as soon as they show they are responsible people. Age does not enter here. Reason and judgment and common sense are all important. Some young people at 15 are more able to manage their own affairs than others of 20 and over. Responsibility, as shown in behavior, is the basis for self-management. Driving cars, using latch keys, using charge accounts are privileges to be granted on this idea.

TRAVELING COME-BACK TRAIL

Six Players, Considered "Through," Rise to New Heights of Film Popularity

ANN SOTHERN SCORED A HIT IN "TRADE WINDS."

GEORGE BRENT—HE WAS ON THE WAY OUT.

By Harold Heffernan

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., April 26.

"WHERE has he been all this time? Somebody certainly should have told me about him!" So ran the conversation in the Hollywood executive corridors the morning after the preview of Deanna Durbin's "Three Smart Girls Grown Up."

The producers were whining about young Robert Cummings, a little envious because a rival studio had snared one of the most promising comebacks of the year. Thumbing the blue books, the lords of Hollywood discovered to their amazement that there was nothing new about Cummings. He was a typical Hollywood football. He had been "in pictures," but had been kicked around the lots for nearly four years. Part of that time he was under contract to Paramount, where he had played youthful heavies and secondary leads in unimportant movies. A couple of months ago, that studio passed his option.

The Cummings case is no rarity out here, as 1939's imposing array of comebacks will prove. At least half a dozen fine actors and actresses consigned to Hollywood graveyards have risen in the first quarter of the current year to confound their old bosses. Probably no other like period in recent screen history has witnessed so many once-important personalities populating the comeback trail.

Early in the year, Ann Sothern, Bob had no trouble landing the role of an Englishman in Charles all other lots, dropped a bombshell Hopkins' production of Galway's among the producers through a scintillating comedy performance in "Trade Winds." Ann stole first acting honors from Fredric March and Joan Bennett, and now is back on a spot where she can sort the offers.

Cummings' comeback is the strangest of all. He's only 28 and yet his career seems to have been one long succession of battles for recognition. He's been around a bit, too, since his birth in Joplin, Mo., and his education at Carnegie Tech. Bitten by the stage bug, he tried to get a chance on Broadway but was rebuffed. Producers didn't want any part of him. Now, they said, if he were a young British actor...

Cummings borrowed $200, sailed for England, bought a motorcycle, toured the country, learned English accent and idiom and got an idea. He had his picture taken in front of a small theater in the hinterlands, standing near a lobby card announcing the engagement of one Blade Stanhope Conway. (He chose the name because it sounded enclosed in his letters, Bob wrote back to Broadway agents, telling them that Blade Stanhope Conway, star of a number of (imaginary) British plays, sought American engagements. The cables from Broadway almost swamped his little furnished room.

With his new broad-A accent and a superficial knowledge of England, Cummings had no trouble landing the role of an Englishman in Charles all other lots, dropped a bombshell Hopkins' production of Galway's

"The Roof" starring Henry Hull, Jackie Cooper and Sybil Jason. His second engagement as the English leading man in Earl Carroll's Vanities saw his name in lights. He was in the Ziegfeld Follies of 1933-'34 and '35.

Remembering the efficacy of an unfortunate series of roles and bluff, Bob pretended to be a boy bad pictures behind him, was deftly from the wide open spaces of Texas into his way out when Betty when Douglas McLean, producer, wanted a Western type for his picture, "So Red the Rose." Paraspurred by Betty's performance, far mount then decided the young man had a future in films. Apparently the studio was right, for the future has just caught up with him—except that his future will be at Universal.

JOHNN WAYNE'S return was more sensational. Nine years ago, Fox launched a blatant publicity campaign about him, first serving him to the public in a costly Western epic, "The Big Trail." The picture sputtered into a dismal flop, Wayne took a dive along with it. But, on the strength of the publicity he had gained, Wayne managed to keep going—as a cow opera hero in 10-day quickies. Stuck for a while, because she was "too grown up" to play the part of a little slave, the now 10-year-old Sybil turned on her looked. How correct Wanger was became evident when "Stage Coach" hit the screens. He owns a nice contract today and has no more immediate worries.

George Brent and the youthful offers since the film's release.

Chicken Chow Mein. Try making it at home; you will enjoy it. Fry one package of fine noodles in deep fat until brown. Cut one pound cooked chicken into thin strips and cook for five minutes in two tablespoons olive oil. Add one teaspoon cornstarch and one cup chicken stock and simmer for three minutes. In another pan put two tablespoons olive oil, two large minced onions and cook for five minutes. Add one bunch of celery cut into small pieces, one-fourth pound shredded mushrooms, one can bean sprouts, drained from the liquor, and cook for 10 minutes. Combine the two mixtures, season and color with soy sauce and pour over the fried noodles. Garnish with a row of walnuts that have been fried in butter one minute, fine shreds of noodles and strips of minced onions and cook for five minutes.

Physician Gives Advice on Care Of Child's Teeth

Warns First Permanent Molar Is Often Mistaken for Temporary Tooth.

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

THE most important tooth in head is the first permanent tooth. And how many parents reading this statement, even though they have the responsibility of the care of children at this critical age, can tell exactly which tooth is the first permanent tooth? It would be natural to conceive of the first permanent tooth as pushing one of the temporary ones out of the jaw. But it doesn't do that. It comes in behind the temporary teeth and doesn't displace any at all. And it looks, from its position, exactly like one of the temporary teeth.

Those front incisors—the two "baby" teeth in front—look like the first permanent teeth. But before they have pushed their way into a cold and unfriendly world, the real first permanent teeth are securely in place and thoroughly erupted.

They come in and this is the first important thing to remember—at about the sixth year; fifth or sixth, there is some leeway in time.

As to their position, they are the first molars—the first coming from the front of the three large grinders in the back of the jaws. They erupt, exactly behind the last of the temporary teeth and, as I have said, look like part of the temporary teeth.

Now why are they the most important teeth in the jaw? Because they are liable to be taken for temporary teeth, and if they become infected or begin to decay, everybody says, "Oh, that's just a temporary tooth; don't bother to fill it. Let it drop out."

And many of them do drop out, and when they do there is a defect in the masonry of the jaw.

These are keystone teeth, and if they are lost in childhood the whole jaw, so far as teeth architecture is concerned, may be weakened. The neighboring teeth begin to lean into the hole left by removal of the first molar, and thus lose the firm hold of the roots. Eventually the whole arch becomes weakened.

And, in the meantime, the long-anticipated, theoretical permanent tooth does not come in to replace the so-called temporary lost one.

The dietary habits of children are also important in making for good adult teeth.

It used to be preached that all dental decay was due to bacterial infection and all emphasis was placed on the cleanliness of the mouth. Candy was regarded with abhorrence because it caused tooth decay by providing in its sweet bits that adhered to the teeth a good medium for the growth of bacteria. Other food particles were also suspected.

I still personally believe there is a great deal in this now old-fashioned idea. I believe in the tooth brush, tooth powder, and I agree that the tooth-pick is the dentist's apple ("a tooth-pick a day keeps him away" idea).

The modern view that a diet including plenty of milk, fresh vegetables and fruits and cod-liver oil to build calcium in the teeth is certainly not contradictory to this.

The Beautiful By Arthur

CHAPTER 18. THE history of the waltz can be followed back through more than 400 years. As early as the sixteenth century it was generally popular as a round dance, in which form it was known as a volte. In most of the old books on dancing it is claimed that the volte first made its appearance in Italy, spreading somewhat later to France and Germany.

Since the sixteenth century the waltz has done plenty of traveling, often under a heavy incognito. More than a hundred different dances contained variations of the waltz step, notably the galop, so-called, Boston, and hop waltzes. These were evolved in such widely separate parts of the world as rural Bohemia and America, and some of them enjoyed a great vogue for a considerable number of years.

The twentieth century took the waltz to its heart and has kept it there, except for a brief lull, ever since. The lull, by the way, was a blundering in disguise, for the waltz was almost reversed until 1913 as the hesitation, which exploited the astonishing discovery that the waltz could be something besides a continuous whirling.

Until the arrival of the hesitation, our grandparents waltzed by turning in one direction until dizzy, and then reversing until ready to drop. They looked for all the world like a congress of whirling dervishes or a collection of human tops. In fact, the waltz had degenerated into an endurance contest, with the winner's prowess measured by his ability to remain standing upright longer than the other dancers.

IF YOU ASK My OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

Dear Mrs. Carr: ABOUT a year and a half ago I met a widower with whom I have been going steadily ever since. He is a real man, good character, high moral standards, and I love him unselfishly and devotedly. We are very congenial, have everything in common. We are miserable apart and would like to be married. But he has two children. The son is very fond of me, but the daughter, who has been married and divorced, would resent any woman accepting her father's attentions and is strictly opposed to her father's getting married. We were already making plans to be married when she came home to live. She is past her middle twenties and has a good position.

I want to win her love and confidence regardless of her attitude because she is his daughter but am puzzled as to what steps to take. I have worked with girls of her age for a number of years and it seems to me that I should get along splendidly. I have a cheerful disposition and get along well with others. Do you think she might cause friction between her and I? We want peace and harmony in our home. She knows her father is unhappy living as he is and one would think it would make her glad to know her father could have the happiness he is entitled to.

Children are often as selfish about their parents' marriages as parents are about their children's. It seems that this is a matter for the man himself to settle. Let him tell her privately first his plans to marry, then perhaps you can arrange to talk to her yourself and with your experience with girls her age, you should be able to win her friendship. Tell her you realize her natural feelings toward her father and that you have no intentions of coming between them, that she is welcome to make her home with you as long as she wants. She should be made to realize that her father has his own life apart from her and it need not interfere with their relationship, and while her father naturally hesitates to bring on her disapproval he is not fair to himself or to you in not taking a firm stand.

Dear Mrs. Carr: I AM WRITING to ask if you or your readers know if there are any correspondence courses in elocution and if they are successful. Also after you have finished the course, will they help you get on the radio? AIR MINDED.

I do not know of any such courses and doubt if they would be very successful in training the voice by long distance methods. Why not consult the local drama schools. You would have more chance of getting to local radio stations through them than through an outside school.

Dear Mrs. Carr: PLEASE TELL ME what is an appropriate wrap for summer formal wear. Also, can you give me a remedy to overcome oily hair? ELIZABETH.

My first choice, if you are slender would be a bolero jacket either in white or some other light color which harmonizes with the dress to be worn. However, a loose, three-quarter length coat would be pretty, too. It should be light both in color and weight. For information about your hair, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope and I will send you my pamphlet, "Care of the Hair."

Dear Mrs. Carr: IN ANSWER TO the letter from "Fishing Fever," I am giving you recipe for making dough bait: One cup cornmeal, one cup flour, one tablespoon salt and enough water to make stiff mix. Pick up, mix and cut off small bits with fork or spoon and drop in boiling water. When fish rise to surface, they are done. Remove and place on paper to dry. Optional variations: Some add chopped bits of bacon or bacon rind to flour-cornmeal mix. A chopped button of garlic in the boiling water makes bait attractive to carp. Don't roll the flour-cornmeal mix into balls. Rough, irregular shape is more attractive to fish. H. T. M.

Thank you and all the others who sent in recipes for dough bait.

Jeanne Schulte, 18-Year-Old St. Louis Skating Star, Who Has Won Titles in State and National Contests, Will Perform at N. Y. World's Fair.

The Cuts

WHILE the rest of us have been oiling up the electric fans and planning clothes that will approximate an irreducible minimum for a sweltering summer, Jeanne Schulte has been sharpening up her ice skates and fingering her fur-trimmed frocks with pleasure. No madness in her method, Jeanne is merely preparing for a summer of being kept on ice, for she will be among the girls who will cut a fine figure in the "Sun Valley Winter Wonderland," a feature of the New York World's Fair.

Jeanne, or Jenna (long "a," please), as she is known professionally, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Schulte, 5261 Gilmore avenue. She has participated in everything skatable around these parts ever since she first slid onto the ice nine years ago. Now 18, Jeanne has enough medals to hem one of her flaring skating skirts and managed to skate off with championships in state, midwestern and national competitions before turning professional last spring. After spending a morning with this junior skating marvel, we came away with two distinct impressions. First of all she is neither temperamental, affected, spoiled brat and secondly she doesn't want to get into the movies.

"Several years ago I had an offer to appear in a movie short," she explained, "but I was an amateur then and didn't accept. Now I don't think I'd want to be in pictures. Of course Sonia Henie's marvelous, but she looked reflective. If this movie stars lead an awfully hard life, don't you?"

To the comment that skating did not strike the average idler as a snap either, she made quick denials. "Skating's not hard work at all, not even the five shows a day we'll do at the fair. But," she added laughing, "I thought it was when I started skating. You see, I didn't want to learn to skate at all. It was my father's idea. He liked to skate and wanted me and my sister, May Rose, to learn. But role in the "Cinderella" pageant presented at the Arena, and the next year added to her collection of medals and championships by winning the Missouri State and the Midwestern ladies' championships. Last spring she made her first professional appearance at Colorado Springs, Colo. She spent another cool summer last year in the ice show at the College Inn, Hotel Sherman, Chicago, and a cooler winter at Petoskey, Mich., a winter resort and a small edition of Sun Valley, where she was instructed and planned the annual ice pageant, directing the 70 performers.

"That was the biggest thrill I've ever had," she said, "growing enthusiastic. It's fun seeing what can actually be accomplished. We had penguins—those were the little children—and gnomes, and a ballet of older girls, and of course a fairy queen. A light snow was falling the night of the pageant and it was really thrilling."

Slightly less thrilling was Jeanne's try at ski-ing, another native Petoskey sport which St. Louisans rarely experience.

"The first day I went out I skied in the afternoon and tried the last hill just before dark," she related. "Someone else had gone down just before me, but they didn't tell me there was a snow drift at the bottom. I went down the hill with all my might and head first into the snow drift. All you could see was my legs and skis sticking out. When they dug me out I was covered with snow and my hair was stiff with ice. It wasn't very dignified for the teacher."

"I think I'll go back to Petoskey next winter because I enjoyed teaching there so much. In fact in the future I intend doing more teaching and less performing. That's because I have, as the diet question, 'and my two big things are sleeping, and drinking the secret to the son of the president of a bank. I don't know why I picked on a bank, but it sounded nice. When I graduated from Rosati-Kain, I went to business college, intending to take a long secretarial course and then look for the bank and the president's son, but the day before the course was over I had a telegram from the College Inn, so I left right away. I've never gone back, even for my books." Nor, we might add, for the banker's son.

Right now her six months' contract with Grover Whalen's little fiesta is foremost in Jeanne's mind. Before the indoor skating season closed she practiced three times a day, but now she keeps in condition by bicycling and horseback riding. Exercise to keep her limber is her only training routine.

"My appetite's so big it embarrasses me," she said, disposing of the diet question, "and my two big things are sleeping, and drinking the secret to the son of the president of a bank. I don't know why I picked on a bank, but it sounded nice. When I graduated from Rosati-Kain, I went to business college, intending to take a long

Dear Mrs. Post: I HAVE been invited by a girl to spend the week-end at her house and to go to a dance that her school is giving on Saturday evening. I haven't ever had the opportunity to invite this girl anywhere as I just met her late last summer and right after that went away to school. I intend to see that she has flowers to wear at the dance, but there is something nice I could do for her mother, too?

Answer: Nothing more than the flowers to your own friend could possibly be expected of you, but if you would like to take something to her mother, a few flowers for the house, or a box of candy would be equally suitable. But as I have said, it is not necessary or even expected.

Dear Mrs. Post: My fiancé and one of the men in the wedding are in the army but the other men in the wedding party are not. In this mixed situation may the two army men wear their dress uniforms, when the other men are wearing civilian clothes?

Answer: If the other man in uniform is to be best man, then this will be quite proper since it is not necessary that the clothes of the ushers match those of the groom; but if the best man is to wear civilian clothes, one usher alone in a uniform, then the answer depends on military regulation. If they are permitted to wear civilian clothes, it would make a more pleasing—as well as correct—picture if all the ushers dressed alike. But if the mixture is not avoidable, then it will be all right. (There were plenty of such mixtures of course during the years of the war.)

Dear Mrs. Post: Which is correct? He wears a cane or he carries a cane? Answer: "He carries a stick" is correct. Cane is not wrong but neither is it at present in fashion.

Dear Mrs. Post: Would it be proper for me to accept an invitation of my boy friend to go with him and his family to the New York Fair this summer? I would like to go very much but mother feels that this would not look right to other people.

Answer: Taking it for granted that you have been invited by the boy's mother, it would be entirely proper unless your mother disapproves of this boy and his family.

ON BROADWAY

By Walter Winchell

The New York Scene. THE FIRST NIGHTS: Author S. N. Behrman did better than all right when his "No Time for Comedy" shuffled into the Barrymore, but the ringmaster salutes were for the star, K. Cornell. . . . Absent from the stage for a pair of seasons, Miss Cornell inspired the boys to revive her special adjective—"Lustrous." "Lustrous" and "Slumbrous" . . . Incidentally, Mr. Behrman's title is a synopsis of a recent essay by Robt. Sherwood, his associate. The world was so messy, Mr. Sherwood found, it was no time for him to trifle with comedy. . . . "Pins & Needles," a hit in its second year, added a half dozen new mockeries which won renewed burrs from the capitalistic press. . . . "Mexicana," a revue from below the Rio Grande, went on sale to the local ringneers. . . . Failure of the Critics' Circle to choose their Miss America of the dramas after three hours of balloting ought to spike the whisper that they huddle at intermission and decide on whether to bless or butcher the night's offering.

The magic lanterns: Repeats in all the de lusers slowed up the bookings last week. . . . "Back Door to Heaven," filmed across the river with a cast of local stage artists, gets good acting, but its yarn—all about being picked up by the coppers—is so wood-pulp you can almost find splinters in it. Wallace Ford and Aline MacMahon give it most of its shimmer. Warners' "Zola" movie is rated by many as "better than Zola."

The studios are backing some of the cowhorn theaters, hopeful of digging up a few recruits. On the theory that it's easier to buy a new face than to save an old one. . . . The wireless: That waitabait, "I Promise You," is rivaling the quizzes for air repeats, getting sabbier as the night grows older and romantic. The steps are smooth and gliding—the pattern of the dance is gay and joyful. And because the waltz steps are so basic—so much the foundation for many other dances—it will pay you to learn to waltz well. The good waltzer is generally an all-around good dancer.

Tomorrow: The Accent in the Waltz. . . . The Federal Theater's version of "Christ in Concrete" was substantial drama. Pietro Di Donato, the clever author, is a bricklayer. . . . There's a sustaining tenor in the morning shows who could probably make a good living as a police car siren. A dagger couldn't pierce you deeper than his nasal squeals.

The Front Pages: J. B. Priestly, the British playwright, draws another bead on his favorite target, the Yankee press. Last fall, grieves Mr. P., the U. S. papers high-lighted only one side of the Munich affair, forgetting that Chamberlain represented only a single faction. . . . Yes, but the Old Umbrella Main was playing quarterback, and our papers were only reporting how he ran the game. . . . James Gordon Dustin, writing in Your Life that many big shots are bashful, mentions Charles A. Dana, the firecracker of the old Sun, and Westbrook Pegler as milquetoasts. . . . Sure, we know people who've been crippled by Pegler's blazes. . . . Strange, wasn't it? About "The Little Foxes" winning the most votes of the critics on magazines (only two daily critics) and "Lustrous" winning most of the votes from daily newspaper sages (five).

The Story Tellers: Edna St. Vincent Millay's five war poems in Harper's hit you harder than a snow-blast. . . . The right hook: We defy you to forget the lines: "The world is in an accident, has died perhaps already—ambulance! ding-ding!" . . . Theater Arts Monthly favors printing the names of people discussed on the cover, instead of the writers. It gives them better people to brag about like Duse, Odets, Gielgud. Why not Shakespeare? . . . Foto gets very hoity-toity with the Kentucky Derby, calling it every kind of a honky-tonk and making faces at the belles who promenade on race day—a pistol offense down among the colonels. . . . Stage prints a photo that ought to be in a museum: Don Ameche being out-smiled, Binnie Barnes exposes a wider range of nice teeth. . . .

Dispute Over Correct Way To Play Hand

Analysis Shows B Took Better Advantage Of Opportunities Than Did A.

By Ely Culbertson

"DEAR MR. CULBERTSON: The following hand, dealt in a team-of-four match, caused a dispute between the two Souths who played it: "West dealer. "Both sides vulnerable. "QJ763 "AK52 "A9 "Q876

NORTH EAST SOUTH WEST "A52 "Q10 "QJ743 "K42

"The bidding was the same at both tables, East and West passing throughout: North, one heart; South, two diamonds; North, two hearts; South, two no trump; North, three no trump. West led the spade nine. "At one table A, playing South, decided to run off the hearts at once. He overtook East's spade king and led the queen of hearts, which West covered. Dummy's ace took the trick and a heart was led back to South's 10. The queen of diamonds was led through and passed by West. South then led a low diamond to dummy's ace, cashed the jack of hearts, and not catching the eight, was down no matter how he played the rest of the hand.

"B, the other South, seeing that he would have to use both red suits to make his contract, and that, unless West held the king of diamonds singleton or doubleton, one diamond trick must surely be lost, decided to take that loss before trying out the hearts. He therefore passed East's king as part insurance against a five-three spade break. East, correctly diagnosing his partner's lead, returned his 10 of spades to knock out dummy's queen. South led dummy's ace of diamonds and followed with the nine, which was covered by the 10, jack and king. West's spade return went to South, dummy discarding a club. South now cashed his three diamonds, discarding a heart and two clubs from dummy. The discards were less easy for the opponents. West shed a club on the second lead and a heart on the third. East did the same. The queen of hearts was covered by the king and ace, and the seven was returned to South's 10. South now led the king of clubs and was home, since West had to concede the last trick to dummy's attack was safer. "A insists that B was merely lucky, since his making of the hand hinged on an even break in the diamonds, a lie of the cards no more likely than an even break in hearts, for which he played. B contends that his attack was safer, since (a) it gave a little more safety as to the spade suit and (b) it permitted him to try for a break in the hearts if the diamonds didn't fall. The general voice here seems to agree with him. Is there any flaw in his arguments or a safer way of playing the hand?"

"A. E. C. Evanston, Ill." Close analysis of the respective line of play used in this hand must result in approval of B's choice. Perhaps B was a bit lucky to bring home the contract, but the fact remains that he took better advantage of his opportunity than did A. The point he made to the effect that it would be necessary to attack both red suits at some period in order to insure line tricks was well taken, and the club ace on side, which would make the club queen an entry to dummy's hearts. A's main contention was wrong. He claimed that he needed no better heart break than B needed spade break. By going out for diamonds, B could well stand the diamond king doubleton or triplet in East's hand, whereas A would have needed a magnificent break of hearts (3-3 with the king on side), or, failing that, would have had to find extra tricks in clubs or diamonds.

My vote must be cast for B's line of play.

CHAPTER SIXTEEN.

"MADAME, she listened to me today. She listened for more than half an hour. Maybe she didn't promise, but you know how she is, she'll let you go soon to New York. I am more encouraged about the audition today than I have been for many months, child, for years!"

Ricco wiped his eyes with his handkerchief, and blew his nose loudly. His interview with Mrs. Emery had been the most satisfactory he had ever had. He had hurried away from her to the guest house, tears in his eyes; joy in his heart.

"Mr. Johnson, he will appreciate your voice. It will be the beginning for you, child, and for me, too, for I have never had such a voice as yours."

He took the girl's hand and patted it tenderly. "The audience, it will be soon, I feel that! I know that!"

She went through the exercises of her lesson mechanically. The voice which she heard didn't seem to be hers. It seemed to belong to someone else, and when she heard it, she felt she was listening to someone else.

Jeff was gone. His train had gone that morning. Over and over while she was singing, she was telling herself that he was gone, and that she was alone.

When the lesson was over, she tried to enter into Ricco's enthusiasm about the coming audition, but she couldn't.

It had been what she was living for before she met Jeff, and now that Ricco thought it was so near, it meant nothing to her.

The first praise he had given her on her work for several weeks fell, too, on her as numbly as the news of the audition.

His praise didn't mean anything today—the praise she always looked for so eagerly. She wondered after he was gone, and she was looking down at the ring Jeff had given her, whether it ever would again and whether, when she went to the Metropolitan for her audition, she would get any thrill from it.

"I should have gone with him," she told Billy when she met him hurrying to the main gates. "He was so right about my going."

Billy felt, too, that she should have gone with Jeff, but he didn't have time to stop and talk to her. There was so little time, and he had so much to do. Tonight perhaps, when all his preparations were made, he would stop awhile and they could talk.

He had been busy since early morning. First, the walk to Bingham's, where he had picked up a ride to town, then hanging around

SYNOPSIS

ANDREA MARQUAND, 21, loves JEFFREY WESTCOTT, handsome geologist who is vacationing in a cabin near Emery Park. MRS. EDITH EMERY, wealthy owner of the estate, is Andrea's patroness, and has a contract whereby she has financed Andrea's musical education for eight years as well as paid all the expenses of the Marquand family. The accumulated debt has reached $175,000. In return, Andrea must allow Mrs. Emery to mold her life, preparatory to a debut in opera. ALBERTO RICCO, Andrea's voice teacher, and KYLE NEWTON, Mrs. Emery's secretary who secretly loves Andrea, believe the girl is ready for her career. In a lesson, Jeff calls on Mrs. Emery and tells her he wants to marry Andrea and assume her debt. Mrs. Emery asks Andrea to sing for them. That night Maria, the cook, and Mrs. Emery have a private conversation. Afterward, Andrea and Billy notice Maria's unusually good singing. Mrs. Emery's attorney, MR. ROGERS, offers to sell Jeff Andrea's contract for $700,000 and when Jeff suggests Andrea and he can leave for South America, Rogers reminds him Mrs. Emery is an influential stockholder in the company for which Jeff works. Andrea tells Jeff she can wait two years for him, and at Billy's request asks her mother if Billy can go with Jeff to South America. Andrea thinks Billy is not very disappointed with his mother's refusal.

Talking with some boys who were planning to do what he was going to do tonight. Hop a freight for New York. Billy didn't know anything about hopping freights, except what he had read. He didn't know what he could take with him on his journey, nor the best way to go about it.

In an hour he had gathered all the information he thought necessary. The freight was leaving at 10 o'clock on which he intended to bum his way to New York.

That would barely give him time to have dinner with the family and he had to do, hitch hike a ride to town after dinner, and get to the place beyond the junction where his four new friends would be waiting. There were certain preparations he had to make in the meantime.

 COOL COLORADO

By Ripley

● Name your pleasure! Colorado offers an endless variety of places to go and things to do. "Rough it" in cabin or chalet or choose from a host of inviting hotels and resorts. Hike, ride, fish, swim, golf, or camp in the beautiful and invigorating Colorado Rockies.

Costs Are Surprisingly Low

This summer, a 21-day round trip ticket from St. Louis costs only $31.65. In addition, Burlington offers special excursion tickets for coach or chair car travel as low as $27.35 round trip from St. Louis each Saturday and Sunday, from July 8 to August 6. Economy meals served to coach, chair car and tourist car passengers.

All-expense, conducted 7-day coach tours as low as $71.85 round trip from St. Louis to Colorado.

Choice of Routes—Air-Conditioned Luxury

Leave St. Louis at 2:00 any afternoon this summer. Go direct—or for the thrill of riding nearly 1,000 miles on the famous stainless steel, diesel-powered DENVER ZEPHYR, go by way of Burlington, Iowa. Either way, you glide into Denver early the next morning.
